City Votes on Transit Plan Today

FRENCH TROOPS AND CIVILIANS QUIT DAMASCUS

Syria Charges Paris Plotted Disorder

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 3 [Reuters]—The evacuation of French troops and families—at present under the protection of British arms in Syrian cities and towns—is now being carried out.

In Damascus, movement of troops from barracks has gone on thruout the day. There were 3,000 French troops in the garrison, and they are proceeding to a special camp near Mezze airdrome, about five miles west of the capital.

French civilians thruout Syria are likely to be evacuated to a special transit camp at Beirut [Beyrouth].

Evacuation of the French troops in Damascus is being carried out along quiet roads at quiet times, such as the siesta hour, to avoid demonstrations. Already French armor has withdrawn to the Mezze concentration area.

British Inquiry Under Way

A British military commission has begun an inquiry into alleged looting and shooting of hostages. Under investigation are the circumstances surrounding the death of 19 Syrian gendarmes, who were found apparently hastily buried in a fortification trench at Mezze.

Damascus returned to something like normal. Shops began to reopen. A parade of 150 officers and men from a British cruiser lying off Beirut was enthusiastically cheered by the small crowd which saw it.

Acting Premier Jamil Mardam Bey denied that Syrians started the recent trouble, but announced Syria's willingness to answer any such charges. He offered full facilities to any international commission which desired to investigate French assertions that Syrians attacked French installations.

Mardam said that latest estimates of Syrian casualties in Damascus during last week were 400 killed, 100 missing believed killed, and 500 wounded, of whom 300 to 400 are being treated in their own homes.

The council of the Arab league will meet in Cairo tomorrow to discuss the Levant crisis.

Attack Planned, Mardam Says

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 3 (AP)—Acting Premier Jamil Mardam Bey declared tonight that the French had intended to trap Syrian deputies and cabinet members at work in parliament house when the attack on Damascus began last Tuesday.

"We know the plot was much greater than first believed," the acting premier said. "Parliament was supposed to meet Tuesday. The French planned to attack the

FOUR POWER CONTROL MEETING DELAYED; MAY BE HELD TODAY

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 3 (AP)—The four power allied control council, represented by Gen. Eisenhower, Field Marshal Montgomery, Marshal Zhukov, and Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, may not meet until tomorrow, despite an announcement the meeting was scheduled in Berlin late today.

The fact that the official press party taking correspondents left Paris about 4 p. m. today, and must stop at Frankfurt on the Main means that the party will not reach Berlin until nearly 9 p. m. Supreme headquarters officials at 6 p. m. said they had no information.

Five correspondents representing the entire allied press were selected by lot to report the meeting. They are Roy Porter of N. B. C., representing radio correspondents; Joseph Grigg, United Press, representing news agencies; Drew Middleton, New York Times, representing individual newspaper correspondents; Henry Griffen, Associated Press, representing photographers, and one French newsreel camera man.

Elect Judges, Pass on Bonds of 50 Million

Election Facts

POLLS OPEN—From 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

MAIN BALLOT—Coalition ticket of 20 Circuit and 4 Superior court candidates.

SPECIAL BALLOTS—Chicago Transit authority (voted on in Chicago and Elmwood Park); amendment to Municipal court act; $24,000,000 park bond issue; six Chicago bond issues.

PRECINCTS — Chicago, 3,812; country towns, 150 open out of 784.

Creation of a metropolitan transit authority to purchase and operate Chicago's surface, elevated, and subway systems will be up to Chicago voters today. Ballots for "yes" or "no" on this and propositions including 50 million dollars in bond issues will be voted on in all of the city's 3,812 polling places. Voters will handle five ballots.

Almost lost in the shuffle will be the primary reason for the voting—election of 24 Circuit and Superior court judges at $17,000 a year each. Interest has been diverted because there is only one slate, under a Democratic label, representing the coalition choices of both parties.

Vote in Elmwood Park

Elmwood Park is the only suburb scheduled to vote on the transit plan, and all of its polling places will be open. In other suburbs, except Evanston, a few polls will be open for the judicial vote. Evanston has a municipal judge contest.

Other suburban communities are expected to vote on the transit plan later, most of them in special elections.

The Kelly-Green plan, approved by the legislature and the Chicago city council, includes a contemplated offer of 87 million dollars for the street car and the elevated lines. It is based on hopes that this money can be borrowed on bonds secured only by earnings—therefore no public bond issue is attached to the proposal on the ballot today.

24 Millions for Parks

Largest of the seven bond issues up to be voted on today is for 24 million dollars to start a 10 year program of the Chicago park district, which eventually would cost 60 millions.

On the Chicago bond issue ballot is a proposition for a 2 million dollar bond issue for 50 neighborhood playgrounds. The playgrounds are to be either a block or half a block in area.

The city also seeks a nest egg for a 100 million dollar public housing program by seeking approval of a 5 million dollar bond issue. This starter fund, to be matched by 5 million dollars in state funds under a bill pending in the legislature, would be the basis for a request for a 90 million dollar federal loan.

For post-war airport developments the city wants voters to approve a 15 million dollar bond issue. This is the only bond item not approved by the Civic federation, a nonpartisan body, which objects that there is no definite plan for use of the money.

Other Bond Issues

Other bond issues are 2 millions for police and fire department buildings, 1½ millions for purchase of refuse disposal equipment, and $500,000 for garages and a repair shop for this equipment.

The fifth ballot offers the voters the proposal of amending the Municipal court act so that bailiffs and clerks can be paid up to $3,500 a year instead of $2,500.

New judges on the Circuit court as a result of unopposed voting will be Elmer J. Schnackenberg, former Republican speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, and Thomas J. Courtney, former Democratic state's attorney. Leonard C. Reid, recently appointed to a vacancy in the Circuit court by Gov. Green as a prelude to today's vote, will be up for a full term.

On the Superior court Charles E. Byrne, Democrat, will fill the James F. Fardy vacancy. Edwin A. Robson, Republican, will fill the Oscar F. Nelson vacancy, and John M. Tuohy, Democrat, will fill the William H. McSurely vacancy.

1,200 Illinois Warriors Meet as Good Neighbors on Guam

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, June 3—Today was Illinois day in this far Pacific outpost. For several hours more than 1,200 of the state's warriors from all branches of the service held a sizable beachhead on the steaming, palm clothed shore of Tuman bay in an atmosphere of warm hearted neighborliness on a scale entirely new to the mighty island fortress.

Harry L. Snyder

Response to the get-together summons far outstripped the expectations and plans of the two Chicago Seabees who called the convention. Even before it got under way the gathering devolved into good natured chaos, but no matter.

Late at Own Party

Credit for Illinois day on Guam belongs to Boatswain's Mate 2d Class William H. Mabry, 31, of 6621 Laflin st., and Laundryman 3d Class Harry L. Snyder, 41, of 1318 Wilson av. Conceiving the idea six weeks ago, the two enlisted men have labored ever since against great handicaps to bring it to success.

Tuman bay, a wide indentation on the island's west side, fringed by white coral sand and a semi-jungle of coconut palms and tropical shrubbery, is one of Guam's main recreational areas.

McCarthy Steers

Lt. Comdr. Marvin McCarthy, a former Chicago newspaper executive and now public relations officer for the forward area command here, steered the milling crowd to the proper area. They were a formidable looking army as they trooped down the road in a body and flocked about the master of ceremony's stand, a flat topped, concrete cistern still bearing the scars of our pre-landing bombardment.

It was still some time before the navy band known as Ruthstrom's Roosters swung into the opening strains. It had been planned to have Illinoisans sign a central register to be left permanently at Red Cross headquarters for the benefit of those seeking acquaintances and fellow townspeople. But the books never appeared and the only attendance record consists of blank forms passed out by this correspondent, the only active Chicago newspaper man present. These names and addresses after security censorship will be transmitted to THE TRIBUNE for publication and the forms will then be turned over to the Red Cross.

Seabee Chief Machinist's Mate Raymond Moore, former Villa Park contractor, took the microphone as master of ceremonies. Thruout the afternoon he strove to direct men from various Illinois localities into separate groups to aid acquaintance seekers.

Seaman 1st Class Dick Pechous, 20, of 1804 S. 59th ct., Cicero, was talking to this writer when in the crowd he espied an old St. Ignatius

High school classmate whom he had not seen for three years. Similar reunions were held by William Watt of Chicago, a naval engineman 3d class, and army air corps Pvt. Howard Soerman, also of Chicago.

One former stranger identified himself as M. M. S. 2d Class James G. Manning, 26, of 2834 Montrose av., Chicago, son-in-law of Joseph Gibbons, Tribune guard.

There was a grand rush when a former Tribune camera man, William Loewe, now navy photographer's mate 1st class, and Ensign Lloyd Norman, Tribune reporter on military leave, called for Chicagoans to pose for group photographs.

Smaller riots occurred when Lt. Bruce Dennis and Ensign John Meagher, Station W-G-N employes on military leave, called for volunteers for voice recordings to be broadcast by their station later. There were 10 applicants for every spot available on the radio program.

PREDICT FROST, LOW OF 37° FOR A JUNE RECORD

Cold winds whipping into the middle west from a high pressure area north of the Canadian border last night were expected to drive the mercury down to 37 degrees today for a new all-time low temperature mark in June. The present record of 40 was registered June 6, 1894.

H. S. Kenny, weather bureau forecaster, predicted there would be light frost in the low regions of Chicago suburbs and across the north central section of Illinois. The frost also will bite upper and lower Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and parts of Iowa, he forecast.

Kenny said the unseasonably cool weather, which closely paralleled the unusual cold in 1910, will continue, with a possible high temperature of 60 today. Last night the thermometer registered a minimum of 39 to establish a new low for June 3. The previous record, 43.1, was registered in 1910.

27,000 PACIFIC VETS TO LEAVE ARMY IN JUNE

MANILA, June 4 [Monday]—(AP)—Twenty-seven thousand Pacific veterans will be en route home or awaiting transportation to the United States for discharge from the army by the end of June, headquarters announced today. No WACs are included.

Quotas will be filled by units with men with the highest number of points and who are not essential. Monthly quotas will be issued and are expected to vary only slightly, depending on the flow of replacements. The rotation system ends with the beginning of this program.

1ST ARMY VETS REACH HOME ON WAY TO PACIFIC

New York, June 3 [Special]—A group of 1,453 officers and men of the headquarters of the United States 1st army—the first to land in Europe, the first to invade Germany, the first to cross the Rhine, and the first to meet the Russians—today became the first to return home as a group.

They were among 10,000 veterans of the European war who landed in New York harbor aboard three troopships and four Liberty ships.

The 1st army troops will be given 30 days of rest and relaxation at their homes before heading for the Pacific, the army said.

Sirens Sound Welcome

Whistles and sirens of harbor craft blared a noisy welcome to the 8,944 veterans on three troopships. A WAC band on the welcoming boat and the navy transport band serenaded the ships with jive tunes.

The Monticello, which carried the 1st army soldiers, bore a huge "A," the group's insignia, on its side.

The lustiest cheers came as the convoy passed an attack landing ship, decked with Pacific camouflage, which was nosing out toward the sea. One soldier aboard the Monticello picked up a megaphone and shouted above the cheers:

"Give them hell, boys! Give those Japs hell!"

Many Prisoners Return

The Monticello also carried 3,339 liberated American prisoners of war who were taken to Camp Kilmer, N. J., and 409 wounded soldiers and sailors who were sent to Halloran General hospital.

The other troopships were the Lejeune, with 2,424 liberated Americans, 377 rotational troops, and 701 wounded, and the Santa Margarita, with 199 liberated prisoners.

See Statue of Liberty

Captains of the ships took them a considerable distance up the bay so the returning soldiers could get a clearer view, the first for many of them in two years or more, of the Statue of Liberty.

Heads popped out of portholes and those lining the decks screamed joyously. Turning south, with the aid of tugs, the ships proceeded back down the bay and to their docks.

Shot down over the Mediterranean in August, 1943, Lt. Robert E. Kingsbury of Chicago, one of the returning soldiers, said he had spent 20 months as a prisoner in Germany and Italy. He said he had gone for "two walks in 20 months" and had spent the rest of the time sitting around the camp "waiting for something to eat."

First Lt. William Cool, 25, Paxton, Ill., another who returned, was captured at Anzio Jan. 30, 1944, and was liberated April 22 of this year. He was with the 1st Rangers.

[Story by Tribune Correspondent John Thompson, who arrived on the Monticello with the 1st army men, and story on arrival of Generals Bradley and Spaatz are on page 2.]

GEN. HODGES, STAFF MISSED CAPTURE BY A SLIM MARGIN

New York, June 3 (AP)—Gen. Hodges and his 1st army headquarters at Spa, Belgium, were almost captured by the Germans on Dec. 18, 1944, Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent, said tonight.

Boyle said the army's blackest day occurred when the German counter-offensive was rolling at its fastest with Liege as its objective and the Germans came within three miles of the headquarters. Near Stavelot, Boyle said, was a large gasoline dump, capture of which would have provided them with fuel for an indefinite roll.

Gen. Hodges threw in his last reserve to defend Spa, Boyle said. Then at 9:30 p. m. came the report of the arrival of Maj. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway's 82d air borne division, moving into fighting positions around threatened Spa. The 1st army headquarters and Gen. Hodges were saved—almost by split seconds.

HUMOR, TRAGEDY, THAT'S OKINAWA FROM A FOXHOLE

BY THOMAS MORROW
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, June 3—A battlefield is confusion. It does not add up until it is audited by a higher echelon.

The 4th marines, 6th division, have fought their way along the coast to smash the west end of the main Japanese line. They moved doggedly thru seven days of driving rain to push a permanent bridgehead across the Asato river. And they paid a price in dead and wounded to move south one and one-half miles.

But to the individual marine or officer whose world may narrow at times to 20 or 30 chaotic yards of muddy hillside, there is no continuity to war. It is an incident that fastens itself in the mind.

To Pvt. Edwin Maezko, 2109 W. 18th pl., Chicago, it was satisfaction over the demise of a Japanese who had annoyed him with continual shouts.

"He was on a hill 50 yards away," said Maezko. "He was on his belly and he kept yelling, 'All marines die.' Then he put his head up and I got him with a BAR [Browning automatic rifle]."

The marine combat photographer, who went across the Asato, impressed Col. George N. Hill of Hollywood, Cal., and Maj. R. J. Allen of Covington, Ky.

"He kept saying, 'Make it look like you are really in action,'" they recalled. "The mortar shells kept dropping like flies and he kept saying that. That was funny to us at the time. About 10 minutes later he got killed. A mortar shell almost hit him on the head."

To Charles Curcuro, 1451 W. Erie st., Chicago, the battle of Okinawa is the funny expression on a Jap's face when he met Curcuro and a patrol working ahead of the lines. Just before the Jap got killed, Curcuro said, he stood there blinking thru his horn rimmed glasses, his mouth open and his teeth protruding.

An attack, in which two or three of the enemy got into the lines and set up a machine gun before they got killed, stays with Corp. Ray Courtney, 254 Kilbourn av., Chicago. Corp. Dick Vana, 4317 Lawrence av., Chicago, thinks occasionally about the Japanese found inhabiting a foxhole he chose for himself. Vana got to his M-1 [Garand rifle] before the Japanese reacted.

Pvt. George Dobrojevic, 53 Union st., Ecorse, Mich., wonders what became of the Jap who played dead and got away, while the Okinawa fighting to Pharmacist Mate 3d Class Russell Jablonski, 3600 S. 52d ct., Cicero, Ill., is a deep resentment against Japanese firing tactics while corpsmen are gathering the wounded.

Pvt. Valerina Hernandez, 1448 W. Lexington av., Chicago, a cook, runner, and bodyguard for Col. Hill, worries mostly about the fact the boys do not hear right, that Col. Hill will get himself shot. He wants his wife, Mary, to know that he is thinking of her on June 10, their 10th wedding anniversary, and so does Tom Morrow whose anniversary is June 5.

Independence, Mo., June 3 (AP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman, her daughter, Margaret, and her mother, Mrs. D. W. Wallace, came home tonight for their first visit since President Truman took office.

Approximately 200 relatives and friends were clustered on the small railroad station platform. As Mrs. Truman alighted, she was presented a large bouquet of red roses by four cadet nurses. Secret service men and local police rushed the family to the home of Frank Wallace, Mrs. Truman's brother, next door to the Truman home.

Margaret ran thru the back yard to their own home to play with her 4 month old Irish setter, Mike, who arrived last night.

Eden Afflicted by Ulcers; Two Week Rest Ordered

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden is suffering from duodenal ulcers and has been ordered by his doctor to take at least two weeks' "complete rest," No. 10 Downing st. announced today. Prime Minister Churchill will be in charge of the foreign office during Eden's absence.

TWO MILE DRIVE CUTS OFF BASE OF PENINSULA

Longest Gain of 64 Day Campaign

WITH U. S. 10TH ARMY, Okinawa, June 3 (AP)—In a lightninglike 3,500 yard thrust thru hastily prepared Japanese pockets of defense, the 7th infantry division knifed its way to the southeast coast of Okinawa today, cutting off Chinen peninsula.

[Radio Tokyo today reported American troops have landed at Kakino-Hana, about three miles southeast of Sashiki on Chinen peninsula.]

Clinging red mud hampered tanks and vehicles, but the doughboys of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold rolled ahead at such speed that in the two mile rush they overran hundreds of civilians and threw what Japanese there were in a state of complete frustration.

The big push to the east coast came 13 days after Arnold's division had slipped thru the narrow Yonabaru corridor on the east coast in darkness and spread out onto the Ozato Mura hills to the south to turn the enemy's Shuri castle defense belt.

The doughboys reached the vicinity of the southeast coast town of Shikiya.

As the big break came, soldiers and marines reported they were overrunning positions where Japanese just had committed hara-kiri.

Longest Gain in 64 Days

GUAM, June 4 [Monday]—(AP)—Tenth army infantry men "effectively cut off and isolated" Chinen peninsula on southeastern Okinawa yesterday in scoring widespread advances against crumbling Japanese defenses, Fleet Adm. Nimitz reported today.

Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's doughboys in their 3,500 yard advance made the greatest single day's gain of the 65 day old campaign—across the base of the Chinen peninsula.

This eastward thrust was made by the 7th infantry division's 184th regiment.

Can Be Mopped Up

Isolated Japanese on Chinen now can be mopped up. Clearing the peninsula will win control of Nakagusuku anchorage, Okinawa's largest harbor and former anchorage for the Japanese fleet.

A 7th division spearhead, thrusting straight south about 800 yards, seized a line of heights north of the town of Toyama. These forces were within 1,000 yards of Okinawa's southeast coast and in position to cut off a second pocket of surviving Japanese for mopping up later.

On the west flank of the 24th army corps area, Maj. Gen. James L.

WOMEN OF RUSSIA 'REALLY BEAUTIFUL,' HOPKINS TELLS REDS

MOSCOW, June 3 (AP)—The Bolshoi theater ballet school buzzed today over Harry Hopkins' comment that "American women are pretty but Russian women are really beautiful."

President Truman's personal representative made the comment while visiting the school. He appeared interested in the soviet ballet and has enjoyed it above all other features of soviet life, it was said here. Hopkins has been spending most of his time conferring with members of the United States embassy and chiefs of the various United States missions, including lend-lease.

Mrs. Hopkins has talked to dozens of Russian citizens, including Marshal Stalin, and has visited numerous hospitals, schools, war plants, and theaters during her visit here.

NAZIS ECLIPSED, 1ST ARMY HEADS FOR RISING SUN

Aims for More 'Firsts' in War on Japs

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, June 3—The arrival today of Gen. Hodges' 1st army headquarters and headquarters company aboard the troopship U. S. S. Monticello represented the first return of any organized American unit from the European fighting zone. It also set a record for speed.

The 1st army ceased being operational at midnight May 9, a few days after an urgent message had come from Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, instructing that the 1st army be sent here on the way to the Pacific as quickly as possible after the fighting ceased. Less than one month later the 1,454 officers and men of Hodges' headquarters and all of their gear were unloaded in New York to start what they hope will be at least a 30 day furlough.

After frantic packing of their most important gear the headquarters men left their last home at Weimar, Germany, on May 16 and after a three day motor convoy reached their staging area near Le Havre, France. On May 22 the 1st army and 3,341 liberated prisoners began loading aboard the Monticello.

String of "Firsts"

The string of "firsts" that follow the black "A" are like the degrees tacked on to the names of learned scholars. They are "firsts" that do not detract from the accomplishments of Gen. Eisenhower's other fine field armies, such as the 3d, 9th, and 7th, or the British 2d, Canadian 1st, or French 1st.

But they are "firsts" won under the direction of Gen. Bradley and subsequently under Gen. Hodges, when the veteran Bradley became commander of the 12th United States army group. They are distinctly 1st army "firsts" and not those of any other unit. Among them are:

1. First on the beaches of Normandy on D-day, June 6, 1944.

2. First to break the German line at St. Lo July 25, 1944, a breakthru that enabled Gen. Patton's 3d army to swing down across the Brittany Peninsula Aug. 1.

First Into Paris

3. First into Paris on Aug. 25 to liberate the first capital of a country conquered by the Germans.

4. First into Belgium, then Germany itself, on Sept. 11, and the first into the vaunted Siegfried line a few days later.

5. First to capture a large German city, Aachen, which fell Oct. 21, to the 1st infantry division.

6. First to meet the full force of the Germans' winter Ardennes offensive Dec. 16, which met its first setback when Hodges' men recovered, rallied, and eventually held, short of the Meuse river in Belgium.

First to Cross Rhine

7. First to cross the Rhine river March 7 when the historic Ludendorf bridge was snatched from under Nazi noses at Remagen.

8. First to link up with the Red army April 25 when patrols of the 69th infantry division met Marshal Konievs men on the Elbe.

Early this year a tabulation of casualties disclosed that Hodges' men had suffered 33⅓ per cent of all casualties — killed, wounded, missing, and prisoners—in the entire United States army. When you carry the heaviest load, you carry the heaviest responsibilities and the heaviest losses.

From D day until it fired its last shots against the Germans along the Mulde river early last month, the 1st army received 302,200 soldiers to replace men who had become casualties.

While it sustained the losses inevitable in the type of slugging warfare of the continent, the 1st army knows that it inflicted far greater damage on the enemy. Between the time the first assault waves hit the Normandy beaches and May 9, when the 1st army ceased to be operational, 893,000 German prisoners passed thru the army's collecting points.

Had Good Leadership

There are numerous reasons why the Black "A" has this unsurpassed record. You will find some of the reasons in the training of the soldiers, in their equipment, which, despite some shortcomings, was superior to the enemy's. You will find it in the genius of such generals as Bradley and Hodges, in their chiefs of staff, and in the brilliant division commanders and those who command smaller units.

But there is another reason, too, one that is likely to be overlooked, but which I feel is the one that made the 1st army staff the best in the field.

It was the product of our first venture against the Germans, the old 11th corps, veterans of Algeria, Tunisia, and Sicily. The key men in the corps became the key men on the staff of the 1st army, selected personally by Bradley and retained by Hodges.

They are here now, still with the 1st army. And the experience gained in defeating what was once the best army in the world will be of immense worth in fighting the Japs. Certainly, too, the Nips must be getting cold comfort from the fact that the 1st army is home and ready to go against them.

Cologne Holds Memorial for 7 Political Prisoners

COLOGNE, Germany, June 3 (AP).—Nearly 1,000 German civilians attended a memorial service in a tiny park here today for seven German political prisoners found dead or dying when the American troops captured Cologne three months ago. Two American soldiers placed a wreath on the common grave of the victims. A placque at the site reads "Here rest seven victims of the Gestapo. This evil occurred during the most shameful period of the German nation—1933-1945."

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND DEAD

Police and the coroner's office yesterday were seeking the identity of a white man, about 60 years old, who was found dead late Saturday at State and Pearson sts. The body was taken to a mortuary at 716 N. State st.

BRADLEY, SPAATZ RETURN, TELL OF GERMANY'S RUIN

New York, June 3 (AP)—A group of American generals, headed by Gen. Bradley and Gen Spaatz, arrived by air today from Paris and told a press conference they were agreed on this point: "Germany has been destroyed utterly and completely."

Maj. Gen. McAuliffe.

The words were those of professorial looking Gen. Bradley, commander of the 12th army group. He arrived about 2:30 p. m. aboard a C-54 air transport command plane. A half hour earlier a Flying Fortress had landed at New York airport with Gen. Spaatz, commander of the United States strategic air forces in Europe.

Accompanying Spaatz were Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, commander of the 5th army corps, and Maj. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, who headed the 9th tactical air command.

Another plane brought Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, commander of the 103d division, who uttered the now famous reply of "nuts" to a German demand of surrender last December at Bastogne. He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Paul L. Williams of the troop carrier command.

While Spaatz nodded agreement Bradley declared: "I can tell you that Germany has been destroyed utterly and completely."

Huebner said: "One thing we may not be able to understand is how thoroly the German army was destroyed. There just isn't anything left."

When asked what their future plans would be each of the generals echoed Bradley's comment: "We go wherever we are sent."

"The magnificent efforts of our allies and the tremendous force of man power and industry were the decisive blow," Spaatz said.

Bradley disclosed that one of the toughest decisions he had to make was whether to pause after the St. Lo breakthru for defense or to try to go thru when the Germans counter-attacked.

"We waited 24 hours," he said. "We took one division thru. We risked a lot but we bottled up the 7th German army. St. Lo was one of the highlights of the campaign."

Mobility Pays Off

Huebner termed the St. Lo battle "a terrific fight with huge air preparations." He said American mobility paid dividends against Germany.

"That mobility went to work at St. Lo and never stopped until it got to the Siegfried line," he added.

"One thing that Gen. Bradley did made me mad," said Quesada. "And he did it often. We would drub the Germans and he would thank me. I couldn't make him understand that there was no need for thanks because it was part of our job and a pleasure."

The two four-star generals were met at the airport by their wives, Mrs. Ruth Spaatz of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Mary Bradley of Moberly, Mo., and a group of high ranking army officers.

WALL OF FLAME MAIN DEFENSE OF BRITISH SHORES

Reveal Plans to Repel Nazis in 1940-'41

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 3—The British today disclosed that it was one of their fiery anti-invasion defense devices which originated the rumor that the Germans tried to invade the country in 1940-'41 but were consumed in a sea of fire.

Geoffrey Lloyd, the new minister of information, who formerly was minister in charge of petroleum warfare, said the Germans discovered Britain was experimenting with a plan to pour oil along its "invasion coast" and ignite it if the Nazis tried to land, thus burning up ships and men.

Lloyd said the German's held maneuvers along the French coast seeking to find a way to penetrate the fiery defenses. They clothed large numbers of their troops in asbestos suits, of which a hundred thousand were ordered, and sent them into a burning sea. Something, however, went wrong with the headgear and the Germans suffered heavy casualties.

Used as British Propaganda

The fact that the Germans tried to keep the fiasco secret while the allies were bombarding Germany with propaganda leaflets telling the nazi soldiers of the inferno they would face if they tried to land in Britain gave rise to the mystery invasion story, Lloyd said.

In addition to the wall of flame offshore, the Germans would have found fire sweeping the beaches, blasting defiles thru coastal cliffs, bursting in searing jets from hedges and garden walls, rivers of flame cascading down strategic hillsides, and giant sprays of fire bursting upward and outward from armored cars to destroy parachutists and planes attempting to land, Lloyd said.

Oil tanks were hidden near ravines in coastal cliffs, and nozzles were placed to enfilade attacking tanks with 300 yard walls of flame. Land mines filled with oil were placed in position. These could be exploded to throw tongues of flame more than 100 feet.

Tar Barrels Along Road

Offshore were oil pipes linked to huge storage tanks. The mixture of a chemical with the oil spurted out by these pipes could set the floating oil afire.

Tar barrels were planted along the coastal roads. These could pump a stream of fire across the roads, or could be made to leap over the hedges behind which they were hidden into the path of an invading force.

Warships were equipped with flame throwers capable of hurling oil burning at 1,500 degrees F. almost 200 feet into the air. One touch of this fiery pillar would have set afire a plane making a strafing attack, tests showed.

U. S. 7TH ARMY SEIZES MAPS OF NAZI MINE FIELDS

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—United states 7th army troops have master maps and detailed charts showing the location and pattern of German mine fields sown in many countries, the newspaper Stars and Stripes said today. The maps were captured in the closing days of the war and will greatly simplify removal of the mines. Included in the haul, consisting of 38 sealed boxes weighing almost four tons, was information showing the exact locations of the fields as well as that of small mines under village streets.

Lt. Col. Edgar L. Morris, chief of the information section of the intelligence division of the office of the chief engineer, was quoted by Stars and Stripes as saying the existence of the master plans had been known since last August.

RELATES HOW 14 TROOP VESSELS COLLIDED IN FOG

New York, June 3 (AP)—The John B. Hood, one of the four Liberty ships which brought American soldiers home today, had a 10 foot hole in its bow, souvenir of a collision off Grand Banks, Newfoundland, last Sunday.

Joseph Sutton, chief officer of the Hood, said the vessel was one of 96 ships, traveling 150 feet apart, left helpless almost a week by dense fog. Two of the vessels struck icebergs, he said, causing the collision of 14 others.

Several of the vessels were so badly damaged in the collision that they were forced to put in at Halifax, N. S., Sutton said.

"The soldiers on the Hood—some released from German prison camps and naturally nervous—began shouting, not knowing what had occurred," Sutton said. "Our captain quieted them by informing them over the ship's public address system that there was no danger."

SWEDEN'S FULL LARDER REWARDS HER NEUTRALITY

Nation Now Glad She Resisted Pressure

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 3—Sweden is enjoying the fruits of neutrality. While the victors and vanquished in the European conflict are still tightening their belts, that land of 131 years of continuous peace has plenty and is planning to share in the world-wide relief burden.

Material profit from the Sweden first policy was apparent on a 300 mile jeep tour of that country. Store windows in villages and cities display goods scarce in America—silk hosiery, radios, electric irons, and vacuum cleaners. Groceries, bakeries, and meat shops are as appetizing as the big strawberries served with cream in Stockholms' expensive restaurants.

The business and professional men, artisans and farmers I interviewed on my trip heartily indorsed their country's resistance to pressure on both sides to participate in the combat. Newspapers are without casualty lists, and they report distress in Germany, France, Belgium, Holland, and Norway, and of hardships in America and Great Britain foreign to that land of armed peace.

Nylons $2 a Pair

Nylon as well as silk stockings sell for $2 to $2.50 a pair and women say the supply is plentiful, altho the quality is not quite as good as before the war. Chocolate, candies, fancy pastries, and ice cream sales are booming and there is no apparent shortage.

Food rationing is skimpy for some basic items. However, housewives have no trouble, as in America, in finding edibles to match their coupons. Furthermore, the black market is reasonably priced and farmers have an abundance to share with their city relatives and friends.

The butter allowance is a pound for three weeks plus a pound of oleomargarine. Half a pound of coffee is stretched for four months by mixing with scorched grains. Bacon, steak, and egg allowances are small but the Swedes like fish, which is not rationed. Restaurants are patronized when home larders dwindle.

Wave of Easy Spending

Stores are stocked with typewriters, bicycles, sewing machines, cameras, watches, electric clocks, percolators, sun lamps, and refrigerators. Restaurants serve an elaborate assortment of smorgasbord delicacies plus meat for those with coupons. The prices are high but there is a wave of easy spending as in American war industry towns.

Cigarets are costly [50 to 70 cents] and not rationed. All tobacco must be imported.

New automobiles may be purchased but civilians are without any gasoline. Cars are operated by gas from wood or charcoal burning generators, looking like furnaces on the front or rear of the vehicle. Performance is irregular, an annoyance, and nuisance, but much better than no automobile at all. A CHICAGO TRIBUNE investigation of these generators shortly after Pearl Harbor concluded that Americans would not like them, and that America's war burdened manufacturing facilities and man power could not afford their production.

Much of Sweden's 6,500,000 population rides on bicycles. Babies are carried on handle bars or a tandem seat, altho some mothers have a trailer with a windshield for the younger ones. In Stockholm cyclists outnumber motorists at least 20 to 1 on the waterfront boulevards. Restaurants, theaters, office buildings, and public buildings have commodious bike racks on the broad sidewalks.

Coal and fuel oil are also scarce in Sweden.

10,000 YANKS SWARM OVER BERCHTESGADEN

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, June 3 (AP)—Approximately 10,000 American officers and enlisted men swarmed like bees today over this former retreat of Adolf Hitler, now becoming the most popular GI resort in Germany. It was like Coney Island as the Americans inspected Hitler's wrecked home and nearby places occupied by former Nazi big shots.

GIs shot thousands of snapshots of each other in front of signs reading "Hitler's House" and "SS Hotel." Representing at least ten different armored and infantry divisions, they climbed for 15 minutes to reach Hitler's damaged "eagle's nest." The tour was under the direction of the commander of the 101st air borne division, Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, whose outfit is guarding the area.

Two rest centers have been set up. One, for officers, is in the luxurious Berchtesgaden Hof, where Hitler once entertained.

1,400 Villages Burned in Greece, Skouras Says

New York, June 3 (AP)—More than 1,400 villages in Greece have been burned and the country has 250,000 refugees and half a million persons homeless and needing aid, Spyros P. Skouras, president of Greek War Relief, Inc., today told reporters at New York air field on his return from seven weeks abroad.

FIND FURNITURE HITLER DESIGNED FOR HIS VICTORY

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, June 3—Hitler the "artist and interior decorator," came to light today when furniture, silver, china and pottery which he designed himself were found in a store room of a small factory near Traunstein, Baravia.

It was made of the costliest of materials and was to be shown in the main hall of his fuehrer house in Munich on the day of Germany's victory. Even flags and flagpoles were stored with it for the celebration which Hitler was expecting when he designed the furniture in 1941.

Worked on It 2 Years

The officials who brought the furniture to the factory, which was forced to close to make space for the fuehrer's cases of silver, crates of furniture, pottery, rugs and brooms, state that Germany's master craftsman worked on it for two years and that the whole collection was worth 700,000 marks, which is more than a quarter of a million dollars at the rate of two and one-half marks to the dollar. Even cooking pots, made of a rare metal alloy, were stored with enough furniture, tables and chairs for about 800 persons.

The chairs, which were covered with the finest morocco leather or horsehair cloth, were rather square and heavy, designed for persons definitely broad in the beam, while the hundreds of round tables for the festive dining room had bases somewhat like the tables along the boulevards in Paris. They were made of precious, light colored woods. The silver was similar in line to that of the Danish silversmiths.

Cases of Pottery

There were big cases filled with small pottery vases and huge plates evidently meant for mural decoration of the dining room. Each plate was decorated with fish, pheasant, fruit, and other edibles "sketched by the fuehrer's own hand," according to the officials who brought the collection from Munich in time to save it from destruction during the bombings. They assured the owners of the factory where the furniture was stored that "the fuehrer will reward you personally when he comes to collect it on the eve of the victory celebration. The fuehrer never came.

The anti-Nazis who found the collection think that it should be shown to the German people to make them realize how precious materials were wasted for a whim of Hitler at a time when they could not get leather for shoes or wood to repair their bombed out houses.

deputies there on the excuse that Syrian gendarmes in front of the parliament building, which is just across the street from French headquarters, did not salute the French flag."

Mardam Bey said the Syrians have documents dated May 20 and 26 proving that the French were preparing a plot to cause trouble in Syria, a Reuters dispatch from Damascus asserted.]

Mardam said statements that the Syrians started firing were "absolutely not true."

Held Fire Two Hours

"When the firing began I was in the government house reading to the cabinet and other Syrian notables a note from Prime Minister Churchill counseling caution by us," the acting premier said. "We followed that advice. For two hours after the outbreak Syrian gendarmes did not fire back."

He said that "despite French aggression orders were given thruout the country to protect all French nationals, men, women, and children."

The acting premier said that events of the last week "liquidated the French-Syrian situation."

"There is no longer any French side to the situation," he said. "We are finished with the French."

The Syrians have completely broken off relations and assert that they will not resume except upon a normal diplomatic plane without any advantages to the French.

Syrians refuse to participate in any of the many commissions with French members working in Syria, such as the wheat office. The French members are being taken off all such commissions to permit work to continue.

Bedouins Want to Attack

Presence of French troops in barracks of many towns was keeping tension at a high pitch thruout Syria today, but latest reports indicated peace and quiet had returned to most places.

In Kuneitra, south of Damascus on the road to Palestine, 4,000 Bedouins of the Fadel tribe entered the town and wanted to attack the French troops in their barracks. The British troops protected the French, but it appeared to be a ticklish job.

Other Bedouins also entered Hama, where strong British protection was required for the French.

Charge U. S. Tanks Used

CAIRO, Egypt, June 3 (AP)—Premier Abdel Hamid Karamah of Lebanon and Saadullah el Gabry, president of the Syrian chamber of deputies, charged in a joint statement tonight that the French used lend-lease supplies in the recent fighting in Syria.

[Gen. De Gaulle declared at a press conference in Paris yesterday that no lend-lease weapons were used by French troops.]

The joint statement asserted tanks and guns used by the French against the Arabs were of American manufacture.

The declaration said also that the two countries would "fight until every single house in our countries is destroyed and every native is killed in order to keep our independence."

"We will not sign any treaty with France," the statement added. It urged that Syria and Lebanon be given lend-lease equipment in order to be "equal to France, and we will show them who is going to win."

British Press Hits De Gaulle

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—The British foreign office made no official comment on Gen. De Gaulle's proposal that an international conference be called to consider all problems confronting the whole eastern Arab world—instead of confining such talks to the Levantine dispute—but the British Press association sharply criticized the French leader's suggestion. The agency declared the main allied concern was prosecuting the war against Japan and protecting an allied communication line.

"It is for that overriding reason that neither Britain nor America desires to see the dispute prolonged. Their desire is to localize and settle this problem of the Levant. To adopt Gen. De Gaulle's suggestion to discuss all matters concerning the Arab world would have the opposite effect."

530,000 TONS OF JAP SHIPPING IS 2-MONTH TOLL

MANILA, June 3 (AP)—The allied air blockade of the South China sea during March and April cost Japan 530,000 tons of shipping, Gen. Kenney, commander of the eastern air force, said today. The loss is a part of the 2,117,482 tons of Japanese shipping sunk or severely damaged, Gen. MacArthur said recently, by allied air forces in southern seas areas from Jan. 1 to May 31.

The American 5th and 13th air forces, 7th United States fleet air wing and the Royal Australian air force participated in the blockade from bases in the Netherlands East Indies and the Philippines.

RUSH TO UNLOAD CURRENCY TIES FRENCH TRADE

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 3.—The international friction that marked the week-end was paralleled on a smaller scale by the unrest inside France, where continued price rises and acute shortages of food, clothing, coal and other essential commodities brought new strike threats, and the largest demonstration yet staged by the repatriated prisoners of war.

The general discontent and ill temper was aggravated by the small currency situation. This was brought on by the obligatory exchange of bank notes thruout the country, which starts tomorrow. As a result of weeks of hoarding plus a last day scramble for small bills, ordinary business transactions were virtually paralyzed.

Lines of people formed at the Paris postoffices yesterday to send money orders to friends and relatives who presumably would cash them for the new bills. Others placed heavy bets on race horses they knew would be scratched, for the purpose of redeeming the tickets later.

Some tried to buy huge lots of postage stamps or subway tickets, but were refused more than a few stamps or tickets to a customer.

Forty million Frenchmen are expected tomorrow to begin replacing all their currency above 50 francs for new bank notes in one of the largest exchanges of the kind in history.

Eight million francs worth of the new bills are said to have been sold on the black bourse at the rate of 1,000 for 1,200 or 1,250 francs [the nominal dollar exchange value has been 50 francs].

All retailers and manufacturers of shoes and clothing have closed their doors indefinitely while inventories are taken by the government. After that they will sell exclusively to repatriated prisoners of war.

The orderly but angry demonstration by a mob of ex-prisoners of war, estimated at from 20,000 to 75,000, was feared to be the prelude to trouble, as there is little chance the government can satisfy their demands.

MASSES VEER TOWARD REDS IN NORTH ITALY

Soviet Prestige High as Tension Rises

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, June 3—Anglo-American occupation authorities still are facing difficult problems in northern Italy a month after the downfall of the neo-fascist regime, according to information reaching here from allied and Italian sources. The main points can be summed up thus:

The Communist party's grip on the masses is considerable. This seems due mainly to the military prestige of soviet Russia, uncertainty about the length of the American occupation, and fear of communist reprisals in case the allies evacuate northern Italy and the Russians should come in.

The Communists are using various means to influence Italian public opinion. Large scale murders to intimidate the opposition have been charged to the Communists by Italian officials.

With purging as a pretext, many acts of violence have been committed, obliging numerous Italians to join or support the Communists as their only long range protection, it is charged.

Socialists Vs. Communists

Every one was surprised when the allied command ordered the arrest of Pietro Nenni, Socialist party secretary, but did not arrest Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Communists, when the latter committed the same offense of addressing a crowd in Milan in spite of the Anglo-American ruling prohibiting such an act. It has now been revealed that the allied command wanted to arrest Togliatti but gave up the measure when informed that the crowd listening to him consisted of 60,000 persons.

Tension in northern Italy is on the increase, with the Milan radio repeating twice during every broadcasting period an order that all Milan Partisans surrender their arms or suffer severe penalties.

The Anglo-Americans were not acquainted at first with conditions in the country and were deceived by neo-Fascists or even Germans posing as friends of the Americans.

Gestapo Spy Fools General

Thus a German woman, who was refused refuge by the Swiss authorities on the grounds that she was on the list of war criminals, succeeded in ingratiating herself with the allied command and offered her villa to an American general and his staff provided she could stay there herself. Partisans who were going to arrest this German woman as a collaborationist did not dare come near her place since the Americans were protecting a well known Gestapo spy, even tho unwittingly. When apprised of this, the American general arrested the woman and moved his headquarters. This incident, of course, had a deplorable effect on American prestige among the population.

In another case, an Italian refugee obtained a permit to return to Italy with his "family." He managed to bring a fake family of 13 persons into Italy. The man was later traced to Venice and was brought to a prison in Milan with the whole gang by the allied police.

Find Princess' Gun.

Princess Tarhata Kiram of Jolo, whose pistol was found on dead Japanese.

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., June 3—Princess Tarhata Kiram, member of Jolo's ancient ruling house, who was educated at the University of Illinois, has her pearl handled pistol back—thanks to the Yanks.

"It happened this way," said Lt. Bernard Pfirrman, Los Angeles, Cal., who has just been awarded a silver star for gallantry at Zamboanga. "When we landed on Jolo the princess told us about the pistol. It had been given to her father, the late sultan, by former Sen. Hawes of Missouri, who was co-author of the Hawes-Cutting bill. It had the initials H. B. H. on it. When the Japs came to Jolo they took the gun away from the princess.

"We promised to look for it. One day our patrol killed several Japs, including an officer. In the officer's holster, I'll be darned if we didn't find the pistol that belonged to the princess. We lost no time in getting it back to her."

POPE RECALLS LIBERATION OF ROME YEAR AGO

VATICAN CITY, June 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII., meeting with a group of touring United States senators and army and naval officers today, recalled that the allies liberated Rome a year ago tomorrow. He expressed gratitude that the city's cultural and art treasures were spared.

The pontiff extended his best wishes for the happiness and success of the American people.

Earlier he gave a 45 minute audience to eight members of senate subcommittees on interstate commerce and disposal of surplus war materials. Senators Wheeler and Kilgore head the two subcommittees.

TELL HOW MILAN COURT DOOMED FASCIST EDITOR

BY P. E. BRIQUET
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 3—Details of the trial and sentence to death of Ermanno Amicucci, who was editor of Corriere della Sera of Milan, one of the most famous papers in Italy, are published in the Milan press.

The defendant, still a young man, palefaced, his eyes hidden by thick glasses, kept crossing and uncrossing his legs nervously, after he was brought into the courtroom.

He declared he acted as he did "because I believed the real government of the country was Mussolini's rather than the king's."

Wrote as Collaborator

Charged with collaborationism, he admitted he wrote 16 articles, later published in book form. He claimed other newspaper editors wrote as many as 160 articles.

The prosecutor read excerpts from Amicucci's articles, such as, "We shall fight always side by side with our unconquerable, unshakable Teutonic allies."

The defendant was asked, "Had you no idea of what was really happening around you?" "Many then believed in German victory," he replied.

"Yet your paper registered daily defensive victories, namely, defeats, and strategic disengagements and such like?" "I believed secret arms could finally crush the Americans, because the Germans said it would be so," was the answer.

Betrayed Contributors

The main point was that Amicucci gave the German SS [elite] police photographs of former contributors to the paper who refused to collaborate with the Nazis.

He also betrayed to the SS four workmen who had gone on strike last year. All were exiled to Germany, and two perished in nazi death camps.

Amicucci has not yet been executed, as his lawyer appealed against his sentence.

Two others condemned to death, who also appealed this week, are Guido Buffarini-Guidi, Mussolini's neo-fascist home minister until February, 1945, and Paulo Uccelli, who was neo-fascist mayor of Milan from October to December, 1943.

Turkish Envoy Reported Seeking Accord with Reds

MOSCOW, June 3 (AP)—Informed diplomatic quarters reported today that Selim Sarper, the newly returned Turkish ambassador to Russia, was planning an early audience with soviet officials. Ankara was said to be desirous of reaching a new accord with Russia to take the place of the 1925 Russo-Turkish treaty denounced by the Russians last March 19.

New Government Slated for Italians This Week

ROME, June 3 (AP)—Italy may get this week the new government which Premier Ivanoe Bonomi promised to give the country as soon as it was fully liberated. The six major political parties apparently have agreed to continue a coalition, but have split over continuing Bonomi in office.

HALSEY POUNDS JAP AIR BASES FOR SECOND DAY

Raids Suicide Plane Nests on Southern Kyushu

GUAM, June 4 [Monday]—(AP)—Striking again at bases from which the Japanese might launch Kamikaze [suicide] aerial attacks upon his own force, Adm. Halsey attacked southern Kyushu air fields with carrier planes a second successive day yesterday.

Pilots from Vice Adm. McCain's 3d fleet carrier task force again found the pickings rather lean, destroying nine Japanese planes for a two day total of 22 destroyed and 23 damaged.

Wasting no time in implementing his plans for "knocking hell out of the Japs wherever we find them," Halsey sent his Hellcat fighters and Helldiver bombers blasting at installations on Miyazaki, Kokubu, Kushira, Kagoshima, and Chiran airfields, all on Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands.

Destroy Two Vessels

All these fields presumably have been used to launch Kamikaze attacks on American forces at Okinawa, some 325 miles southward.

The raiders sent their bombs, rockets, and bullets into hangars, barracks, and other air field targets, destroyed two small vessels off the Kyushu coast, and wrecked a locomotive at Miyazaki.

Other flyers from the Halsey-McCain force attacked airfield and industrial installations on Minami Daito Island, about 200 miles east of Okinawa, also on Saturday. The island had been hit previously by both carrier planes and naval bombardment.

Tokyo radio's version of the second day of carrier raids said about 170 planes struck airfields in Miyazaki and Kogashima prefectures in 14 waves.

Liberators and Privateers of fleet air wing 18 sank three small cargo ships along the south coast of Honshu, the main Japanese island. A picket ship, a patrol craft and a lugger were damaged.

Chicagoan Tells of Scrap

ABOARD ADM. McCAIN'S CARRIER FLAGSHIP OFF THE RYUKYUS, June 2 [Delayed]—(AP)—The American carrier-based flyers who swept Japanese airfields on Kyushu Island today agreed that the going was "really rough."

Lt. Fred C. Hamilton of Pratt, Kas., said nearly every fighter and fighter-bomber in the attacks "returned either shot up or almost out of gas."

The returning airmen said the attacks were made under terrible weather conditions with the planes sometimes swooping under the overcast to within 100 feet of the surface.

Lt. [j. g.] Howard F. Fuog of 1947 Winnemac av., Chicago, Ill., said, "Returning we had to fly thru 200 miles of zero ceiling weather. I was circling covering one pilot who was downed on the water of Kagoshima bay waiting until he was picked up by a rescue plane when I was jumped by Jap fighters. In the ensuing fight I used up so much of my gas that I barely made the return trip. When I landed my engine quit, gasless, before I could taxi to the parking space. It was sure rough up there today.

"I saw the Japs trying to shell one of our pilots on a raft. They were using five-inch guns from five miles away on shore. They missed him by half a mile."

Warn People of Japan

San Francisco, Cal., June 3 (AP)—Japanese officials today warned civilians to fortify themselves against air raids. Two officials of the home ministry, after inspecting damage inflicted on Yokohama by B-29s in a 450-plain raid on May 29, urged evacuation from that city of all but "acutely essential" persons needed to make it a fortress city. They also warned smaller cities that they should fortify thoroly against air raids.

In another broadcast, Japanese communications authorities warned that "enemy spy activities are becoming more and more intense as the war grows in violence." They repeated cautions against reporting troop movements.

Tokyo announced that Premier Suzuki had made an all-day inspection of the "ruins" of Tokyo, Yokohama, and Kawasaki, and that Emperor Hirohito, "in robust health despite the fact that the imperial palace was partly razed to the ground" by Super Fortresses last week, was occupied daily with official conferences, "going thru every detail of the war operations."

FOREIGN POLICY OF U. S. DRIFTS, RUSSIANS TOLD

MOSCOW, June 3 (AP)—Evgeni Zhukov, Izvestia correspondent at San Francisco, declared today that "in the opinion of a number of persons, the policy of mediation which was successfully carried out by President Roosevelt has now changed to a policy of 'drifting' which in many cases reduces the foreign policy of the United States to a subordinate role."

Zhukov also stated that one can already hear declarations that the security conference has been "practically useless."

He told readers of the government newspaper that there was some editorial insistence in the United States that State Secretary Stettinius and his assistants should be replaced on grounds their foreign policy has failed.

OKINAWA YANKS DRIVE TO SOUTH COAST OF ISLAND

Swift Two Mile Advance Cuts Off Peninsula

Bradley's 96th infantry division pushed forward from 500 to 1,200 yards against light resistance. It captured Kamizato and Tera towns and penetrated hills in the Inasomi area, where the Japanese could have been expected to try a defense stand.

On the western half of the front, where the marine 3d amphibious corps is deployed, the 1st marine division met the stiffest resistance offered by the Japanese during the day. However, Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's leathernecks drove ahead against heavy machine gun and mortar fire for gains of 800 to 1,000 yards. They captured a hill 200 yards north of Karara village, about a mile and a quarter directly inland from the mouth of Naha harbor.

Flank Threat to Air Base

Advances by the 1st marine and 96th infantry divisions appeared to be developing a flank threat against Oroku [Naha] peninsula, site of Naha airfield, Okinawa's largest and best airdrome. It is likely the Japanese will attempt a defensive stand on that peninsula, but the land is relatively flat with no particularly good defense advantages in the terrain.

The 1st marine and 96th divisions' advances won complete control of Naha-Yonabaru highway, which should improve the supply and transport situation, made difficult by deep, slippery mud, churned up by 13 inches of rain in the last 10 days of May.

Japanese air activity was heavy over Okinawa yesterday. Nimitz reported 26 Japanese planes were shot down but no mention was made of damage to United States fleet units.

The Yanks scored their broad gains on Okinawa as Tokyo radio admitted the situation of the Japanese defenders "is to be regarded as very grave."

"The enemy has succeeded in penetrating into Japanese main positions between southern Yonabaru and Naha," the enemy broadcast said, "and is trying to attack the east coast of the island again."

Czechs to Begin Trial of Hacha as Nazi Puppet

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—The soviet-controled Berlin radio broadcast a Prague dispatch today that the war criminal trial of Dr. Emil Hacha, former puppet president of Czechoslovakia, would begin within a few days.

REPORT 50 NAZI HOSTAGES SHOT BY RUSSIANS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Finnish radio quoted a Swedish dispatch from London Sunday as saying that the Russians already have acted on their threat to execute Nazi hostages in order to halt outbreaks in Berlin.

The broadcast said a London dispatch appearing in the Stockholm Morgontidningen, reported that fighting flared in Berlin two days ago and that the Russians caught several Nazi agitators, and executed them at once.

"Fifty Nazis who were in captivity were shot by the Russians in order to emphasize that they mean business," the broadcast added.

Sub Sinks Off Portugal; Believe It Was Scuttled

GREEN TO OPEN ILLINOIS DAY IN LOOP BOND SHOW

Gov. Green will open Illinois day of the "Road to Tokyo" 7th war loan exhibit at noon today at State and Madison sts. Lawrence Stern, Chicago and Cook county chairman for the loan, will sell a bond to the governor, who will report on the state's progress in the 7th war loan campaign.

The "Road to Tokyo" exhibition, sponsored jointly by the army 6th service command, the United States treasury department, and the State Street council, opened Friday, to continue thru next Monday. Each day's scheduled features include operations of the quartermaster corps, the war dogs, the chemical warfare department, and the signal corps. Shows are given at 11 a. m. and at 2, 3, 4, 7, and 8 p. m., daily in the quartermaster tent at State and Randolph sts.

The war dogs perform at 3 p. m. daily. Army bands are scheduled to give concerts thruout the day in State st. as well as on the council's platform at State and Madison sts. at 9 p. m. The Norden bombsight will be shown in Marshall Field & Co., starting tomorrow.

ARMY PAPER HITS ATTACKS ON LOYAL JAPS

ROME, June 3 (AP)—Stars and Stripes in a strongly worded editorial today upbraided the Anti-Japanese Exclusion league and other groups for recent attacks on Nisei in the United States.

The army newspaper, pointing to the fighting record of American troops of Japanese descent, declared "nobody has asked where their grandpas came from." The editorial referred to the 100th battalion of the 442d regimental combat team which fought at Cassino, Anzio, thru the Apennines, then in France where among other acts it rescued a battalion of the 36th [Texas] division which had been cut off by the Germans.

"That was a pretty tough assignment in the hands of the Americans whose families were being beaten up by the families of other American lads," the editorial said.

AUSSIES REPEL JAP ATTACKS ON WEWAK AREA

San Francisco, Cal., June 3 (AP)—Australian troops repulsed a sudden outburst of Japanese counter-attacks against perimeter points around Wewak on the New Guinea northeast coast, Melbourne radio reported today. The broadcasts said the Japs struck from the hills in bold thrusts which might have endangered the Australian control of the Wewak area. Twice the Japanese hit Australian forward positions but were thrown back with heavy casualties, the broadcast said.

On Bougainville Island in the Solomons, where the Australians are cleaning up bypassed Japanese units, there were several bitter clashes in both the north and south sectors.

Melbourne radio said that 22,000 cablegrams have been sent by the Australian Red Cross to British and Australian prisoners and internes in the far east, but "only 102 replies" have been received.

PARLEY STALLED AGAIN IN DEBATE WITH MOSCOW

Agree on Veto Formula, but Not on Scope

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 3—After another day of fruitless negotiation, the international security conference was stalled again tonight by differences with Moscow.

The outstanding questions in the deadlock are:

1. Scope of the Big Five power veto of peaceful settlement of international disputes.

2. Self-determination of territories held in trusteeship by the new League of Nations and status of territories now held under mandates of the old league.

3. Regional arrangements interfering with freedom of Russia, France, and allies to use military forces against a resurgent Germany independently of the league's peace enforcement action.

Disagree on Amendment

4. Provision for future amendment of the league's charter, including a world conference for its revision 7 to 10 years hence.

5. Method of electing the secretary-general, chief administrative officer of the league.

6. Method of electing judges of the international court.

7. Manner of recruitment of the international police force.

8. Power of the league's assembly to recommend revision of treaties held provocative of war.

There was a two hour meeting today of the Big Five powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China—at which there was agreement on only one course of action. This was to put the Big Five veto formula thru the conference without change.

Expect to Get Two-Thirds

It was the opinion that the Big Five will be able to muster the required two-thirds vote for this purpose in the committee and finally in the plenary session of the conference, if the fight should go that far. After the forthcoming admission of Denmark to the conference there will be 50 nations represented and 34 votes will constitute two-thirds.

While determined to push thru the veto provision the Big Five, however, are seeking to reach an agreement on its interpretation on which America, Britain, France, and China on the one hand and Russia on the other are at loggerheads. Further compromise proposals were made to the Russians and Russian Ambassador Gromyko said it would be necessary for him to communicate with Moscow and get instructions.

By one of the conference leaders Gromyko was described as "a recording instrument of the soviet government, without discretion or authority." The Big Five then adjourned till noon tomorrow, awaiting word from Moscow.

How Both Sides View It

America, Britain, France, and China are in agreement that the power of any one of the Big Five to veto measures for Pacific settlement of a dispute does not preclude a discussion of the dispute by the league's security council and a hearing of statements by the nations that are parties to it. Only on the question that might develop later of instituting a formal investigation or invoking conciliations, arbitration or other peaceful measures of settlement would the veto become operative.

The Russians contend that any one of the Big Five could veto even informal discussion of a dispute. Moscow holds that the "veto is indivisible."

The discussion in the Big Five meeting today revolved chiefly around the advisability of making public the veto interpretation agreed on by America, Britain, France, and China. It finally was decided to withhold it pending the reply from Moscow.

Denies Major Differences

After the meeting, a Big Five spokesman warned against exaggeration of the differences with Moscow. He said they are not big enough to break up the conference, that is there is no practical likelihood of the creation of an issue that big. It's now up to Moscow to agree or disagree, he said, "for the Big Four will not retreat from their interpretation of the veto power.

On the right of any great power to veto the employment of the international police force to halt an aggression or other breach of the peace all the Big Five and virtually all of the small nations are in agreement. There is also agreement that the veto does not apply to procedural questions tho the Russians claim the right of veto of a decision on what is a procedural question.

Veto Provision

The veto formula the Big Five will ask the conference to adopt is contained in the so-called Roosevelt compromise voting procedure accepted at Yalta. This provision is for voting in the 11 nation security council consisting of the Big Five powers as permanent members and six smaller countries as rotating nonpermanent members. The provision follows:

"1. Each member of the security council shall have one vote.

"2. Decisions of the security council or procedural matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of seven members.

"3. Decisions of the security council on all other matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of seven votes, including the concurring votes of the permanent members; provided that in decisions under chapter VIII., section A [peaceful settlements], and under the second sentence of paragraph 1 of chapter VIII., section C [regional settlements], a party to a dispute shall abstain from voting."

What It Means

This was the way taken by the internationalist lawyers to say that there would be no veto on procedural questions, that there could be a big power veto of use of force to preserve peace, and that a big power not a party to a dispute could veto measures for its peaceful settlement.

Altho a majority of the 44 small nations in the conference have been clamoring against the vesto, particularly its application to peaceful settlements, the Big Five leaders believe they will be able to muster the votes for adoption of the veto formula without change.

The small nations are to be told that it is a question of having a league to enforce peace with the veto power or having no world peace league at all. Each Big Five power will deliver the votes it can influence and conference leaders are confident the small nations will get in line.

May Win Concessions

The small nations may be able to win some important concessions which will make it easier for them to accept the Yalta voting formula. They are strongly opposed to the proposed provisions of the league charter that would enable a Big Five power to veto a future conference to revise the charter and also to veto amendments thereto that may be voted by the league's assembly from time to time. They are also opposed to a Big Five veto on selection of the secretary general who is to be the chief administrative officer of the league.

Russia is insisting on the veto power in connection with all these minor matters but among the other great power delegates there is considerable support for the position of the small nations. Thru later amendment of the charter the veto could be eliminated or softened.

The chief argument for the veto is that the success of the peace league will depend on the unanimity of the great powers possessing the military strength to enforce peace. If they are unanimous, peace can be enforced. If they are not unanimous another war would be in the making anyway and the peace league would collapse.

CHINESE SEIZE ROAD CENTER IN LIUCHOW DRIVE

Pursue Japs Near Former U. S. Air Base

'Mars' Men in China

CHUNGKING, June 3 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters today permitted disclosure of the presence in China of the "Mars" task force, veterans of Burma. The force, comprising the United States 475th infantry and 124th cavalry regiments, has been in China several months.

[The "Mars" task force was made up of veteran jungle fighters from the old "Marauders," who saw action in Burma last summer, plus replacements from the United States and volunteers from the United States forces stationed in the India-Burma theater.]

CHUNGKING, June 3 (AP)—Chinese troops in south central China today recaptured the important highway junction town of Chienkiang [Tsinkong] and threatened two Japanese held former American air bases—the big bomber field at Liuchow and the fighter drome at Shaoyang.

Rewinning Chienkiang after almost seven months of Japanese occupation, Chinese veterans smashed to a point 53 miles southwest of Liuchow and were pursuing fleeing enemy forces toward the city.

At the same time Chinese soldiers closed in on Shaoyang [Paoching], 330 miles southeast of Chungking, and battered within seven and a half miles of the former base. Another point eight miles northwest of Shaoyang was seized.

Advance Toward Indo-China

Chienkiang, 430 miles southeast of Chungking, lies astride the Liuchow-Indo-China highway and by its recapture Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops widened to 155 miles the breach in the southern end of Japan's land bridge from Korea to southeast Asia.

At the south end of the gap Chinese forces striking along the highway to Indo-China reached the suburbs of Szelo and were fighting for possession of the town, 22 miles from the Indo-China frontier.

United States 14th air force headquarters reported that a fighter mission had attacked a Japanese artillery column moving eastward from Liuchow in the area of Towpai, 35 miles to the east on the Liuchow-Canton motor road. The Japanese suffered high losses as they were bombed and strafed by American flyers.

Bomb Warehouse Area

More than 220 miles northeast of the vital Liuchow sector, the warehouse area in Shaoyang was blasted by bomb carrying P-51 Mustangs.

Farther north, the Chinese command admitted the Japanese had made further gains in what appeared to be a diversionary thrust westward from Siangsiang, important Japanese stronghold 60 miles north of Hengyang.

Advance Japanese elements were placed 30 miles west of Siangsiang compared with the 19 miles announced yesterday in the first report of the Japanese drive which began on May 2. The Japanese drive appeared designed to relieve the Chinese pressure on Shaoyang.

North of the Yangtze river, American Mitchell medium bombers blasted a Japanese ammunition dump at Nanyang in southwestern Honan province, while Mustangs struck deep in Japanese territory in northeast China and raided an airdrome at Tsinan in north central Shantung.

Seize Burma Towns

Captions tell latest British gains in Burma.

CALCUTTA, India, June 3 (AP)—British troops, hurling Japanese forces in southeast Burma back toward Thailand [Siam] have captured the mountain-bound highway stronghold of Thandaung, 150 miles north of Rangoon, it was announced today. Thandaung was seized by British forces pressing into 7,600 foot mountains between the Sittang and Salween rivers. The town is 18 miles east northeast of Toungoo.

East of Toungoo, British veterans gained two and a half miles along the highway to Thailand, but were slowed 15½ miles east by Japanese bunker positions.

Forty-five miles north of Rangoon, the British occupied Paunggyi, 20 miles west of Pegu. Indian troops patroling the Japanese "escape" bridge at Kama, west of the Irrawaddy river, found 63 enemy dead. The Japanese were killed as a result of an artillery bombardment of positions from where enemy forces are attempting to force the Irrawaddy and break out of a British trap.

MAN SHOT ON PLAYGROUND DIES

STEINMETZ HIGH GOES OVER TOP IN BOND DRIVE

Students of Steinmetz High school, who last year earned their school top place among those with organized war bond drives, rallied yesterday in the auditorium in behalf of the Mighty Seventh war loan. Up to yesterday, the students had sold $2,500,000 in bonds, compared with a quota of 1 million dollars. The quota was exceeded by three girl students alone. Leona Kurpias, 5845 Berenice st., Louise Blikowski, 5251 Windsor av., and Helen Prokopowicz, 2308 Mango av., together sold to parents, friends, and merchants of the community $2,014,000 in war securities.

INDIA MOSLEMS WARN BRITAIN TO FREE EX-MUFTI

NEW DELHI, India, June 3 [Reuters]—Ali Jinnah's paper Dawn, organ of the All-India Moslem league, today warned Britain and France not to harm Haj Amin el Husseini, formerly mufti of Jerusalem. French troops captured the mufti in Germany. The paper declared, "It would be fatal folly if the British government were to charge him with treason for opposing the policy of Jewish appeasement in Palestine.

"If the grand mufti of Jerusalem has been turned into a wanderer on the face of the earth for insisting that Britain should honor her pledges to the Arabs, any further insult or injury to him on the part of the British will explode the moslem world." The paper asks Britain to obtain the grand mufti's release.

[Haj Amin el Husseini fled from Palestine to Syria in 1937, went to Baghdad in October, 1939, and arrived in Italy in October, 1941, on his way to Germany.]

He was an honorably discharged soldier, getting back into Richman Brothers civvies. There was happiness in his eyes as he surveyed himself in our big three-sided mirror. With satisfaction he noticed the tag reading "all wool." He was delighted to find that our materials and workmanship were as good as they were in the Richman suit he bought in 1941. Then came the big thrill. Told that our clothes were still $24.50 or $29.50, he was amazed. "Why I thought clothing prices had gone way up," he exclaimed.

Yes, clothing prices have gone up, but not at Richman Brothers. Here, in spite of war, Richman Brothers have steadfastly held the line by keeping quality up—and prices down.

That Button!

We don't know who invented the lapel buttonhole; in fact, we don't even know who invented the lapel. But we do know that there is a new button appearing, these days, on the lapels of thousands of lads and lassies who left their homes and their jobs to join the Armed Forces. Now they have been honorably discharged for various reasons. We hope it won't be long before there will be millions of such buttons in sight, wherever we go and wherever we look.

The button we speak of depicts an American eagle's spread wings inside a circle. More and more, each day, it is becoming known as the United States Service Discharge Pin, but it wasn't very long ago that it was known as the "Emblem That Nobody Knows". We ought to become thoroughly familiar with that button because it is a badge of honor. The wearers of the emblem were ready and willing to give their all, if necessary, for the preservation of their country.

We, here at Schenley, saw nearly seventeen hundred of our boys and girls enter the armed service. Some of them will never be back with us.

Fortunately, however, we are seeing more and more honorable discharge buttons lately. The wearers are ready to take up their jobs again and their old jobs are waiting for them. American business, you remember, promised them their old jobs when they returned and is keeping its promise.

Let's get familiar with that emblem so that we don't have to say, "What's that button you're wearing?" Let's know that it's an emblem of distinction—that button!

MacARTHUR MEN ENTER 3 TOWNS NORTH OF DAVAO

Fleeing Japs Leave Food on Tables

MANILA, June 4 [Monday] (AP)—Heavy fighting broke out yesterday on the Mindanao battle grounds around Davao as United States 24th infantry division troops aided by guerrillas forced the Japanese out of defenses anchored to the towns of Ula, Alhambra, and Bayabas, northwest of Davao.

Doughboys who broke into the towns on Saturday found fires in stoves and food on tables, indicating that the Japanese and the civilian populations had fled after coördinated American tank and infantry attacks smashed the outer defenses.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said deep wedges had been driven into the enemy defenses west of Davao, and that on the northern Island of Luzon the United States 6th army had reached points four miles north of Santa Fe.

6,550 Japs Slain in Week

MacArthur announced that 6,550 Japanese dead were counted in the Philippines last week, and 503 had been captured, raising to 385,480 total Japanese casualties in the eight months' long campaign. American casualties were 225 killed and 657 wounded for the week, MacArthur said.

In the 8th army fighting on Mindanao, units of the 24th division ran into heavy battling near the base of the Philippines' largest mountain, 10,000 foot Apo, an active volcano. Troops that landed on Luayon Point, 75 miles southeast of Davao, on Friday, encountered no opposition in extending their beachhead.

Marine dive bombers smashed hard at Japanese concentrations at Bukidnon, northwest of the Davao area. Torpedo boats and P-40 fighters destroyed three barges, a launch, and shore installations at Saragani, South Mindanao.

Half Mile Advance

On Luzon the 37th division in a half mile advance into the Cagayan valley along highway No. 5 on Saturday encountered Japanese antitank fire but no organized defenses. Seventy-five Japanese were killed in this American advance.

The 38th division in central Luzon killed 31 Japanese in mopping up work in the Ipo sector and met stiff resistance on both sides of the Marikina and Bosabosa rivers.

American heavy bombers of the 5th air force hurled 275 tons on Japanese military installations at Takao on the island of Formosa. Many warehouses and other buildings were destroyed by fire. Other planes bombed the Koshun area to the south and fighters destroyed or damaged six locomotives and more than 100 freight cars and vehicles in strafing attacks.

Sink 3,000 Ton Transport

Navy Liberators sank a 3,000 ton freighter transport off Shanghai and a smaller freighter off Canton, fired enemy supply dumps at Canton and damaged railways in Indo-China.

Japanese reaction to American reconnaissance raids on Singapore was on the increase. Two Japanese fighters shot down one Liberator, and 13 other Japanese fighters made 31 passes at another Liberator.

MacArthur reported that Australian and Netherlands Indies ground forces were reducing Japanese defenses in the central interior of Tarakan.

Mustang Fighters on Iwo Put Under 20th Air Force

GUAM, June 4 [Monday]—(AP)—Mustang fighters of the Iwo based 7th fighter command have been placed under the tactical and operational command of the 20th air force. They formerly were under operational control of Fleet Adm. Nimitz. The command was changed to achieve more effective coördination of 7th fighter command Mustang forces in flying escort missions over Japan with 21st bomber command Super Fortresses.

Dedicates Chapel

Gen. Maud Ballington Booth, who dedicated new chapel of Volunteers of America in Chicago yesterday.

Gen. Maud Ballington Booth, 79, national head of the Volunteers of America, a social service, welfare, and religious education organization, yesterday dedicated a new chapel in northwest area headquarters of the Volunteers, 2841 Washington blvd. The chapel was named for, and constructed as a memorial to, Mrs. Booth's late husband, Gen. Ballington Booth, who founded the Volunteers in 1896.

Mrs. Booth, white-haired, but vigorous and alert, has continued active in the organization since the death of her husband four years ago. She devotes most of her time to work in prisons thruout the nation, counseling prisoners regarding their adjustment to life upon their release. Yesterday she delivered a sermon at Stateville penitentiary, Joliet, before attending the dedication.

Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the People's church, and a member of the Chicago advisory board of the Volunteers, introduced Mrs. Booth.

Two wristwatches, one set with diamonds and the other with rubies, valued at $600 and $280, respectively, were stolen yesterday by thieves who entered his apartment in the rear of his grocery at 5116 Archer av., Joseph Osser reported to the police.

U. S. DOLLAR GETS 1,100 CHINESE ON BLACK MARKET

CHUNGKING, June 3 (AP)—The black market value of the American dollar has topped 1,000 Chinese dollars for the first time and showed signs today of rising still further.

The reason for the rise was believed to have been speculative buying caused by rumors that the government intended to hike the official rate from 20 to 860 Chinese dollars for one American dollar.

Despite government denial of such a plan, the black market rate started rising from around 700 to one on Wednesday to more than 1,000 to one Saturday, and some transactions were reported at the rate of 1,100 to 1.

SERVE NATION, GRADUATES AT U. OF I. ARE URGED

Champaign, Ill., June 3 [Special]—Members of the graduating class of the University of Illinois heard a plea in their commencement day address today that they make government their own concern. There were 650 persons in the class, 225 of them from Chicago and Cook county.

Dr. Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa, who delivered the address, said the nation is in grave danger unless able people can be attracted into government.

"By your opinion, your votes, and your participation in public office, you can make this government your own," he said. "Because of our position as a great world power, the actions of our government will have profound effects upon the post-war period. We shall need all the political skill and sagacity of our people if we are to attain peace and security."

HOW TO STOP GETTING UP FEELING TERRIBLE THE "MORNING AFTER" AND FEELING TERRIBLE ALL THE DAY AFTER evening BEFORE morning AFTER

Now Simply Drink "Morning After" away This Simple Quick EASY WAY

The digestive tract needs to be cleaned out, and depressed nerves need a lift, when you wake up feeling terrible the "morning-after." If this is not done you may feel terrible for hours longer than may be necessary. Your head swims, you feel depressed, nervous and jerky. Taking commonly used depressant headache preparations may only further depress the nerves, and that's wrong. So to clean out the digestive tract, to help steady those nerves and to feel good again, just try this . . .

. . . first thing in the morning when you get out of bed, take bubbling effervescent KRUSCHEN in ice cold water, and follow it a half hour later with one or two cupfuls of good strong coffee. You can get a package of effervescent Kruschen at any drug store. Caution: Use only as directed. A teaspoonful of good effervescent Kruschen mixed with a glassful of ice cold water is inexpensive to use and makes a delicious and refreshing ice cold drink. Get effervescent Kruschen today. Always have it on hand for such emergencies.

PERSONAL LOANS NOW AT

Low BANK Rates

Why pay two to three times Merchandise Bank's low charges?

• Savings shown apply to "signature only" loans repaid in 12 monthly instalments, cost to be deducted in advance. You can save even more if you borrow with one co-maker. In either case, you save at least half of usual and lawful Small Loan Charges.

For a 12 mo. $100 LOAN	At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay	$20.84
	At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only	8.00
	YOU SAVE	$12.84
For a 12 mo. $200 LOAN	At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay	$39.52
	At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only	16.00
	YOU SAVE	$23.52

Why Pay More THAN THIS LOW COST?

AT USUAL small loan rates—on a loan of $100—you have to make 12 payments of about $10.07 each. Figure it out—that's $120.84—or $20.84 more than you borrowed!

At Merchandise Bank a similar loan will cost you only $5.50 (if you use the popular One Co-Maker Plan), saving you $15.34 on $100 for 1 year. (Can't you use that fifteen dollars?) Or—if you borrow on your signature only, the cost is only $8—and you still save $12.84. In either case the saving amounts to nearly as much as two payments. And you save proportionately on any amount you borrow at Merchandise Bank.

"Did you say what I thought you said?"

ASKED ELSIE, the Borden Cow

"IF YOU THOUGHT I said Borden's is the best-tasting milk in town," grinned Junior, "that's exactly what I said!"

Lots of other youngsters say the same. And that's important to mothers, because the better milk tastes, the better chance of getting children to drink all they need. Milk's a wonderfully healthful food, and Borden's—thanks to Quality Control—is milk at its very best.

Quality Control, you see, means that Borden's Milk is tested constantly for better quality and taste in the world's biggest, finest dairy research laboratories. And every drop is carefully protected all the way from "moo" to you.

"It's no wonder so many folks are switching to Borden's Milk," adds Mother, busy saving kitchen fats for extra red points. "They know that 'if it's Borden's, it's got to be good!'"

SAVE USED FATS FOR YOUR COUNTRY! They are desperately needed to help make medicines, parachutes, synthetic rubber, munitions and hundreds of other essentials. GET EXTRA RED POINTS FOR YOURSELF! EXPECT DUTCH LEFT SWING TO MISS GOING RED

Communist Take Over of New Regime Doubted

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 3—Whatever form the new government of the Netherlands takes, it is expected to tend toward the left, but more toward a policy of progressive liberalism than of communism, according to informed Dutch observers.

There is little fear the Communists will be able to take over the government as they have done in several liberated countries farther east in Europe, as they constituted only a small party before the war.

However, they probably will be able to make stronger demands, as their organization in underground units and cells survived the German occupation more intact than other more openly operated groups.

No Open Red Pressure

Tho there still is no definite decision whether the Communists will be included in the government that will succeed the London emigre regime of Dr. P. S. Gerbrandy, which recently resigned, there has been no open pressure from Moscow on the Dutch toward such inclusion, it is said.

While negotiations for the formation of the new government are proceeding, the Dutch are dealing with two kinds of political prisoners—those imprisoned by the Germans for patriot activities and those who collaborated with the enemy.

The prisoners of the Nazis are being released as fast as their cases can be investigated. Hundreds are trickling back from Germany, where they were moved by the Nazis, but no figures are available on their number.

An intensive roundup of collaborators is going on, and special tribunals have been set up to deal with them.

Fewer in Smaller Cities

In Amsterdam, a city of 800,000, more than 10,000 collaborators have been seized, but it is pointed out that this ratio is not indicative of collaboration thruout the country, as there are fewer collaborators in the smaller cities and towns.

Two men have been designated by Queen Wilhelmina to select the new cabinet. Such dual choice is believed to be without precedent in Holland.

They are Willem Drees, leftish Social Democrat political leader before the war, and Prof. Schermerhorn of Delft university. Schermerhorn was a leader among the passive resistance groups during the German occupation. He was not active in politics before the war, tho he has strong progressive liberal tendencies.

The new government is expected to merge old line politicians with new, more progressive elements, which have grown up during the occupation.

Way Was Made Clear

It was to clear the way for inclusion of patriot leaders in the homeland that the Gerbrandy cabinet resigned, as it had pledged it would do, to make room for a government of national character, including all the main parties on a broader basis than would have been possible from the ranks of the ministers in London.

The Catholic groups are due for increased representation, it is said, and it is likely that the Socialists, who were not represented in the Gerbrandy government, will get some seats.

Dutch authorities see no possibility of holding a general election sooner than a year and a half to two years. This is due to the disruption of communications, great shifts in the population, the movement by the Nazis of at least half a million patriots into Germany, and the destruction of population registers by the patriots to keep the Nazis from finding more slave labor.

However, in every city, town, and village, the local councils are trying to get new administrations named, mainly thru the advice of resistance leaders.

Meanwhile, most of the administration is being done by Dutch military authorities who were ready to take over when the Nazis gave up Holland. They are working in close conjunction with the SHAEF mission in Holland, which is providing much assistance, Dutch leaders say.

'Midsummer Nightmare'

(Copyright, 1945, By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy a cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. The Jennesma factory is managed by Dirk Adams, Winnie's fiance. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a car motor, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley. Sen. North, Riley's investigator, falls in love with Olivia. Jason Kimball, in charge of publicity, is fond of Winnie. The oft-married Hilda Jennesma Paradine claims money is missing from her cottage. Hilda is found murdered—stabbed. Tillie tells Police Lt. French that Olivia, who walks in her sleep, went downstairs during the night and took the knife from the kitchen. The missing money is found in Winnie's room. Dirk was with Hilda shortly before her murder. Olivia finds herself turning to Sen. North, but there is a barrier, a secret marriage in her youth. Jerrold Corbin, Hilda's first husband, is upset because Hilda left him only $1,000. Tillie is poisoned. Gerrit receives three anonymous threats. Tillie deposited $5,000 in cash in her bank and bought arsenic at the drug store. A fourth threat is addressed to Gerrit. The knife was hidden in Olivia's garden. Dirk's I. O. U. for $5,000 is among Hilda's things. Olivia receives a warning. Tho attacked and wounded, Gerrit refuses medical aid. French discovers a blank paper has been substituted for Olivia's warning note. Paradine is found and held. Corbin wants to search further for the will. French believes Hilda planted the money in Winnie's room. Gerrit's workshop burns, but his motor design is safe. Olivia thinks she saw Corbin at the fire

BODY FOUND

Miss Warburton caught at Kim. "You could sit down and rest for a minute. The world wouldn't stop, you know."

"Yeah?" Kim grinned, tired, sardonic. "I will. Later. Want to be on the spot when they cool it off enough to start looking. Want to sort of keep an eye on the boss. Poor old goat. He's about ready to crack." He vanished out of the door.

"I wonder," said the senator, with a pensive frown, "if that young man knows Morgan? Morgan Riley?"

It was nearly noon before the ruins cooled enough to be handled.

The troopers had made small, hurried sorties into various parts of the small factory, while it was still warm, but had discovered nothing. There was an excavated basement room under Gerrit's bath and study and a great deal of debris had dropped into this, including the shower. This was a sort of steel unit, porcelain coated, with floor, walls, and top riveted or welded together.

It really amounted to a sort of metal box with one side open. It had turned so that the open side was hidden from above and covered by slabs of the tiled wall.

Sybrand plodded unceasingly around the wreckage. His stiff gray face with its burning eyes slowly turned toward the ruins as he moved along, speaking to no one, hearing no one.

But gradually every one's suspicions began to concentrate on what had been the bathroom. A stream of water poured over it unceasingly, and it would soon be cool enough to handle.

Lt. French was still directing the troopers. Sen. North made valiant efforts not to interfere. Miss Warburton had gone over to the cottage after breakfast to take a bath and put on fresh clothes. The senator looked older and a little drawn, and Miss Warburton was dismayed to find it only made her feel closer to him.

Winnie was still dead to the world, but Kim was very prevalent. He had been one of the first to venture into the wreck, prying under the litter with a section of pipe in his right hand. French ordered him out.

There was still a circle of diehard spectators, and several newsmen were there with photographers.

At last, half a dozen troopers climbed into the still warm hole that had been the bathroom. With several crowbars they pried off the slabs of tiling and chunks of charred timber. Then they slowly levered the heavy steel cabinet so that its open side would be up.

As it began to turn, French leaped down into the hole and peered into it. He glanced at his red faced toiling men, then upward to where Sybrand Jennesma was stationed, peering over the edge of the debris. Miss Warburton and Kim were on either side of him, in case they were needed.

French's expression hardly changed. Nobody spoke. But suddenly from the rear of the crowd a woman began to shriek hysterically.

Miss Warburton felt numbness creep up her legs, but threw it off quickly and kept her eyes on Sybrand Jennesma. He knew they had found something. But it only etched a little deeper the grim, stiff lines about his mouth.

It was surprising there was so much left of Gerrit's boy. One side was badly burned and his legs were consumed. But there was a large patch of skin on his left temple still untouched. It had been covered by the bandage which was burned only a little at the top, tho the lower half and the cheek beneath it were consumed. That one spot must have rested against the tile floor.

Sybrand's incredible resolution had enabled him to watch the body removed from the cabinet and inspect what was left of the face enough to identify it. The old seal ring that Gerrit always wore was still on his right hand, tho the fingers were black. Sybrand harshly ordered nobody to remove it. It had belonged to their father, Klaas.

Then he turned and walked toward the house. Kim took a step or two after him, then stopped and looked at North questioningly. The senator shrugged.

Lt. French looked after him, too, as did all the assembled crowd. No doubt there were many questions the lieutenant wanted to ask Mr. Jennesma, but there were other things even more urgent and immediate.

French's patience seemed to have disappeared with Mr. Jennesma. The troopers, under his orders, were breaking up the avid crowds and sending them about their business.

The medical examiner had been summoned by radio, but French was not losing any time waiting for him. Kneeling by the charred remains he began to examine every inch with concentrated care. Several of the troopers returned to hunt for any clues as to how he met his end.

Miss Warburton said quietly to the senator, "I'm not being of any use here. I think I'll try to get some sleep. Send Winnie along when she wakes. If anyone wants me, I'll be at the cottage."

"Very sensible." North caught the eye of Trooper Allen, beckoned with his head.

"Now see here," Miss Warburton was too tired to be tactful. "I've been patient with other people's foibles long enough. But I'm just a bit fed up. I will not have a keeper. Why, it's been days since I got the note and nothing has happened. The five days were up last Friday."

"Of course, nothing has happened. You've been watched every minute of the time. The fellow is simply waiting till you relax your fear and dismiss the guard. As long as French thinks you are in danger . . ."

She glanced quickly toward the troopers who hid the kneeling lieutenant. That was different. If he thought she was in peril! "Are you sure he thinks that?"

"Certainly: Now more than ever. Can't you see those notes were no idle threats to Gerrit. He defied them . . . and . . . there he is!"

She whispered, "But maybe it was just an accident. Perhaps the place accidentally caught fire and he saw it first and ran out to save things and was trapped by the flames."

"You can't really believe that, Olivia, knowing Gerrit. Remember what a racket he made shouting for help the night he was wounded? Surely, if he saw his place on fire he'd have paused long enough to rouse the household to help him save things. And, too, he would not have been dropped in the bathroom. The hall outside it had doors at either end. And the window was large enough to crawl thru. No. That was no accident."

She knew he was right.

ROAD TO JAPAN VIA PHILIPPINES OPENED BY SUBS

Guerrillas Supplied Under Eyes of Japs

[This is another of a series of stories on submarines and men of the underseas fleet in the Pacific.]

BY HAMILTON FARON

AT SUBMARINE BASE IN THE PACIFIC, June 3 (AP)—The job of supplying guerrilla fighters in the Philippine Islands during Japanese occupation was carried out on at least one occasion under the eyes of the enemy and with pomp and fanfare.

This fantastic day may be disclosed now under a navy decision to lift the ban on much of the activity of the submarines which have played such a large part in opening the way for advances toward Japan.

The underseas boats on many occasions slipped into bays and coves at night to deliver supplies to Filipino bands who carried on constant warfare against the Japanese garrisons.

Nobody Believes It

But hardly on more than one occasion could a submarine have gone up a river to a dock to be welcomed by a band and cheering crowds as Lt. W. R. Anderson, Waynesboro, Tenn., vows happened when he served aboard a boat carrying supplies to the Philippines.

"Nobody ever believes this story when I tell it, but I'll swear it is true," says Anderson, now engineering officer on another submarine.

He told of the boat, on which he served many months ago, slipping into a bay, then up the estuary of a river on a Philippine island which may not now be identified.

The submarine crept over sandbars in the bay and nudged its way upstream, several times hanging up momentarily. Finally, Anderson says, she reached the dock where a huge welcoming committee was lined up in holiday attire.

Took No Chances

Flags were waving and people cheering and there even was a band to play "Anchors Aweigh" and other navy tunes, he continued.

Despite or possibly because of the welcome, the boat's officers took no chances of a trap, and made doubly certain there was no ambush before preparing to unload the supplies they carried.

Later they asked guerrilla leaders if they were not taking great risks in permitting the demonstration, Anderson said. The leaders, he continued, replied that the Japanese had been told and believed that the welcome was part of a carefully planned celebration of a local holiday.

Subsequently other officers confirmed the story to the extent of saying they had heard the action reported by many of the officers and men aboard the submarine.

"I couldn't believe it either," said one high ranking submarine officer, "but now I'm inclined to believe it must be true."

LAST GERMAN GENERAL READY FOR CAPTIVITY

Lindemann's Troops Leave Denmark by June 15

GERMAN SUPREME HDQ., SILKEBORG, Denmark, June 2 [Delayed]—(AP)—Col. Gen. Georg Lindemann, highest German officer still protected by his own machine guns, said today the evacuation of the German garrison from Denmark "will be completed according to plan by June 15, and then I shall follow my men—into imprisonment."

Gen. Lindemann

"The future of Germany," he said, "depends upon the allied control commission. I have no message either for German troops or the civil population at this time."

Within the fantastic setting of an idyllic Danish lakeside resort ringed by barbed wire and mines with German tommy gunners standing 24 hour watches at the single entrance and with pretty wehrmacht telephone operators hanging out newly washed silk lingerie behind the pine tree shaded barracks, the commander in chief of the largest existing enemy force held his first press interview.

Credits Air Superiority

Asked to name as "a matter of historical interest" the reason Germany lost the second World war, Lindemann glared for a moment, then replied: "Allied air superiority."

To a question as to whether interference in the German general staff by the Nazi party had contributed to Germany's defeat, he compressed his thin lips and said:

"I am unable to discuss that. I have never been a member of any political party in my life. No German officer in this room was a member of the Nazi party," he scowled.

Lindemann was impeccably dressed in high black boots and a field uniform that fitted like a glove. Above his high collar, decorated with red flashes and golden oak leaves, his face was cherry colored as if by chronic high blood pressure.

Family Causes Sigh

His steely reserve melted only once—at the mention of his family.

"My wife is at Radstadt by Salzburg in southern Germany," he said as he took out an envelope and referred to an address before continuing.

"My two daughters are in Blumenburg near Potsdam."

He breathed a half sigh as he said:

"Yes I know. My family is divided between the Russian and allied occupation zones."

Adamantly he refused to say what effect the German losses on the eastern front had on the wehrmacht.

"I was not on the east front at a decisive time," he said. "I commanded the sector from Narva on the Finnish gulf to the Barents sea only until last July 3."

Told that some observers suspected German ground force commanders of blaming the reverses on air difficiencies in order to pass the buck, Lindemann's eyes glittered, but he did not comment.

Lindemann confirmed a report of the supreme allied headquarters mission at Copenhagen that since May 10 more than 171,000 armed German troops have marched out of Denmark into prison cages of the 21st army group in Germany.

20,000 Still in Denmark

Less than 20,000 remain, all units acting upon telephonic instructions from Lindemann's headquarters here.

"By June 15 this evacuation will be completed according to plan," he said, "leaving only a certain number of hospitalized troops and others engaged in mine removal or other tasks for the allies. I shall not wait for this later category before going over the frontier myself."

Asked if there would be any ceremony attached to his becoming prisoner, such as giving up his sword, he said:

"I do not have a sword."

About 450 Germans, 100 of them comely young women with carefully groomed hair and red tinted fingernails staff the headquarters. About 100 officers carry out Lindemann's orders.

Some of the wehrmacht girls were in uniform. Others sauntered along footpaths in gayly flowered summer frocks holding hands with husky admirers. Six armored cars parked outside a garage were filled with young women and their men friends.

PROPOSES LAW TO SELL ALIEN PROPERTIES NOW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 3—Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] said tonight he will introduce a bill in the house tomorrow calling for the immediate sale of all seized alien enemy property with the funds derived to be held in trust by the treasury and used to reimburse Americans who have suffered injury by reason of enemy action.

Gearhart said it is reliably reported that nazi natives of captured German towns already are pestering our commanding officers for information as to where and how they can file claims against the United States government for damages to their property resulting from military action.

"With these impudent German villagers already taking steps to assert war claims against the United States for bombarding their homes and business houses, it is tragic to observe that absolutely no provision has been made nor a single step taken by congress to protect our position or to gain reimbursement for the billions of dollars of private losses which American citizens have suffered at the hands of our axis enemies," he said.

TAVERN EMPLOYE BEATEN, ROBBED

Three Negroes beat Joseph Chess, 52, of 5116 Greenwood av., an employe of a tavern at 708 E. 47th st., yesterday and escaped with $100 and four cases of whisky after locking him in the refrigerator, he told police.

MILLION BRITISH GO FOR SPIN AS GAS BAN EASES

LONDON, June 3 (AP).—Royal automobile club officials estimated that approximately one million pleasure cars thronged English highways today—the first Sunday since restoration of the basic gasoline ration of four gallons monthly.

But the motorists, indulging in their first pleasure driving since it was banned in July, 1942, found that the old bus wasn't what it used to be.

Long unused tires popped, carburetors failed to function and radiators developed leaks. Main roads were dotted with broken automobiles.

CRIPPS WARNS BRITISH TO KEEP SOVIET FRIENDLY

Clash of Interests Stirs Red Suspicion, He Says

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, said tonight that Britain must show "a genuine and honest desire to understand and cooperate with the soviet union" lest a clash of interests develop which would lead to "a century of antagonism and struggle."

Stafford Cripps

Cripps was Laborite minister of aircraft production in the war time coalition government and now seeks reelection to parliament on the Labor party ticket. In a speech, he said the British point of view must be presented with "dignity and strength, but we must, too, make it our particular care not to say or do rash and impetuous things that are, or reasonably appear to be, hostile to the soviet union."

The former cabinet minister declared that the soviet union was suspicious that Britain might "relapse after the war into that uneasy and almost hostile association which marked the pre-war relationships."

Thinks Fear Unfounded

At the same time, he said, many persons in England feared Russia would overrun eastern Europe or impose her form of government on countries at her border.

"I believe these fears are unfounded," Cripps said. "But we must remember that in Russian eyes there are two alternative forms of security for their country.

"One consists of a strong international organization in which all countries cooperate with friendship, which will secure Russia, as other countries against fresh aggression.

"The other is the sphere of influence and control, which, failing a wider system of security, will at least prevent neighboring states from being used as jumping off ground for future aggression, as they have been used many times in the past."

Sees Churchill Shelved

Hugh Dalton, former president of the board of trade, also campaigning on the Labor party ticket, said that Prime Minister Churchill might be shelved by his Conservative party when he was no longer considered an election asset.

Dalton argued that the Labor party should get credit for the Churchill war leadership because it refused to serve under Neville Chamberlain but agreed to sit with Churchill.

Dalton reiterated the Labor party's plea for a "wide extension of public enterprise and public ownership" for coal, electrical production and generation, heavy industry, inland transport by rail, road, water and air, and for the Bank of England.

CHINA COALITION URGED BY RED AS WAY TO WIN WAR

Asks Democratic Rule to Bring Unity

MOSCOW, June 3 (AP)—A Moscow journalist said today the way to bring national unity in China is to create a coalition government dedicated to democracy and winning of the war.

The Chinese also should improve their relations with the soviet union, the United States, and Great Britain, Commentator Krainov, writing in the government newspaper Izvestia said.

Krainov declared the first step should be the calling of an assembly of all parties, groups, and organizations in China, the second the removal of reactionaries he said are now at the head of the Kuomintang, Chinese government party.

Then, he asserted, the Chinese soldiers, who know how to fight, could bring their full power to bear against the Japanese.

Yielded to Enemy

The soviet writer said that altho battle conditions were in their favor a Chinese army last year "without a battle abandoned important positions to the enemy, using their troops to blockade the 8th and 4th [Chinese Communist] armies which led a heroic struggle against the Japanese occupants."

Krainov asserted some Chinese military leaders are more concerned with "liquidation of the Partisan movement and blockading of a special frontier district" than they are with combating the Japanese.

Krainov asserted that the way Chinese politics were going the Chinese national assembly "may become a screen behind which the reactionary leaders of the Kuomintang seek even more to strengthen the power already in their hands, under the guise of bringing democracy to the state."

EX-SAILOR, 17, DIES IN CRASH OF STOLEN CAR; GIRL INJURED

John Robert Wayne, 17, of 1607 E. 68th st., a discharged navy machinist's mate, first class, was killed and a young woman believed to be Emma Scott, 17, was critically injured yesterday when a stolen automobile he was driving overturned at the intersection of routes 53 and 66-A, 12 miles south of Joliet, Will county. She is in St. Joseph's hospital, Joliet.

Police said the automobile had been stolen Saturday night from the Emery Best garage at 5517 Lake Park av. The car is owned by Arnold Marks, 5555 Everett av. Wayne was discharged eight weeks ago after 18 months of service when the navy discovered he was under enlistment age, his father, John, said.

Corp. Walter T. Colclough, 39, of East Orange, N. J., died yesterday in Fort Sheridan hospital of injuries suffered Friday when the automobile he was driving collided with a street car in Racine, Wis. Capt. Joseph F. Atkins, 41, commanding officer of the prisoner of war branch camp at Hartford, Wis., a passenger in the car, suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries.

MUNICH REVIVES CATHOLIC RITE NAZIS BANNED

MUNICH, Germany, June 3 (AP)—For the first time since 1939, Munich's Catholics held an outdoor Corpus Christi procession today. Thousands found vantage points in the bomb rubble to view the rite. With Cardinal Faulhaber officiating, a short mass was held in Trinity church. Then the procession moved thru the streets for a succession of three masses, the last on a spot in Ludwig st. where the nazi putsch of 1923 was put down by Munich police.

A huge rack with the crucifix and a reproduction of the torn body of Christ were borne by hundreds in the two hour long procession. Villagers came early from the countryside to view the ancient festival long banned by the Nazis. Munich police formed an honor guard. Cardinal Faulhaber's request for American Catholic soldiers to furnish the guard was not complied with.

SWIMS 20 HOURS, GETS PLANE TO SAVE 5 IN LAKE

New Orleans, La., June 3 (AP)—Five members of a fishing party whose boat capsized on Lake Pontchartrain were rescued by air today after a sixth member swam more than 10 miles in 20 hours to get help.

William Hayes, New Orleans, reached West End at 2 p. m. after the exhausting swim and the five others were picked up by a PBY [Catalina] patrol bomber two hours later. They had spent 23 hours in the water and suffered burns from gasoline which spread in the water when their boat sank. All were equipped with life preservers.

THE NEW FRONTIER IN EUROPE

The new frontier in Europe, with Russia perched on the Elbe, 315 miles from the Belgian coast and 445 air miles from London, must leave Britain on the uneasy seat. London is within bombing range of Russian held territory and perhaps even within range of improved V-bombs.

The new order in Europe, to understate the matter, was not precisely what either Britons or American interventionists would have bargained for when Herr Hitler was occupying their thoughts. It was discovered very late in the day that Marshal Stalin would not be content to rest upon the Russian frontier, or even upon what has been sometimes called the Curzon line and, on other occasions, the Molotov-Ribbentrop line in eastern Poland. He kept inching ahead toward the west, and only after his troops took up their stations well beyond Berlin did the world learn that, at Yalta, or Tehran, or somewhere along the line, his right to do so had been conceded.

Prime Minister Churchill is said always to have favored an Anglo-American invasion thru the Balkans, rather than thru western Europe, as a means ostensibly of getting at Germany. If the invasion route had been from this direction, it is obvious that Stalin would not have been able to consolidate all Europe east of the Elbe as he has done. Military jurisdictions would have been confused and no clear line of demarcation would have been possible in defining areas of occupation. In any event, Churchill was overruled and Stalin moved in.

The Russian conception of minimum requirements for the security of the borders of Russia proper has been constantly expanded. In mid-April, 1939, when Russia was dickering with the British for some kind of a treaty of mutual assistance, the Russians seemed to feel that they required only the three Baltic states as buffers. Germany was willing to bid up the price by throwing in eastern Poland, which was occupied by the Red army after Germany had overrun the rest of Poland.

When Russia had its back to the wall before Moscow and at Stalingrad, the dictator in the Kremlin was voicing no demands. But as the Germans weakened before a Russian army reënforced with American lend-lease tanks, trucks, ammunition, and supplies, and as Hitler was pushed back from the west after the Normandy invasion, Stalin raised his sights.

Now he apparently is unwilling to feel that Russia's frontier is safe unless he has Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, all of Poland, Hungary, Austria, Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia, and Germany east of the Elbe, together with a body scissors on Finland, a toehold on Denmark, and some sort of clutch as yet unspecified on Turkey. The British may be inclined to wonder whether he wouldn't feel even more secure if he moved on to the channel coast and perhaps down to the Straits of Gibraltar.

Certainly, there is nothing to stop Stalin from taking the channel coast any time the American army withdraws the bulk of its troops from Europe. England, far from having gained by the war, seems to be worse off than when she started. Mr. Churchill is on record as saying that, whatever happens, "the Union Jack of freedom will forever fly from the cliffs of Dover." It is a modest pledge from a country which for centuries could play one power off against another to maintain the balance of power on the continent, but even so little can not be reckoned a guaranteed certainty.

WHY NOT TRY IT OUT ON THE RUSSIANS?

Harry Hansen mentioned in his column in The Sunday Tribune book section recently the cross-fire to which book reviewers have been subjected in the controversy over W. L. White's book, "Report on the Russians." The National Council of American Soviet Friendship had distributed a magazine size booklet called "The Book the Nazis Like," in which scattered passages from reviews of Mr. White's book were set down in answer to his thesis that life in Russia is like being born and spending all of one's life "in a moderately well run penitentiary."

"While this political organization is entitled to make whatever reply it wishes to the White book," Mr. Hansen said of the council's publication, "its methods make it appear that reviewers are part of its front." Some of them undoubtedly are. Such writers and reviewers as Edgar Snow, Maurice Hindus, Edmund Stevens, Orson Welles, and Quentin Reynolds, whose remarks buttress the case of the American "friends" of Moscow, miss few opportunities to beat the drum on behalf of Stalin. Nor is another expert witness, Henry Wallace, to be considered completely disinterested when he confesses enthusiasm for diluting American Bill of Rights freedom by a 50 per cent injection of what he considers Russian democracy.

No matter how zealously American intellectuals endeavor to hew to the party line, they obviously do not qualify as competent critics of the appraisals of Mr. White or anybody else on life in Russia. Most of them have had very little more acquaintance with the soviet system than could be obtained by popping into Russia, taking a few cuff notes for a paean of praise, and popping back again to submit their manuscripts to their publishers. A few gentlemen like Mr. Hindus have visited Russia for extended periods, but their favorable bias is notorious.

The best hope of getting an accurate reaction to Mr. White's judgments is to let the Russians themselves pass upon the book. Surely, if there is as much democracy in Russia as some of our amateur Communists insist, the soviet publishing trust will hasten to publish a Russian edition of several million copies of Mr. White's report and will see that it is read from Odessa to Omsk.

Even if the Russian judgment should not be altogether favorable, the book should serve the useful purpose of providing instruction and improvement. The Russians will learn their shortcomings as some outsiders see them. The propaganda they receive thru a controled press and radio may have blinded them to the fact that there is room for improvement, and that by their own energy they can make the soviet union even more nearly perfect than some of its American apologists say it is.

The prospect that their feelings may be hurt by Mr. White's book may be contemplated with equanimity. When Mrs. Frances Trollope's "Domestic Manners of the Americans" was published a little more than a century ago there may have been an original disposition among our ancestors to feel that she had been unduly harsh. But in the long run her book brought substantial benefits. Americans began paying more careful heed to their behavior and, as a people, we acquired more savoir-faire, polish, and politeness. Even in Russia there may be room for some similar improvement, slight tho it may be.

NO SCAPA FLOW FOR AMERICA

The United States now has a navy greater than the fleets of all other nations combined. Since the start of the war we have tripled the number of combatant ships and expanded enormously in auxiliaries, smaller craft, landing ships, and naval aircraft. This program of building has been at an appalling cost, but with the navy that has been developed we have defeated the Japanese naval forces and the German submarines and kept the war far from our shores.

In a recent story, Henry Wales observes, however, that altho America is committed henceforth to a two ocean navy, Washington spokesmen have frowned on suggestions that our sea force should be the strongest afloat, as, by long odds, it is. Spokesmen, Mr. Wales says, have studiously referred to our post-war fleet as "second to none"—an implication that we might concede parity to some other power.

How could that be done? There is only one possible way, and that would be to scuttle enough of our fleet to reduce it to equality with that of Great Britain, the only other nation with pretensions to being a maritime power. The Japanese will come out of this war with no fleet left, as the Germans already have done. Italy's fleet was greatly reduced in combat before its surrender, and most of the French fleet was scuttled at Toulon. Russia does not possess a great fighting fleet, and China has none at all.

The danger to our navy after this war, as after 1918, when our fleet for the first time challenged the paramountcy of British sea power, will come from our diplomatic representatives. At the Washington naval conference of 1921 Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes and former Secretary of State Elihu Root thought that a spirit of meekness could be promoted thruout the world if we would set an example in sacrifice. Under the formula which they promoted, we agreed to scrap 30 capital ships and almost half of the 1,878,000 tons of naval shipping which all of the great powers consented to destroy.

We were the principal loser, as is obvious, but our representatives were not peculiar in their blindness to national interests. When it was proposed, for example, that submarines be abolished, the French delegates refused to agree to any limitation under 90,000 tons of these craft, altho they had never been used successfully by France and there was likelihood that some day France would repent her attitude, as, indeed, she did, when Germany's principal reliance at sea in the second World war proved again to be on U-boats.

Something about the atmosphere of international conferences seems to promote irrationality of this sort, and the evidence suggests that Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco invite us again to be on guard. Secretary of State Stettinius, for example, began an agitation for disarmament schemes as long ago as last February, when, in an interpretation of the Dumbarton Oaks plan, he said that one of the cornerstones of the proposed peace structure was "the progressive reduction of armaments, which in the modern world have become a crushing burden on the resources of all nations."

As has been said, if there is to be naval disarmament, we shall be the nation which is elected by all of the rest to disarm. Except for Britain, the other principal countries have no formidable fleets, and Britain can be trusted to place her reliance in the old argument that her far-flung empire and long lines of communication will not permit any fleet reduction.

There is only one answer to proposals that we scuttle our fleet, and that is that the American people do not propose to allow any modern Roots and Hugheses to sink our present navy and thereby make possible the destruction by bombing of our cities such as Japan and Germany have experienced. Aware that we are the only nation which stands to lose under such proposals, we must be on the lookout for foreign propaganda cropping up in this country to bewilder us and induce us to sacrifice the means of our protection.

It should be the keystone of American policy that we must not permit ourselves to be weakened sufficiently so that any combination of predatory European powers can again cause us to lose a million casualties.

THE OLDEST CITY

Damascus, scene of a shocking post-war crisis, may be called the oldest city in the world still flourishing on its original site, without any back-talk from the archaeologists. It is mentioned in the Book of Genesis and elsewhere in the Old Testament; also on Egyptian tablets of the 18th dynasty. The language of its ancient natives, called Aramaic, spread widely over the near east because of the city's aggressiveness in trade. It replaced a sister tongue, Hebrew, in Palestine, and was spoken by Jesus.

The city has been often captured and destroyed or damaged, but its Street Called Straight of the Bible is still there. Its white walls, domes, and minarets, rising among the verdure of a fertile plain, have seemed like paradise to desert weary men for more than 3,000 years. Its approximate age has never been estimated, for its prehistoric substrata, deep below the bustling market places, cannot be excavated.

Among its conquerors have been King David of Israel, Tiglath-pileser III. of Assyria, Alexander the Great, the ancient Romans, the fanatic Arabs of Mohammed, Tamerlane the Mongol, and Allenby of World War I. Among its romantic characters was Saladin the Saracen, who figures in the fantastic story of the Crusades. . . . Quite a city, this. Its modern visitors will be shown the houses of Judas and Ananias.

See the Acts of the Apostles, ix., 1-25, for the experience of St. Paul at Damascus:

"And as he journeyed he came near to Damascus; and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven; and he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, 'Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?'"

LAMENT IN EUROPE

O darkest of all tragedies, that these,
Our stalwart sons, are lying here today,
By darkness pent, mute prisoners of clay.
The summer nears, a dream is in the trees—
But not for them.

They were so young—how easy to condemn
Mere laughing lads to war's demonic fate!
They hurried forth; they were too proud to wait
For our embrace. Ah, that our love might stem
Our zeal for strife!

Our young, young dead! We gave them throbbing life
And bade them trust in God, in final good;
We led them in the ways of brotherhood:
But earth went mad, with flames the world was rife—
And these, our sons, are dead.

Choppy Finds a New Reader

The decorator said he would be in Monday morning, so I took Choppy to the vet's to be boarded for a few days. Naturally it was raining, and Choppy wanted to go home. I dragged him thru the vet's door, wet and bewildered. Choppy made himself real small so the vet could not find him, but he did, so Choppy set all fours and the vet promptly picked him up and took him back stage. It's sad, but no matter what a dog does, it will not work.

The decorator did not show up on Monday, so Choppy had to stay at the vet's another day. Tuesday the decorator came, and when I arrived home, there he was comfortably settled in Choppy's big chair, reading the last of my four scrapbooks of contributions to the Line. I greeted him cordially, as one must be nice to decorators these days, and he said:

"You know, I never knew what a scrapbook was before. I got to Choppy's New Year's piece for 1945. Does he really write for THE TRIBUNE?"

THE MIDAS TOUCH

Spring's Midas fingers touched the earth
And living gold began to glow
Where slender sunbeams lightly shone
Upon a crocus furbelow.
Forsythia, with golden bells,
Chimed clouds of music in the air.
The pussy willows doffed fur hoods
And sunned their gleaming flax-gold hair.
The frivolous narcissus host
Joined crowds of golden daffodils
And jitterbugging jonquils in
Gay steps that swirled their yellow frills.
The dandelion polka dots
Shone like new coin a spendthrift throws.
On garden shelves the tulip cups
Were ranged in polished, golden rows.

Post-War Plan for Pigs

Linemaster: Interested in the higher reaches of art and sport as you unquestionably are, I respectfully direct your attention to patent No. 2,376,028 in the official gazette of the United States patent office, issue of May 15, 1945:

"Pig Racing Apparatus—A lure for causing gluttonous animals, such as razorback pigs, to race, comprising a vehicle provided with an open, troughlike receptacle extending substantially the width of the vehicle for carrying a food lure which is appealing to the gluttonous instinct of said animals, and a motor for propelling said vehicle along a race course." Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

E. M. asks: "Is the widow of a World War I. veteran who has a child under 18 entitled to a pension, and how much?"

If your income is less than $2,500, you are entitled to $45 a month until your child is 18. Thereafter you are entitled to $35. If you remarry, you lose the pension and never again may apply. Application for pension may be obtained from the veterans' administration, 327 S. La Salle st., or from this department by sending stamped envelope.

M. J. writes: "I have been honorably discharged from the army and placed in 1-C by my draft board. What does this classification mean?"

The 1-C classification indicates persons in the military service. Your draft card now should show: "1-C Disc [discharged]."

O. E. S. writes: "I entered the army Sept. 28, 1942, and was released Aug. 27, 1943, to take a war job because I was past 38. Since then I received a discharge paper showing two years, four months, and 18 days of service. Am I entitled to a bonus?"

Your dates show 10 months and 29 days of active service. Because you were released at your request to take a war job, you are not entitled to mustering out pay. No bonus measure has been passed. During the time between your date of release for war work and last Feb. 16 you were in the enlisted reserve.

FIBROID GROWTHS IN THE UTERUS

IT has been said that one woman out of every five has fibroid tumors. In the majority no discomfort is experienced and the tumors are discovered frequently quite by accident. They may be harbored for life and never do any harm.

These growths are prone to start in the decades between puberty and the menopause. For this reason some disturbance in the secreting portion of the ovary is blamed for their existence. They are located only in that part of the womb which affects menstruation. After the change of life they have a tendency to recede. The muscle cells are the site of origin. Altho only one may be observed, the general rule is to find several, varying in dimensions from a pea to an orange or potato. In sprouting, the path of least resistance is followed, some going to the outside and others into the uterine passageway.

When the disorder manifests itself in the early years of married life, childbearing may be impossible. The ability to conceive has not been lost, but the proper development of the seed is interfered with. In consequence pregnancy is terminated at an early date.

These masses are more likely to be found in those approaching middle life. By then they have had a chance to form or, if present for some time, to enlarge and be recognized. Size is not necessarily important. A tiny nodule in the inner wall of the uterus may be troublesome while a more extensive "lump" may cause no distress.

The condition is suspected when bleeding is abnormal. Perhaps menstruation is more prolonged than formerly or the amount increased. Unusual activity during the menopause may arouse the suspicion that something is amiss. When huge, a sense of low abdominal pressure or heaviness may be encountered. Occasionally pain is noted. On the other hand, a discharge is seldom due to these formations.

Once the diagnosis has been made regular visits to the physician are advised. In this way progress can be watched and, so long as growth is not rapid and no symptoms occur, we can let well enough alone.

If severe hemorrhage is suffered absolute rest in bed and the application of an ice bag may be necessary. Testosterone, the male hormone, is often administered for a short period. Other glandular preparations, such as thyroid, may be of value. In and about the menopause, radium may be the method of choice, unless the tumors are massive, or extensive anemia is exhibited. Should this therapy be contemplated, many physicians recommend a preliminary curettage to eliminate the possibility of a more serious situation.

The fibroids, if few in number, can be removed surgically, particularly if more children are desired. Now and then this procedure will settle a sterility problem. So long as the uterus remains we must remember that others may develop. But by this time the stork may have made several visits.

Taking out the organ is a permanent cure and is reserved for those cases in which flooding is prolonged or the growth is large. To the woman who is overly fearful of cancer it may prove the only solution. It is fortunate that this most common tumor of the uterus is relatively innocent and rarely becomes malignant.

NEW DRUG

Mrs. W. K. writes: It is my understanding that there now is a medicine which makes goiter operations unnecessary. Please advise.

REPLY

Thiouracil has been successful in treating patients with toxic goiter. With many, surgery was not necessary but a longer time will be required to see if symptoms return. The preparation should be prescribed by a competent physician as serious reactions may result unless administered correctly.

ADULT SUSCEPTIBILITY

L. F. writes: Should a grownup who has never had diphtheria be vaccinated against it?

REPLY

Perhaps a natural immunity has been acquired. A Shick test will decide. If it is positive, and exposure to a known case has occurred, inoculation may be advised.

H. C. writes: What causes quivering knees on climbing a flight of stairs?

REPLY

What do you expect to find at the head of the stairs? Causes include lack of strength and undue fatigue.

Sic Transit—the Rain?

If there has been any quandary in your mind as to why it rained all last month, don't for an instant blame it on sun spots or gun fire. It was caused by their cool opposite, the moon. We have this on good authority, so please stand by for the rest: When the May moon was new, the cusp was tipped down toward the earth. All of us who understand things like tipped cusps realized right away that we were in for a month of steady rain.

That probably is why this department found itself brooding all month on sun dials and the sorrow of their passing. Maybe their passing was to be expected in an age where every school child is given a test for mechanical aptitude, where every housewife's high dream is to have an electric mixer that will do everything except scrub the floors, and where the majority of the people believes it is more necessary to know the time of night, down to the 60th part of each minute, than to mark the passing hours of day. But gone they are, except in old church yards, 19th century parks, and formal gardens trod only by the formal feet of a formal gardener. With them has gone some of the most majestic brooding of man, that which came from solemn contemplation of the motto inscribed on the dial. Some one has called it the brooded moral and perhaps it was, a stern and austere reminder of the evanescence of life—that with the sun moves always shadow.

Few sun dials actually said this in the three words: Life is brief. The reminder was more subtle, as in "The shadows flown return no more," "All things of man hang on a thread," "A shadow and smoke is man's life," "Our days on earth are but a shadow," "As the sun runs, so death comes," "You who pass remember, in passing, that all things pass as I pass," or, most beautiful of all, "Shadow! What seest thou? . . . Shadow."

Occasionally verse replaced the motto, as on a 17th century sun dial in a church yard in Kent, England:

"Men worry 'till 'tis light
Then 'til it is dark
Then worry thru the hours bright,
Forgetting how soon lost to sight
Is time, that leaves its mark."

Others were harshly admonitory: "Thou seest my hour; beholdest thou thine?" "It is later than you think." "Watch and pray; time hastens away." "Look into thyself." "Either learn or go." "Employ the hour; it returneth not." "Ye know not the Hour." "Consume not thy time in idleness." "Believe every day to be thy last." "A day may ruin thee; improve this hour." "Halt ye and learn, then quickly turn." "Do not render evil for good." "This is your hour; accept it."

Perhaps the most majestic are those in Latin, few of which are as beautiful in translation, as "Pereunt et imputantur" [They pass, but their account is kept] from an epigram of Martial, or the lovely "Horas non numero nisi serenas" [I count none but shining hours]. "Sine umbra nihil" sounds in itself much more stirring than translated into "Without shadows, nothing," as do "Lex dei lux diei" [The law of God is the light of day], "Homo quasi umbra" [Man is the shade of a shadow], "Fugio fuge" [I stay for no man], the awesome "Ex hoc momento pendet aeternitas" [On this moment hangs eternity, or—now or never], and the familiar "Sic transit gloria mundi" [Thus passeth the glory of the world.]

The briefest condensation of the moral inherent in most is the "Cosi la vita" engraved on a dial in Italy: "Such is life." For gayety and joy of living, on the other hand, few touch that of Harriet Martineau, the 19th century English writer: "Come, light! Visit me!" Nor did many cherish the passing hours with the tenderness of this 18th century inscription:

"Time is
Too slow for those who wait
Too swift for those who fear
Too long for those who grieve
Too short for those who rejoice.
But for those who love
Time is Eternity."

Naturally none of these works when the new moon is tipped toward the earth.

THE YOUTH FOR CHRIST RALLY

Chicago, May 31—THE TRIBUNE has always been my favorite newspaper and I was deeply disappointed in Rita Fitzpatrick's reporting of the Youth for Christ rally. I have talked with many of the young people in my own church who attended this great meeting and to them it was something more than a "big show." We should thank God that our young people are turning to Christ and encourage them instead of ridiculing their enthusiasm. Perhaps they are beginning to realize that movie stars and crooners are not worthy objects for their hero worship and are turning to the Savior of their souls for real satisfaction. Let's give them all our encouragement!

DOROTHY LARSON

Chicago, May 31—We think your reporter's version of our Youth for Christ rally is misleading! We thought it was very inspiring and reverent and the story made it sound like a cheap jam session. What's the big idea anyway? Doesn't she like us? BOB HANSON

BOB ALLEGRETTI

Chicago, May 31—Comparison of the Rev. Torrey Johnson, a minister of the gospel, with a crooning radio singer, is certainly in bad taste to say the least. Why wasn't Gil Dodds mentioned as well as prominent business and professional men who added their word of testimony? A. M. L.

DISCHARGES FOR MEN OVER 30

Milford, Ill., May 26—My husband and I are in our 30's, were married long before the war or draft law, and had just attained a degree of security for a home and children when my husband went into the army. He went gladly, refusing a deferment to which he was entitled. We both believe he should have gone, altho shortly after that men over 30 were not taken and are not being taken now in any number.

After entering the army, he heard so often—"no officer training for you older fellows" and "no ratings or technical training for older married men." If that is the way the army felt about it, why was no consideration given for age or marital status when the time came for discharges?

My husband has been overseas for nearly a year and has gone thru the entire German campaign. For months of this he receives less credit than a man who has never left the States, but is fortunate enough to have children. He is allowed no credit for a pre-war marriage, but a conscientious objector is given credit for a wife acquired at any time before May 12, 1945.

Please don't mistake me. I'm all for the American home and family, but I'd also like one of my own. Are we "oldsters" to be penalized for having grown up during the depression and therefore having been a little late in starting our family? MRS. C. N. K.

OPA DOES ALL RIGHT FOR OPA

Monterey, Ind., May 28—Last Saturday afternoon I tuned my radio on to hear Mr. Chester Bowles, head of OPA, state that the cost of the OPA up to date was 18 million dollars and that it had already collected in fines 21 million dollars.

I would like to know this: Was OPA originally created as a revenue measure, or was it created for price control? All I know is I can't buy any meat.

EDWIN E. STEVENSON

DEFAULTED TRACTION BONDS

Chicago June 1—I am the owner of a number of the $1,000 bonds of the Chicago Railways company, along with a batch of unpaid, worthless interest coupons on these bonds, which were included in an issue of approximately 2½ million dollars of adjusted income bonds, an issue which was left out of the proposed financial setup or merger in 1941. Yet, these securities were purchased in good faith to meet the needs of the Surface Lines and Chicago at that time, just as the gullible public will be asked to purchase similar bonds again.

Mayor Kelly stated in his letter to THE TRIBUNE on March 18 that under public ownership it is estimated that revenue bonds must and can be sold to acquire and modernize the surface and elevated lines, and sets forth all of the advantages accruing thereby. Assuming that it is true, it is but just and honest then to see to it that we investors who have heretofore paid the freight, receive at least something for the support we have given in building and maintaining the Surface Lines instead of being wiped out entirely. The writer and thousands of others of the bondholders have been the victims of a shakedown, and if, as Patrick Henry once said, the only way we can judge the future is by the past, then the investors can expect the same kind of heartless treatment from investment in these securities in the future.

The experience New York has had with municipal ownership doesn't offer much encouragement to the investing public. The voters of Chicago have a mighty important task when they go to the polls Monday to vote on this issue. May the right way win.

DELIVERY UNDER DIFFICULTIES

GERMANY, May 11—Have been a steady subscriber thruout my army career, and still get good service even over here in Naziland. Want to tell you that THE TRIBUNE seems like a bit of the old home town and the whole outfit really eats it up. Some of the boys, tho, argue that Chicago can't be half as good as we crack it up to be—so it's up to THE TRIBUNE to help me prove my point when the Rainbow comes swinging down Michigan blvd. [I hope]. Thanks again for the good service and hope to see you soon. It's great to know Chicago isn't in the same shape that Munich and Wurzburg are. JERRY KOHN

SUGAR FOR DISTILLING

Wheaton, Ill., May 25—Early in the season housewives were told that their allowance of canning sugar would be 20 pounds to the person, later it was announced that it had been reduced to 15 pounds.

Today's paper announces that the war production board is allowing unlimited whisky making for the month of July. This causes one to wonder if the five pounds of canning sugar was taken from the housewives and given to the distillers. MRS. B. W. NORTHROP

TRIESTE QUIET AS CITIZENS AND TROOPS MINGLE

Believe Tito Note Still Is Unanswered by Allies

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TRIESTE, Italy, June 3—The citizenry and military moved without incident today in this disputed port on the Adriatic but there was the tenseness of waiting for the decisions on high political levels which may cause the Trieste situation to subside or flare into a crisis again.

Yugoslav and 8th army New Zealand troops continued to circulate in the city, and the civilians quite accustomed to the uniforms paid them slight attention except for some of the comely Trieste girls who were very willing to fraternize and did.

As far as could be learned here there has been no answer by the American and British governments to the note tendered last week by Yugoslav Marshal Tito. Tito's proposals were believed to be that some of his troops remain in Trieste under allied command, that there be one Yugoslav representative on the allied military government board for the city, and that civil administration continue thru the local committee of liberation which was handpicked by Tito.

Soviet Backing Uncertain

It is thought that the Anglo-American reply to Tito might offer to allow him to keep a small token force in Trieste but otherwise would not countenance any conditions which would prejudice the ultimate determination of Trieste's fate, probably to be made at the peace conference.

Tito's link with Russia is, of course, well known but observers here say it is problematical as to how much the soviets are backing him in his claim to Trieste. Tito at one time had more than 60,000 troops in Trieste and the vicinity but has withdrawn many, and it has been noticed in the last few days that his men are vacating more billets in town.

[A Reuters dispatch from Trieste said that Tito's men are rounding up an average of 10 Germans a day in the hills and countryside around the city. Many German soldiers also were reported living in private houses in Trieste, some befriended by women.]

There are no definite lines of demarcation between the Yugoslavs and the New Zealanders in town except for the port area, most of which is held by Tito's soldiers.

There has been no friction of late between the New Zealand and Yugoslav troops. They have visited each other's messes and have staged several football matches.

Alexander Visits Austria

The allied military government is waiting on the outskirts of Trieste and an American, Col. Nelson Monford, who is designated to head this AMG area, arrived today but has not yet entered the city.

In the country around Trieste are bivouacked the American and British divisions. Field Marshal Alexander was in the area for several days but has left on a visit to Austria.

Trieste, a lovely city rising above the blazing blue of the Adriatic, didn't suffer much from the war, the only bombing damage being in the port area. There isn't a great deal of food available for civilians—the population is still around the pre-war figure of 250,000—but there is no starvation nor malnutrition. There seemed to be plenty of vegetables in the open air markets today.

City Club to Hear Talk on Juvenile Conditions

Walter O. Cromwell, director of the community conditions department, Juvenile Protective association, will discuss war time conditions which have resulted in new hazards for children and young people at a luncheon today of the City club in the La Salle hotel.

WLB WILL HEAR CHICAGO TRUCK DISPUTE TODAY

The hearing promised the independent Chicago Truck Drivers union by the war labor board on its demands for a wage increase at the time the union's recent strike was terminated, will be held today in Washington, D. C.

Representatives of local 705 of the International Teamsters union [AFL] which has similar demands pending before the board, and representatives of the Cartage Exchange of Chicago and the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association will be present.

Both unions are seeking a 48 hour week with an increase of $5 a week in the pay they now receive for a 51 hour week. Edward Fenner, executive director of the independent union, also will seek a two week vacation with pay for his members, together with pay for six legal holidays, if not worked, or double time if worked.

Employers' representatives will oppose the increase on the ground that the 8 cent an hour increase already authorized by the board, which the unions are protesting, will cost the employers $1,500,000 in retroactive pay. Meanwhile, the trucking lines, seized by the office of defense transportation under Presidential order, continue to operate under government control.

Ft. Sheridan, Great Lakes Start Rationing Smokes

Rationing of cigarets, cigars, and tobacco operated smoothly at Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training center yesterday as the rationing program went into effect in military installations thruout the country. Service men and dependents are allowed two tobacco points weekly, officers said. Each point is good for three packages of cigarets, 12 cigars, or two ounces of tobacco.

7 INMATES FLEE STATE SCHOOL; 5 ARE CAPTURED

Seven inmates of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles escaped about 11 o'clock last night after they beat two unarmed cottage guards, bound them, and then locked them in a clothing closet. Five were captured a short time later.

One of the guards, Thomas Thompson, 59, was beaten a week ago when a similar number of inmates escaped. Last night the seven others overpowered Thompson and William J. Hicks, 71, whom they surprised while the guards were making their rounds of a dormitory.

Richard Eddy, managing officer, said the fugitives included inmates committed for armed robbery, larceny, and truancy and that several had been returned to the school for parole violations. The seven are Joseph Accardo, 17, of 727 N. Hamlin av.; Robert Chamberlain, 20, of 2349 Roscoe st.; Ben Davis, 16, of 2202 Jackson blvd.; Louis Stamus, 17, of 3437 Congress st.; Kenneth Poland, 18, of Massillon, O.; James Miller, 16, Springfield, Ill., and George Ensminger, 19, of 727 S. River st., Aurora. Only Poland and Miller still were at large.

NATIONAL FLAG FOR CANADA AN ELECTION ISSUE

King Promises to Seek 'Symbol of Unity'

BY ARTHUR EVANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 3—A distinctive national flag for Canada, to cement national unity, is among the background questions in the federal election June 11. Prime Minister King has undertaken to ask the next parliament to authorize a Canadian flag, if he is returned to office, as a symbol of self-governing nationhood within the British commonwealth of nations. Australia and New Zealand already have their flags, and Canada seems next to step in line.

From Vancouver to Ottawa, most Canadians this observer has met have strongly favored the idea. They say it will not lessen allegiance to the British commonwealth, but will symbolize to the world nations that the dominion is an independent state, in full control of its foreign policy.

There is considerable feeling, however, for retention of the union jack, mostly in Tory areas.

Favored by Bracken

Early in the year King said he is for a national flag and anthem, and John Bracken, Progressive-Conservative leader, has said Canada should have both "if and when the majority of Canadians so desire."

The issue of a flag came to the fore when the "red ensign" was flown from the peace tower on parliament hill here during V-E week. This ensign has a red field with the union jack in the staff corner, and bears the Canadian coat of arms. It is the flag of the maritime service.

Answering criticisms alleging the flying of the red ensign was a bit of "political trickery," officials of the department of external affairs explained that it was flown from the peace tower because it was the flag carried by Canadian forces in the field, and its display during V-E week was a tribute to the armed forces.

In his Victoria day address at Winnipeg, May 24, King said he had noted that Canada long has used the red ensign at international conferences and on its merchant ships.

Another Growing Issue

Another growing question, not among the campaign issues, is whether Canada should have power to amend its own constitution. The British parliament now has to pass upon amendments. On this question, involving increased powers and symbols of nationhood. Canadians say they can get power to make constitutional amendments any time they ask it.

The question was propounded to both King and Bracken in a radio quiz months ago. King said Canada should have complete theoretical autonomy as well as the practical autonomy it has had for many years. It includes the right to amend the constitution, he said, but in amending the basic law, he advised caution and wide discussion.

Bracken also said Canada should have the amending power, and that he would not ask for it unless the request was approved by every province. Both men said that whatever is done safeguards should be provided for historic minority rights given at confederation in 1867. These apply especially to French Canadian Quebec, and to English and French as official languages.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

June 3, 1945

MOST farms have pets other than the dogs, cats, and ponies owned by farm children. Almost every season some one on the farm cares for an orphan robin or other songbird which learns to accept human companionship. This season a four-year-old farm boy has a pet hen which follows him around the yard like a puppy and clucks softly when he holds her in his arms.

The flockmaster usually has a turkey gobbler or Muscovy drake around the barnyard which assumes the mannerisms of a house pet. In past years farm residents have kept raccoons, turtles, and other forms of wildlife with obviously satisfactory results for these domesticated additions to the household.

Napoleon: Individualist

Cattle, swine, and sheep usually don't contribute to the list of farm pets, but occasionally one animal from a flock or herd will stand out as an individualist and thus get some extra attention from the farm residents. Such was the case with Old Napoleon, the karacul ram which died last week.

Napoleon, with his shaggy gray coat and his long, curled horns, will be remembered always, but not always favorably. He was the accepted leader of the karacul flock, and his tendency toward mischief sometimes put the entire flock in disrepute.

He always was the first sheep to jump the fence just for the pleasure of jumping. Heeding his example, the rest of the karaculs would leap over, then follow Napoleon into the garden or over a newly cut lawn or some other equally inappropriate place for sheep. If the fence was too high to jump, it would be Napoleon who would find the only exit under or thru the wire.

Karacul's Goatlike Yen

The karaculs, now without their peerless leader, are grazing in the lush orchard pasture at the southeast corner of the farm. Karaculs, like goats, are known for their ability to assimilate almost every type of vegetation. One of the farm residents remarked this week that the sheep are even eating burdock leaves. By human standards, the large, coarse, rough leaves of burdock are anything but tempting, but the karaculs seem to consider them as garnish for their regular diet of blue grass.

★ The GARDEN ★

CUCUMBER plants produce a maximum crop only when they have access to liberal amounts of manure, commercial fertilizer, or other plant foods with high nitrogen content. Veteran gardeners usually place a layer of two to three inches of rotted cow manure, with straw, about five inches below the ground level in the cucumber planting hill. If manure is not available, a liberal sprinkling of commercial fertilizer can be mixed with sand and placed in the bottom of the planting space.

At least two inches of loose topsoil should be placed over the fertilizer, and seeds are planted in this topsoil. The farm gardener plants six to eight seeds to a hill and thins out all but three plants.

Cutworms occasionally destroy cucumber seedlings, therefore it is not advisable to thin the plants until they are at least six inches tall. After they have reached that height there is reduced danger of cutworm infestation.

Two Fairfield, Ill., Men Die in Motorcycle Crash

Waynesville, Mo., June 3 (AP)—The bodies of two men, identified from belongings as Charles E. Kielhorn, 31, and Lowell N. Wheeler, 34, both of Fairfield, Ill., were found today at the base of a 20 foot embankment flanking U. S. highway 66 about 10 miles east of here. The state patrol said the men, riding a motorcycle, were killed last night apparently because their machine skidded on a sharp curve.

HAIR CARE

Our professional business is, in simple English, the care and treatment of the hair and scalp. First of all let me be very blunt and say very simply but emphatically that we do not and cannot grow hair. And as far as we have been able to determine neither can anyone else. Secondly we wish to make it quite plain that our only function is to provide men and women with a simple, sensible and effective method of treating the hair and scalp so as to keep it healthy, alive and attractive.

The some three thousand men and women who visit our offices each week are people who we sincerely believed could be helped. These clients know how we work and how effective our work is or they would not continue to come to us for treatment.

The best evidence of our integrity is to visit one of our offices to experience for yourself how we work. There is no charge or obligation for a private examination and consultation. If you decide then to take treatment, the decision is entirely yours. We employ no salesmen. Our treatments are at your convenience and the modest fee we charge is payable only when you take a treatment.

REVEAL U-BOATS SANK 111 SHIPS IN GULF OF MEXICO

Shot Down Navy Blimp Off Florida Coast

Houston, Tex., June 3 (AP)—The navy today revealed another of the war's hitherto top secrets—the details of its gulf sea frontier section's battle against U-boats in the Gulf of Mexico.

The information was made public in a series of articles and other material released by the headquarters of the gulf sea frontier public relations office in Miami, Fla., to the Houston Post, which published a copyrighted story yesterday.

Nazi subs successfully attacked 111 ships in the Gulf of Mexico and the waters off the Florida coast. Casualties in these attacks totaled 882.

Sub Shoots Down Blimp

The gulf sea frontier forces were credited with two probable sub sinkings and two more subs seriously damaged. One sub shot down a navy blimp off the coast of Florida.

The navy was nonetheless successful in putting a stop to sinkings in the gulf. There were only four successful attacks in 1943, none in 1944, and none in 1945.

Subs sank 25 ships off the mouth of the Mississippi.

In the early days of the war a submarine commander surfaced to survey the damage. There were small boats — pleasure craft in peace time—on the scene helping with the rescue.

Told to Get Out

"Get the hell out of here before you get hurt," the sub commander told the small boat men.

There was one sinking off the Texas coast in 1942.

Five ships were torpedoed off the coast of Mexico in 1942, but there were only eight attacks in the extreme west part of the gulf —that is, on routes between Texas and Mexican ports.

The Nazis opened their sea war off the coast of Florida Feb. 19, 1942, only 22 miles off Cape Canaveral Light. Two torpedoes struck the Pan Massachusetts; 20 men died and 10 more were hurt.

Three Others Torpedoed

Three days later three ships were torpedoed in the same vicinity—the S. S. Republic, the wreck still awash off Hobe sound; the Cities Service Empire, and the W. D. Anderson.

Four days before the Nazis struck, the gulf sea frontier command made a survey of its fighting force. It consisted of:

Six small ships, four of which were laid up for repairs; 15 unarmed coast guard observation planes; 14 single seater planes with .30 caliber machine guns; three B-18 bombers, which were so old that it was not unusual for them to require two days of repair work after being used one day.

Battled 34 U-Boats

The commander also had "on call" for emergencies the ships from the fleet sound school at Key West and such other aircraft as might be located in the area.

Gulf sea frontier officers estimated that they battled about 34 different U-boats during the war. There may have been more.

The gulf sea frontier got its first probable kill when a submarine was tracked down in the straights of Florida June 11, 1942.

The other probable kill took place July 8, 1942, 35 or 40 miles northwest of the west end of Cuba.

MOVE TO SUPPLY ADEQUATE MEAT TO INSTITUTIONS

Regulations designed to assure the supply of minimum meat needs to hospitals, orphanages, asylums, and similar institutions will be put into effect today by the office of price administration. The new regulations, OPA said, will make it possible for institutions to get as much of the same or comparable meats as they got from their suppliers or successors in the March-April, 1944 ration period. Previously suppliers were not required to sell or transfer meat to any customer or class of customer that they had served in the past.

GIRL, 19, ADMITS FATAL SHOOTING IN LOVERS' LANE

Two Gary detectives will go to Detroit, Mich., today to arrange for the extradition of two Negro girls arrested in connection with the slaying of William Grady, 31, of 4013 Catalpa st., East Chicago, who was found shot to death early Saturday in his automobile in a Gary lovers' lane.

The girls, Florence McCoy, 19, of Gary, and Bolitha Jackson, 16, of 3554 South Parkway, were arrested late Saturday night at the home of a relative in Detroit after Gary police learned that Grady had been seen with them in the central section of Gary early Saturday morning.

Inspector Marvin Lane of the Detroit detective bureau said the McCoy girl admitted she had shot Grady when he forced attentions on her and her companion after picking them up in Gary. She said the shooting occurred at Miller beach, 6 miles east of Gary, and that they drove the car back to Gary where it was found.

100,000 INSPECT DOUGLAS PLANT ON FAMILY DAY

Approximately 100,000 persons jammed the Douglas Aircraft company's Park Ridge plant yesterday on tours of inspection arranged as part of "Family day" at the plant. Employes were permitted to take relatives and friends thru production and assembly lines where C-54 Skymaster cargo planes are built.

At the end of the tour, along which special exhibits of finished plane parts were placed, four finished planes were available for inspection. Other planes made demonstration flights over the plant four times during the day.

The tour was arranged as part of an employe recruitment drive, said a Douglas spokesman. The plant still needs 2,500 workers.

TAVERN OWNERS VOICE PROTESTS ON TIE-IN DEALS

Liquor Board Is Flooded with Complaints

BY JAMES DOHERTY

Complaints from tavern keepers about tie-in deals forced on them by wholesalers have been flooding the Illinois liquor control commission, its chairman, Charles J. Fleck, said yesterday. He declared he had been told that liquor sale practices here amount to a scandal—that conditions are far worse in Chicago than any other city in the country.

A sample complaint, he said, was as follows:

"I have just received my allocation notice from the wholesale company and it allows me six bottles of inferior Scotch whisky during the month of June if I also buy 60 bottles of assorted rums, vermouth, Burgundy, Reisling, port, and sherry wines, some Cuban gin, and some Mexican gin. If I don't take the other stuff I don't get the six bottles of whisky."

Reports Basement Full

Another retailer told Fleck:

"I have a basement full of the cheapest kind of wines and liquors on the market. I was forced to buy them in order to get any Scotch or bourbon. I have had to invest nearly $200 extra for every couple of cases of real liquor I received."

The retailers told Fleck and Secretary William J. Devine that the utmost discrimination prevails in the liquor industry, the officials admitted. The tavern men are bitter over the treatment they are receiving from firms with which they have done business for many years.

"The retailers say that the wholesalers are trying to hog the retail profits as well as wholesale by setting up fake liquor stores," Fleck said. "On the other hand, the wholesalers complain that the distillers are trying to put them out of business and save the middleman's profit of 40 per cent."

Lack Power, Fleck Says

"What is the state liquor control commission going to do about the complaints?" Fleck was asked.

"Right now we don't have power to do much," he replied.

"We had planned to coöperate with the OPA in combatting these practices. But the resignation of Marion Isbell interfered. It's a government problem because of the violation of the ceiling price rule.

"However, if legislation pending in Springfield is passed we may have greater powers. It is proposed to enact a fair trade practice law under which the state would have some control over prices, and we would have the right to revoke the license of a liquor wholesaler who does not conform to the price schedule set by the distillers.

Other Changes Proposed

"There are other proposed changes in the liquor laws now up in Springfield. One would prevent distillers from also acting as wholesalers by prohibiting any concern from acting as a distributing agency if more than 5 per cent of its stock is owned by a distilling company. Another proposed law concerns the quantity of whisky in any product sold as whisky."

MAY REMOVE ALL WMC RULES IN DETROIT AREA

Detroit, Mich., June 3 [Special]—Removal of all war man power commission restrictions on employment in the Detroit area will be considered tomorrow as a result of the dumping of 15,000 persons in the labor market by the closing of the Ford operated Willow Run bomber plant.

This action was promised today by Edward L. Cushman, state WMC director, following a conference yesterday with Brendon Sexton, president of local 50 of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union, which represents Willow Run workers.

A skeleton force remained on duty at the Willow Run plant, which covers 85 acres under roof, but these were engaged in preparing the plant for a period of idleness. Two hangars on the plant's flyaway field will be used to store bombers flown back from Europe and destined for disposal as surplus property.

About 1,000 persons, it was said, will be employed to prepare bombers for storage as they arrive.

R. R. DONNELLEY PRINTING PLANT WORKERS STRIKE

Pickets on Stations at Building

The 39 year old controversy over organization of the R. R. Donnelley and Sons company, nationally known publishing plant, as a closed shop reached a climax at midnight when a strike was called by Chicago unit No. 1 of the International Printing Pressman's and Assistants' union.

Members of the union, one of five printing craft unions representing some of the more than 4,600 employes in the big printing plant, voted to "withdraw their services," they announced, because the company had rejected 19 basic conditions offered as a settlement of the dispute. None of the other craft unions has joined the strike.

Some Escorted Into Plant

About 150 pickets formed a line in front of entrances at 330 E. Cermak rd. and 2123 Calumet av. shortly before midnight, when a crew of about 200 pressmen were scheduled to report for work. Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, who deployed a squad at the plant, reported there was no clash as plant officials escorted several employes into the plant.

Louis A. Lopez, an international union representative, said 1,100 pressmen, including 200 on the midnight shift, would join the walkout. The pressmen's strike, he said, also will affect a Donnelley plant at Crawfordsville, Ind., and plants at Niles, Mich., and Philadelphia, Pa., which are handling orders on a subcontract basis.

Ernest S. Ballard, company attorney, said the management rejected the closed shop demand as well as several other proposals because the provision would force its workers to join unions as a condition of employment.

Plant officials said that despite the strike some employes were working and some presses were running.

History of Long Dispute

The first conference between the company and unions on the old closed shop issue was not held until 1942, but these negotiations failed, as did succeeding ones.

A year later union typographers, pressmen, bookbinders, photo engravers, and mailers began a boycott against handling work subcontracted by the Donnelley company and the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation plants. The International Typographical union appealed to Daniel Tobin, president of the Teamsters' union, for sympathetic support from teamsters, but he withheld it because of the war.

Later in 1943 an arbitration panel of the national war labor board denied a request for establishment of a closed shop. The panel, in accordance with a Presidential statement, asserted that "the government will not during war time require any worker to join a union in order to get a job."

Last November the pressmen's union and three other craft unions, Amalgamated Lithographers of America, International Association of Machinists, and the Chicago Photo Engravers, all affiliated with the AFL, won collective bargaining rights in an election conducted by the national labor relations board.

TRUCKS BARRED FROM BREWERY BY UNION MEN

Union business agents have prevented out-of-the-city trucks from entering the Peter Fox brewery at 2626 Monroe st. and have prevented materials from entering the plant, F. H. Massman, general sales manager, charged yesterday. Deliveries on 60 routes were halted Saturday when the Atlantic and Fox breweries refused to sell to independent distributors who handle the entire city sales for the two firms.

No deliveries will be made today because of the election, Massman said, but the company will continue to refuse to sell beer to the distributors. Company officials said the distributors sold beer at a higher retail price than that set by the breweries, but within an OPA order of Dec. 18 permitting a 23 per cent distributors markup.

Massman charged that the distributors—members of the Keg and Bottle Beer Drivers' union [AFL] — have usurped the functions of management in setting prices.

British Bring Stories of Torture by Manila Japs

GLASGOW, June 3 [Reuters]—First British interneеs—men, women and children—liberated from Japanese concentration camps in Manila arrived in Gourock today with stories of starvation and torture. Many lost up to 70 pounds in weight during their captivity but have recovered because of treatment they received from the Americans.

ARMY WILL GET 30 MILLION PAIRS OF SHOES IN 1945

Needs Record Supply for Pacific War

Washington, D. C., June 3 (AP)—War Undersecretary Patterson today reported the army will need 30,986,000 pairs of shoes in 1945, the heaviest demand of any war year.

He asserted V-E day brought no change in army demands for leather and there is no prospect of a reduction before the end of 1945.

Just before the end of the war against Germany, he said, the army was using up shoes faster than they could be made and now stocks are below the "safety margin" of a 90 days' supply.

The 30,986,000 pairs of shoes include 28,152,000 for the army itself, 698,000 army-style shoes for the navy, 848,000 for the Philippine army, and 1,288,000 for the French army. In 1944 the army shoe requirements totaled 29,716,000, with about 5 per cent going to consumers other than the army itself.

Patterson explained the increased demand by asserting that supply pipelines to the Pacific are longer and more shoes will be in transit, and that shoes wear out faster in the Pacific than in any other area.

Five Pairs for Soldier

The average soldier in the Southwest Pacific wears out about 5 pairs of shoes a year as compared to four in the European theater, about 3½ in the China-Burma-India area, and two in the United States.

Patterson said there are ample manufacturing facilities to produce more shoes for civilians but that a shortage of cattle hides is responsible for the scarcity. Civilian shoe production between 1936 and 1940 averaged 350,000,000, but dropped last year to 260,000,000 pairs.

Patterson said army shoes require considerably more leather than the civilian shoe and must be of the best grades.

Big Allotment for 1945

Production of army shoes in 1944 took an estimated 25 per cent of the total available cattle hide leather. In the second quarter of 1945 the war production board has allocated the army 40 per cent of the supply. And for the third quarter 37 per cent is allotted.

At present, Patterson said, stocks of service shoes amount to an 87 days' supply and stocks of heavier combat boots to a 54 days' supply.

COLD WEATHER POSTPONES HOLY HOUR ONE WEEK

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Daniel Byrnes, chairman of the executive committee of the Holy Name union holy hour scheduled for last night in Soldiers' field, announced yesterday that because of cold weather the hour would be postponed until next Sunday night. At each of the four previous annual holy hours more than 100,000 persons were present, with 150,000 predicted for this year's event which merges patriotism and religious devotion.

Sale of Gifts to Be Held in Lake Forest

BY JUDITH CASS

PRESENTS for a bumper crop of babies will be on sale Saturday in the Lake Forest home of Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III., who is opening her house from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. for a display of goods from the Hull House shop. Her white brick house at 650 N. Lake rd. is one of the most attractive in the suburb.

In addition to a large stock of gifts for babies, the shop also will offer luncheon sets, linens, glass and china, and some unusual gifts which Mrs. William McCormick Blair brought back from New York recently. Mrs. John Andrews King is entertaining at luncheon on the day of the sale. Others giving luncheon parties and taking their guests on to the display are Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, Mrs. Robert S. Macdonald, and Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr.

Mrs. Donald S. McPherson of the Hull House committee and her daughter, Sally Anne, will go east shortly after the sale to spend the season in their summer home in Pittsfield, Mass. Just now they are moving from their Lake Shore dr. apartment to one in Division st.

The Woman's Exchange will hold open house all day today and tomorrow in the shop at 902 N. Michigan av. to show its customers attractive accessories for outdoor porches, guest bedrooms, and powder rooms. Tea will be served at 3 p. m. Mrs. James Ward Thorne, who is in charge of the tea, has designed a summery window to carry out the theme of the sale. The public is invited.

New Addresses

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker changed addresses last week when they moved into a home they have bought in Green Bay rd., Lake Bluff. Their former home in E. College rd., Lake Forest, has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Q. Sylvester of Boston, Mass.

In recent letters to their sons, Ensign Charles H. Wacker III., and Lt. [j. g.] Wacker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wacker told of the release recently of her nephew, Maj. Christopher Warlow-Harry of the British army, from a German prison camp. Major Warlow-Harry was taken prisoner during the African campaign and has returned to New York, where his wife was living during his captivity. Ensign Wacker is receiving further flight training at the navy air station at Corpus Christi, Tex., and his brother is serving in the Pacific.

Mrs. Marshall L. Brown has taken Mrs. Julian Soames' Lake Forest house for the summer.

Mrs. Robert E. Spiel, the former Marie Swift, has arrived from Washington, D. C., and is occupying Mrs. Morrow Krum's Lake Forest home. Lt. Spiel is on duty with the naval reserve in Washington.

Engagement News

Young friends of Miss Agnes Hanna Quisenberry and Capt. Alfred C. Meyer of the army medical corps, who gathered yesterday in the Evanston home of Miss Quisenberry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwin Quisenberry, learned that they are engaged and will be married some time this month. Capt. Meyer, who is the son of Mrs. Alfred Meyer of E. 55th st., formerly of Highland Park, and of the late Mr. Meyer, returned last week from three years of service in the Pacific. After their marriage he and his bride will have a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., before he reports for further orders.

Miss Quisenberry was graduated from the Roycemore school and attended Bennington college and the National College of Education. She has been on the staff of the Lake Forest day school. Capt. Meyer was graduated from Dartmouth college and from the Northwestern university medical school.

Among the guests at yesterday's party were Miss Quisenberry's youngest sister, Helen, who has been studying occupational therapy at New York university, and Capt. Meyer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Singer, who are visiting here from their home in California.

Here and There

Mrs. Jacob Baur will entertain the newly formed woman's general committee of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society at luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today in the Casino club.

New officers of the Kenwood Garden club will be installed today at the club's annual meeting, which will be a day in the country at the summer home of Mrs. Gerould Whipple on the Fox river in Algonquin. Mrs. Newton Rich is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Idamae Schulze, daughter of Paul Schulze Jr., and Miss Louise Berry, daughter of the Carl D. Berrys of Winnetka, will be graduated today from Bradford Junior college.

Coming Weddings

St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church in Park Ridge will be the scene of the marriage at 8:30 p. m. on Saturday of Miss Joy Cameron and Lt. [j. g.] Harrie Lee Hall of the naval reserve dental corps, son of Mrs. Olive Anne Hall of Lunt av. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Cameron of Park Ridge.

Miss Cameron attended Stephens college and for the past year has been a student in the school for dental hygienists at Northwestern university. Lt. Hall, an instructor at Northwestern, was graduated from the university's dental school. He has orders to report to Williamsburg, Va., on June 16.

Saturday is the date set for the marriage of Miss Marjorie Dorothy Nelson, daughter of the Earle Nelsons of Chicago and Lake Geneva, Wis., and Edward Ross Tarrant, son of Mrs. Robert Tarrant of Wilmette and Lake Geneva. The ceremony will take place at 5:30 p. m. in the Winnetka Congregational church with a reception following in the Michigan Shores club.

Miss Nelson will be attended by her cousin, Mrs. Frank Cranz of Glendale, Cal., as matron of honor, and by Miss Jean Pollock as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Rosemary Madden and Miss Dorothy Ames. John Tarrant will be his brother's best man, and among the ushers will be the bride's brother, Earle Jr., and Capt. Cranz of the army. After a wedding trip to California and Canada, Mr. Tarrant and his bride will be at home on the north shore.

Selma Kaye Vivid Soloist with Jewish People's Chorus; "Jacobowsky" Extends Blackstone Stay

Three summers ago Eugene Ormandy brought an unknown young soprano to Ravinia as a surprise soloist. Her name was Selma Kaye, and tho he was rushing things a bit to ask her to sing Brünnhilde's Immolation, he had the right idea. Unless her career strikes an unexpected detour, Miss Kaye is a shooting star on her way to the top. She is a true dramatic soprano with the good luck to look like her voice—tall, dark and handsome—and that voice is so big it reminds me of the story the late Edward Moore used to tell of Rosa Raisa's Chicago debut. "Oh, you think I sing loud here?" inquired Raisa, whose voice was a great velvet calliope of purple and gold. "You ought to hear me in South America, where they really like loud singing."

Well, I don't mean to compare Miss Kaye to Raisa—yet—tho I'm sure South America would like her, too. Since her Ravinia bow I have heard her twice, a scrap of her opera debut last season as Leonore in "Il Trovatore," and her performance at Orchestra hall yesterday as soloist with the Jewish Peoples Choral society. Her voice needs to ripen, to round out at the edges, to capitalize on its promise of opulence, to deepen its luscious color and to put more technical authority back of that confident timbre. But even the way it is now, I don't know another young dramatic soprano to challenge it for vocal impact. That voice is not only beautiful, it's exciting.

Miss Kaye is a natural for opera. Her way with "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio" was not fully mature, but it was Verdi that made you want to hear more, and when she appeared with the chorus in an excerpt from Schubert's "Miriam," she really reminded me of Raisa. She soared over that chorus in the climax as Raisa once dominated the Easter hymn of "Cavalleria Rusticana."

I hope the chorus, so happy in her success, will forgive me for letting its soloist steal the space, for in its 10th year under Eugene Malek's direction it celebrated with a good performance. Particularly effective were a lullaby featuring Lenore Porges' lovely lyric soprano, a Palestinian song with Hadasah Linderman's good contralo, and a forthright version of Shostakovich's "Song of Liberation."

"Jacobowsky" Stays

As Jacobowsky of the renowned "Jacobowsky and the Colonel" might have been saying at the Blackstone, "Now there are always two possibilities. Either we close here Saturday on schedule or we extend our engagement. If we extend our engagement, that's good. If we . . ." Never mind, Jacobowsky. You are extending your Blackstone engagement indefinitely and there are no two theatrical way about it. It's good.

Vance for Lawford

When Betty Lawford leaves the Selwyn cast of "The Voice of the Turtle," which may be any day now, Vivian Vance will take over. Miss Vance, who just returned from a USO tour in "Over 21," with her husband, Philip Ober, last was seen here in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." She played with Danny Kaye in New York's "Let's Face It," but did not come to Chicago.

Mrs. H. C., Austin, Minn.—As I am the painter of our family these days, I made myself a good holder for paint and varnish cans by soldering two can lids to an old dustpan. Paint cans won't slip when parked in these lids and there's plenty of room to put brushes, too, as I carry dustpan from room to room.

Dora E. Brown, Michillinda, Mich.—Some of my family like tomato soup, others cream of tomato. We solve this by serving tomato soup and those who prefer cream of tomato add evaporated milk at table, which will blend without curdling.

Mrs. J. L., East Chicago, Ind.—I've made a covered box of insulating board as a milk and cream receptacle. Was told that even one hour in the sun will cost a bottle of milk some 40 per cent of its riboflavin content.

Sally Seeking a Typewriter and Harmonica

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Mrs. D., who lives on the near southwest side, writes of her problem as follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: I wonder if you would help me. I am an overseas service man's wife and have been ill for over a year. Only recently have I returned from the hospital. My only means of support is the $50 allowance, which is carefully budgeted for my living expenses. Since it will be some time before I will be able to resume employment, and there are many things which I badly need and can not afford, I would be very grateful, if thru your assistance, a typewriter could be located. It would be a means of permitting me to earn while I am convalescing and might mark the difference between my staying on here and moving to smaller quarters. A neighbor will call if an offer is procurable."

Perhaps some reader can help Mrs. W., who writes:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am presenting a request for a harmonica from my soldier son, who is serving overseas. I have tried everywhere, but have been unable to obtain such an instrument. Would you please see if some benevolent person, who has one laid away, would be willing to part with it? I shall gladly call or send postage for an offer."

The name and address will be given upon request.

Protectorate to Hold Spring Luncheon Today

Marking the close of its 28th year of service to needy, elderly women of Chicago, the Protestant Woman's protectorate will hold its annual spring luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today in Hotel Sherman. The program, under the direction of Mrs. Robert L. Holmes, will include a lecture recital by Mrs. James G. Barber and musical selections by Cathryn and Frank Bennett. Presidents of church women's organizations in the Chicago area will be welcomed as special guests by the protectorate's president, Mrs. Fred W. Waterman.

With Summer Near, It's Time for Seersucker

BY REA SEEGER

Smartly tailored businesslike seersucker is back for the summer season. You'll find two piecers of swank detail, some primly tailored with long sleeves for summer office wear, others of the dressmaker variety with a soft bow on the chest and three-quarter length sleeves. These latter will double smoothly for town as well as afternoon costumes. And there are slim coat dresses and button-on models that provide another way of keeping scrupulously clean during a heat wave.

Seersucker travel outfits have proved their worth, after years of strenuous testing. Very distinctive duets of jacket and skirt are tailored as imaginatively as anything in silk or wool. When this attention is lavished on seersucker, the results are outstanding models for long treks or for short motor trips over a weekend. The play clothes are other important collections to visit, for shirts, slacks [long or clam digger lengths], bra tops, halter tops, button down the front one piece dresses, and wrap-around skirts with fitted bra top and plenty of cut out space over the diaphragm for sun tanning sessions, are being shown.

One of Chicago's famous designers has, in the summer showings of washables of fine linen and other smooth cottons, also included fine dressmaker type suit dresses of seersucker. The sleeves are short and cool, the shoulders appreciably wider than in former seasons, and the skirts flared flatteringly. Because this seersucker is washable and seldom needs any heavy pressing or ironing, it's small wonder that clothes of this material go like hot cakes.

This 'Traviata' Is at Least a Box Office Hit

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

It is probably sufficient reason for the management of any opera company to present one more performance of "La Traviata" simply because it always fills the theater. The Universal Opera company, for instance, was undoubtedly less concerned with the fact the patrician measures of Verdi's deceptively difficult score were frequently rudely trampled on and that young and inexperienced singers were placed in unhappy comparison with the giants of their craft, than that the Eighth Street theater was full to the doors last night, a circumstance which will again permit the meaningless repetition of the same routine a few weeks or months hence.

But this is a review, not a sermon. Judged by the happenings of the first two acts, this "Traviata" varied slightly from its predecessors. It attained its most professional accents in the singing of Enrico Clausi, a tenor who has been en voyage a long time but who never seems to arrive any place in particular. At his best he is very good; his voice has a pleasant ring and his command of operatic style is authentic. But it is probably the frequency of the intrusion of his second best that has kept him in professional mid-stream—the lapses from pitch and the unaccountable distortions he injects into the melodic line.

Josephine Stevenson was a Violetta whose musical surety belied her youth and inexperience. Yet except that her slight and fragile voice negotiated the coloratura passages cleanly, she had little vocal qualification for the part; for, once "Sempra libera" is passed, the music is wholly lyrical and dramatic, and Miss Stephenson's voice has as yet nothing of the requisite force or color.

Otto Slatinsky, the elder Germont, was on safe ground so long as he was confronted only with musical dialogue. But when he was expected to sing, as in "Di provenza," he continued to recite—except for a few high tones placed well back towards the vertebrae. Giovanni Berrafato conducted, sometimes keeping with the singers but never with the chorus.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Self Evident

She is a friend of ours, one of those spontaneous, coöperative people who step right in whenever there's need. Not long ago she decided that, amid the present help shortage, she should go down to her husband's office each day and lend a hand. However, she found it a disadvantage not to be able to type, so undertook to teach herself.

One day an old friend and client of the firm walked in the door, noticed her fumbling over the keyboard in the laborious manner of a beginner, and commented slyly, "Ah! I see your husband didn't marry his secretary!"

The New Girl

Regarding the goldfish bowl treatment of the new employe, the sad part is that the new girl often invites hostility; she doesn't want to learn. In fact she flaunts her indifference in the face of the older employe and refuses to accept suggestions from her, saying:

"What difference does it make anyway?"

"That takes too much time."

"I'm out of school now. I don't have to take orders [or suggestions, even]."

"I always knew how to do that. Why should any one tell me?"

"What's the reason for being so fussy?"

Just how can we get the new people to be interested in the details of a job? MERE WOMAN

'Wait for Me' No Credit to Russian Films

"WAIT FOR ME"

Produced by Artkino, directed by Boris Ivanov and Alexander Stolper, featuring Valentina Serova, Boris Blinov, Lev Sverdlin, Nikolai Narezny, Nina Forshain, Pjotr Gorsky, Elena Tkachina, Anton Marienov. Presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée

A Russian cast plays the various roles in this film, but their lips move in unison with lines spoken by an English cast, which produces a curious effect. The story of a faithful wife, who has been pledged by her husband to wait for him as he departs for the front lines, it tells of her patient and painful wait for months after he has been declared missing and is presumably dead. She refuses to leave her home in besieged Moscow and survives air raids, food shortages, and all the other perils of war. For contrast, another wife who lacks such perseverance and is out for the night when her soldier husband turns up alive and searching for her receives her proper punishment when she finally finds him a few minutes after he has died a hero's death.

"Wait for Me" is one of the poorest Russian films I have seen, both from the standpoint of plot, which is long and involved, and performances, which are melodramatic. The photography is extremely spotty and the make-up on the feminine stars is reminiscent of that used in American films many years ago.

I waited till the bitter end, but all I got was tired.

Personnel Association to Hear Talk Tonight

"Forty-Plus: The Overage Employe" will be discussed by Albert A. Morey before the Chicago Guidance and Personnel association at 6:15 o'clock tonight in the Georgian room of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. Mr. Morey is vice president of a Chicago insurance broker's firm.

Thru the Looking Glass

Things are happening in the coiffure world these days, right here in Chicago. As you probably know, hair styles changed radically in the fashion world—or the world of fashion models—quite some time ago, but it's only recently that the average Chicago woman has worked herself up to much excitement about it all.

Now, here and there, you see women wearing the puffs on the crown, the braids on the crown, and the sleek knots at the nape. They look good, too, and more and more of us are wondering how such refreshing variations could be adapted for us.

Beginning today a hair stylist who's been doing exciting hair styles for the movie glamor girls is introducing some new styles for the average woman—adaptations of these radically different silhouettes that are wearable by conservative women.

The most exciting thing she is launching here is called "the sapphire twist," a coiling of hair of almost any length that gives a completely new French braid effect. How it is worked out for the individual depends, of course, on the individual's contour. For some, hair must be off the neck; for some it must be gathered on the neck; some women's facial and head structure demands fullness at the sides; for some this side fullness is wrong and a twist on the crown, or a smooth puff—it's called the Burmese puff, incidentally—is tremendously smart.

The charming new twist adaptation, which gives interest to the hair arrangement, and style and becomingness, too, isn't a matter of hair pieces. It's your own hair, cut and combed in a new way. It does wonderful things for your face, for your general picturesqueness, and even for your own estimate of yourself!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 3—In one year Paulette Goddard got a husband, tried to have a baby, bought a new home, planned a picture, changed the color of her hair, and now has gone into partnership with Lewis Milestone, Burgess Meredith, Jean Renoir, and Ben Bogeaus, the producer. They've organized their own independent company. They'll find and develop new talent, and their first will be "The Diary of a Chambermaid," which Burgess and Paulette were to have done at R. K. O. When the script was finished, Charles Koerner wanted the story changed from the turn of the century and brought up to date. Paulette, Burgess, and Renoir didn't, so they took the story. I'm wondering if Milestone's first under this new setup won't be a remake of "The Four Horsemen." This is one of the best independent deals I've heard of in a long time. All those involved are highly individualistic with opinions of their own, but they know how to work together in harmony.

Enough to Raise the Dead

Susan Hayward, in "Deadline at Dawn," looks at a dead girl on the floor and says, "Poor girl, she drank too much, loved too often, and lived alone." This was too much for corpse Lois Lane, who sat up and commented, "Hey! Is that bad?" No, you won't see that on the screen; more's the pity! . . . Irene Ryan's line at the Hollywood Canteen convulsed everybody. She said "Frank Sinatra should work in England where they pay off in pounds." . . . The June Allyson-Dick Powell wedding is set for September. . . . Betty Grable gets her wish—three months' vacation on Long Island. . . . I wondered when it would happen—an art exhibition among cows and vegetables. Sure and Linda Darnell is sponsoring Lois Green's pictures of the farmer's market.

We Live and Learn

Jean Arthur spent some time in a tiny Tennessee town, went to the lending library and discovered the two most in demand books were "The Robe" and "Forever Amber." . . . Speaking of Amber, when a New York buyer for 20th Century got thru half of the galley proofs of it, he threw it aside with a retort I can't repeat, but a week later he had a call from the coast saying, "Buy it at any price!" . . . Quick, the flit! Emily Kimbrough arrives any day now to start writing a picture for Deanna Durbin. Emily ran a one-book parley up into a life's career. . . . Mitch Leisen has the inside track on Cecil De Mille's radio program with, I might add, Cecil's blessing. If he gets it he will again be following in the master's footsteps. Years ago Mitch was his assistant. Sometimes new dogs can teach old dogs better tricks.

Black Is White to Them

Amos 'n' Andy are paying for an advertisment to say, "It takes a lot of people to put on a radio show. Here are the ones who've served us faithfully." Then names them all. They've started something. Who'll be next? . . . I hope you didn't miss Alexander Fleming's air interview. He's the penicillin man. He said quite frankly, "It's not a cure-all. The saddest thing I have to do is answer letters asking if it will cure this, that or the other dread disease." He said, "I didn't discove rit. Nature had been working on it for many years before I came along." . . . Leon Henderson visiting old friends and having some fun. As to future plans he said, "I'm just going to free-lance as an economist. I have several good accounts and many fine contacts." What else do you need? . . . Mickey Rooney sent his wife a song commemorating the expected birth of their baby, called "Peek-a-Boo." . . . Eddie Foy Jr. and Mrs. Foy are celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary. . . . Meighan Taylor, skating star, and George Tobias are mighty warm for June. . . . Alex D'Arcy will get a surprise when he returns home—an R. K. O. contract. It's waiting for him. . . . Bettejane Greer is making sure of her divorce from Rudy Vallee. She wears two Los Angeles attorneys on her arms.

Jewish Group Hears Address by Rabbi Wise

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, president of the American and World Jewish congress, last night told 2,000 members of the Chicago division of the congress that the war might have been averted if free peoples of the world had recognized that the Jew, whom Hitler sought to annihilate, stood in the front line as the representative of ideals Hitler sought to destroy.

The address closed the 11th annual Chicago division conference of the congress at the Sherman hotel, with last night's dinner and mass meeting at the Stevens, Dr. Wise called the congress "more than an affirmation of faith in the peoplehood of Israel; its very existence is a declaration that the Jewish people have always willed to live in the democratic spirit and to labor in terms of the democratic faith."

"In as much as Jews have been among the true pioneers of the democratic ideal, it seems more fitting in this age than ever before that we should continue to stand for that democratic viewpoint and that democratic conduct which alone can be in keeping with the democratic ideal. The congress marks another affirmation, that even more than the oneness of the Jewish faith is the oneness of the Jewish fate."

Max Bressler was elected president of the Chicago division of the congress, and last night's dinner was given in honor of Max A. Kopstein, past president. William Jay Robinson was elected chairman of the governing council. Among resolutions adopted was one expressing confidence in President Truman and urging him to adhere to policies of the late President Roosevelt.

Adoption of the Lynch bill to bar from the mails everything which tends toward race hatred was urged, and another resolution favored adoption of a group libel law in Illinois. Repudiation of the Hebrew committee of National Liberation was sought from "all responsible Jewish organizations" on the ground that it is "a disrupting influence in the presentation of the Jewish position before the united nations and before the congress of the United States."

Honey often changes the flavor of fruit sauces, jams, and pies, so it is well, when using honey as a sugar substitute, to choose a light, mild flavored one, and, when possible, to replace only half the sugar in the recipe with honey.

In using honey in a pie filling it must be remembered that here is extra liquid, which must be thickened with more flour or cornstarch if the pie isn't to run all over the plate.

Here's an all-honey cherry pie which I think you'll find delicious: The filling is pre-cooked to avoid any possibility of a soaked lower crust and also to insure thoro cooking of cornstarch, which can give a pasty flavor to a fruit filling if undercooked.

Honey Cherry Pie

Pastry for Lower Crust and Lattice Top
1 quart pitted sour cherries
1¼ cups honey [less for sweeter fruit]
¼ cup cherry juice
¼ cup cornstarch
1 tablespoon margarine

Combine cornstarch and cherry juice drained from pitted cherries [do not discard any juice; if there's a little more, that's fine!]. Add honey, and cook over low heat until thickened. Add cherries and margarine. Cool slightly, and fill unbaked pastry shell. Adjust lattice strips on top, and bake 15 minutes at 425 degrees. Reduce heat, and bake 20 minutes longer at 350 degrees.

A cup of honey should be sufficient sweetener for moderately sweet cherries, and if you should use the fat, really sweet ones ¾ cup honey is enough. The amount of cornstarch should be reduced, correspondingly, to 3 tablespoons for 1 cup honey, 2 tablespoons for ¾ cup.

Watermelons are here for all the watermelon feasts and fruit cocktails we want. The beauty of this popular warm weather dessert is that it is naturally sweet and needs no sugar to make it palatable.

For an unusual watermelon dessert plug the melon early in the day and pour a cup or more of a sweet red wine into the fruit. Chill until just before you're ready to serve this luscious treat—and it IS luscious!

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—You are not vulnerable, opponents are, your right hand adversary opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠ A Q 6 2 ♥ K Q ♦ A Q 10 8 5 ♣ A 9 4

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This does not indicate timidity, but rather bloodthirstiness. A pass guarantees you a sure profit, whereas in order for your side to go game your partner will need a card or two, which he probably hasn't. Even one diamond may be defeated for as much as the value of any game you might have.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ 6 4 3 ♥ A K J 7 4 ♦ K 10 3 ♣ K 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. It would be improper to bid three no trump, which in this sequence would indicate the inability to make a constructive bid. Actually you have distinctly more than a minimum, which you have so far advertised, and partner has made a vigorous slam try. He must be interested in the king of clubs.

Q. 3—You are vulnerable, opponents not, and as South you hold:

♠ A J ♥ K J 4 ♦ K Q 2 ♣ A Q 9 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South

What do you bid now?

A.—It must have become evident to you by this time that West is lying thru his teeth. There aren't that many cards in the deck to justify all this activity around the table. Your partner, vulnerable, must be telling the truth. All he needs is a decent five card heart suit and one other high card to make a slam. Since the enemy has deprived you of the normal means of conversation, you must pull yourself together and bid six hearts. You could step off on the way to bid four spades if you like.

Q. 4—Partner opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠ A 7 5 3 ♥ A 9 6 3 ♦ 7 3 ♣ A 10 5

What is your response?

A.—One spade. Some players prefer to respond with one heart on hands of this type to afford partner the opportunity to say one spade should he hold a four card suit. The important point however is that a two no trump response is not the best strategy. The no trump effort can be postponed till a subsequent round of bidding. The major suit possibilities should be first explored.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 7 5 3 ♥ J 4 ♦ 4 ♣ A J 9 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. You are, of course, going to game, but with your unbalanced distribution you would prefer to play in a suit if partner agrees. If partner returns to spades you will bid game in that suit. If he persists with no trump, you may relax in the comfort of having fully described your hand.

Q. 6—You are vulnerable, opponents are not, and as South you hold:

♠ Q 9 5 3 ♥ A 9 4 ♦ Q 5 ♣ A Q 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Double	Redouble	3 clubs
4 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. Or if you choose you may barge right into six spades. Partner without waiting for developments has chosen to show you that he has a very powerful spade suit and an unbalanced hand. His bid should not be interpreted as preemptive since he started with one spade and therefore advertised the honor strength for an opening bid.

Q. 7—As dealer you hold:

♠ Q 6 2 ♥ A K 9 8 ♦ Q 5 ♣ K 6 3 2

What is your opening bid?

A.—One club. This makes the rebid easy regardless of partner's response. If he calls one diamond you will say one heart. If he responds with a spade you raise to two. The objection to opening with one heart is that you will have no convenient rebid if partner should respond with two diamonds, because your hand is not strong enough for a call of two no trump.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ A K 8 6 4 ♥ 2 ♦ A 9 7 6 3 ♣ J 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Since you have more than an opening bid yourself and partner has opened the bidding and jumped, you should be willing to commit the hand to a slam. The suggested bid is five no trump leaving partner the option of bidding the slam in one of your suits if he chooses. Otherwise he will go on to six no trump, for which there should be a very fine play.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Deline Meyer, 709 S. Prospect av., Park Ridge.]

THE QUESTION

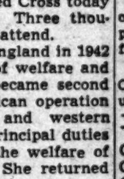
WHERE ASKED

Palmer House.

THE ANSWERS

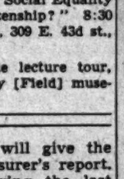
Ruth Johnson, nurse, Lansing, Mich.—I believe this rain in Chicago has gotten to be a fad and I think it's perfectly ridiculous. My girl friend and I came to Chicago for a few weeks' vacation and it's done nothing but rain. Really, there is just no earthly need for this much rain all in one place! And the temperature—brr!



Natalie Greenberg, bookkeeper, 6218 N. Francisco av.—Girls wearing sailors' jumpers seems very ridiculous to me. Another popular fad of which I most certainly don't approve is that of civilians wearing army, navy, and marine corps insignia, such as silver wings, officer's bars, chevrons, and hash marks.

Bobby Christian, seaman 2d class, Atlanta, Ga.—I don't know how this one ever got started but it's that much talked about fad of girls wearing dungarees. The boys don't like them. They are hot and unattractive. And girls look anything but feminine in them. I can't understand how girls can wear them!

Dolores Ott, dancer, 1637 E. 48th pl.—For many years women's hats have been ridiculed. I'm quite tolerant of all the dizzy styles but the fad of a big bunch of ribbon, netting, or a flower on the front of the forehead with a little narrow band around the head looks perfectly silly even to me. That one is just too much.



Joyce Nelson, nurse, Lansing, Mich.—This is a fad I'm sure will be a passing thing as soon as the war is over, I hope. It's women smoking pipes. I think that's going a bit too far. I wouldn't admit I was such a fiend for tobacco that I couldn't live without cigarets and had to get myself a pipe to smoke.

Luellen Bowles, Red Cross club director, Macomb, Ill.—I've always been annoyed by the display of pin-ups. I don't like the way it's been publicized that the American soldier can't get along without the pin-ups. We can't all be pin-up girls. It's not good for the morale of the girls on the home front.

Red Cross Leader to Tell Workers' War Experiences

Experiences in Red Cross work overseas will be told today by Mrs. S. Sloan Colt of New York, Red Cross deputy commissioner for the European theater, at the annual meeting and luncheon of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross today in the Stevens hotel. Three thousand are expected to attend.

Mrs. Colt went to England in 1942 as assistant director of welfare and a few months later became second in command of American operation in Great Britain and western Europe. One of her principal duties was looking out for the welfare of the Red Cross staff. She returned to this country a few days ago.

Preceding Mrs. Colt's address, Col. A. A. Sprague will give the Chicago chapter treasurer's report. Other reports reviewing the last year's work also will be heard.

Wise Parent Does Not Nag at Meal Time

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Conscientiousness holds many pitfalls for the unwary mother. Or shall I say, for those who are lacking in a sense of proportion, tactfulness, the light touch, and a sense of humor.

Overconscientiousness can actually trick a mother into the habit of nagging. And of all the parental habits that are most futile, I verily believe nagging tops the list. Children get so tired of it that they close their ears to it, or they resent it and may do the very opposite of the thing suggested. And where the nagging has to do with food, the failure is spectacular.

Take Betsy for example. Betsy is 10 and she's still a meal time problem. Friends of Betsy's mother say they dread going there to a meal, because it's, "Betsy, you're not eating your carrots—Betsy, you haven't touched your milk—Betsy, you know the rule: No dessert until you've eaten everything on your plate." And Betsy, who has been made very self-conscious by all the family anyhow, alternately pouts and preens thruout the meal. Yet at camp or visiting where her mother may not be present, she eats very well, not in prodigious amounts, but adequately.

Betsy is a perfect example of the child who is an eating problem solely because of psychological reasons. Her parents are intelligent people and have been told since she was a tiny child that they ought to let the child alone. But they just can't seem to do it.

Part of the reason is temperament; part is habit. Both these parents are nervous. And at first they were anxious because they had lost two babies, and so watched Betsy like a hawk. Now the thing has become a habit. It is obviously their meal time habits which have been at fault, their behavior with the child over her eating at breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

Betsy's mother, it should be added, is conscientious about her child to a degree, but it is not a conscientiousness which is tempered by a sense of proportion, tactfulness, the light touch, and a sense of humor. If Betsy's mother possessed these four attributes she would treat Betsy to a course of loving, intelligent, and wholesome neglect at meal times.

SOX DIVIDE; PASSEAU EARNS SPLIT FOR CUBS

Lefty Lee Victim in First Game

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 3—James Dykes' White Sox closed out their first 1945 eastern shopping expedition today at a pace that, if nothing else, kept them from being pushed any closer to the second division. They folded up in the first portion of a double header with the Senators, 3 to 1, because of difficulties with the Roger Wolff knuckle ball, but made amends for this by slipping across a five run inning for a 5 to 1 victory over Marino Pieretti in the second game. That made a record of 11 defeats against four successes during the hapless tour.

The first half of the day's show, run off before 16,293 customers who at one stage indicated a lack of patience by tossing a couple of missiles at Umpire Bill Grieve, was a very neat duel for seven innings between the Wolff knuckle ball and Thornton Lee's southpawing. But as soon as the Sox were presented with a complimentary run in the eighth Lee discovered his trick bag empty. The Senators nailed him for three decisive runs in the same inning.

Balk Starts Pieretti's Trouble

Pieretti's second game troubles began with a balk and ended with the Italian no longer among those present. Enraged over the fact that he should be accused of such a mistake he blew up like a toy balloon and when he wasn't dodging hits he was trying to speak harshly to Umpire Grieve. He was yanked after he had been plastered with five hits. It was while he was on his way to the cooler that the couple of missiles sailed out from behind home plate. Meanwhile, Johnny Humphries was as steady as a watch while compiling his second victory.

Two were out in the eighth inning of the first game before the Senators developed the big hearted streak which for a few moments had the Sox thinking they were about to win a ball game. Kerby Farrell sailed a fly ball to right center, but nothing was done about catching the thing so it went into the books as a triple. An instant later Rick Ferrell let one of the tricky Wolff knuckle ball pitches escape and Farrell dashed home.

Caldwell Replaces Lee

The disastrous home eighth began with Walter Chipple singling to make amends for his part in the confusion over Farrell's fly ball. Wolff fanned, but Case, the other offender in the Farrell incident, doubled to left. Then Kuhel delivered the knockout punch with a single that drove in the two runners. Torres walked and the weeping Lee was quickly withdrawn for Caldwell. Vaughn hit the rescuer for a single, sending in Kuhel with the last run.

The run with which the Senators opened the second game was mainly a matter of sunblindness. Torres doubled after a double killing on Kuhel's grounder had erased the possible value of a single by Case. Vaughn followed with a fly to left and Dickshot fully intended to make the catch but instead of his getting the ball in his glove, the ball got him on the shoulder for a double, Torres scoring.

Pieretti's inglorious blowup in the fourth was promoted by Moses and Farrell who led with singles. It was while trying to catch one of these off base that Pieretti balked. Dickshot then singled, Moses scoring. Curtright doubled and Farrell registered. The tune changed slightly when Floyd Baker, who was filling in for Tony Cuccinello at third, drew a pass loading the bases. Dickshot scored the third run of the inning while Schalk was forcing Baker. Curtright scored on Cliff's fumble of Michaels' roller. Then Tresh singled in the fifth run.

MAZAR HURLS NO HIT GAME FOR RED BIRDS

Columbus, O., June 3 (AP)—Pete Mazar, 20 year old left hander up from Allentown of the Interstate league, turned in the second no hit no run game of the 1945 American association season today as he hurled Columbus to a 4 to 0 victory over Kansas City in the first game of a double header.

THE All-America conference may still have no football, as Commissioner Elmer Layden of the National league recently suggested, but it has an array of players who can go places with a ball. . . . The rapidly growing list includes Chicago's Billy Hillenbrand of Indiana and Don Griffin of Illinois, Cleveland's Creighton Miller of Notre Dame, Otto Graham of Northwestern, Eddie Prokop of Georgia Tech, and Dippy Evans of Notre Dame. Buffalo's Paul Governali of Columbia. Los Angeles' Angelo Bertelli of Notre Dame, and New York's Bill Daley of Minnesota, and Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa. . . . The management of the various All-America clubs obviously believes in taking care of first things first. . . . Bill Werber, former major leaguer, now a successful insurance agent, has authored a book called "One Man's Wealth." . . . There were no individual records broken in this year's Southeastern conference track meet, but Georgia Tech set a new mark for team total with 92¾ points. . . . A Tip on Tipperary

You can tell your heart, "Be wary!"
When you go to Tipperary,
For the colleens there have subtle charms that take you unaware;
There is nothing so beguiling
As a Thuries lassie's smiling
And, before you realize it, she has caught you in her snare.

Sure her laughter's like the fountains
Springing up from cool, green mountains
And its merry undulation sets the heart of you athrill;
And the perfume of her tresses
With the warmth of her caresses
Make you linger in her company almost against your will.

O, I met my charming Mary
Down in Nenagh, Tipperary
And, before I was aware of it she stole my heart away;
I had not the means to marry
And I didn't want to tarry
But before I got away from her we set the wedding day.

So I warn you to be wary
When you go to Tipperary
And to wear a pair of blinders when the girls dance on the green,
If you'd like to be returning
To the home fires you left burning
Without having on the arm of you a beautiful colleen. —T. E. B.

RIGHT ANSWERS DIDN'T COME UP IN DERBY TEST

Eastern Horses May Solve Question

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Louisville, Ky., June 3—Yesterday's $10,000 added Blue Grass stakes at Churchill Downs, final preparatory test for western Kentucky Derby hopefuls which was won by Mrs. G. W. Lewis' neglected Darby Dieppe, apparently proved little or nothing. At least that is the way the Kentucky hardboots feel after seeing 10 of the best 3 year olds in training here toss previous form aside and scramble all over the track for the mile and one-eighth event.

Darien Is Withdrawn

Darby Dieppe, a grey colt by Foray II.-La Croma and trained by the capable Charley Gentry, didn't run a bad race but profited by a couple of jams into which better regarded thorobreds headed and from which they failed to recover. So today the list of probable starters for the $75,000 added attraction next Saturday remains just about as it was before Darby Dieppe's victory. Only the Indian Rocks stable's Darien, which finished last, has been withdrawn.

Altho yesterday's triumph was Darby Dieppe's third straight, it didn't convince the owners of the second place Fighting Step, the third place Air Sailor, Burning Dream, E. R. Bradley's hope for his fifth Derby conquest, Best Effort, Bymeabond, Foreign Agent, Sea Swallow, and Pot O' Luck that the Lewis' entrant was by any manner of means the better horse.

Didn't Narrow Field

The Blue Grass, instead of cutting the field for the important seventh race next Saturday afternoon, only assured the public that post time for the Derby will find a field of perhaps 14 or 15 on parade. What the 21st running of the Blue Grass did do, however, was raise the stock of the three eastern stars, Hoop Jr., winner of one division of the recent Wood memorial; Jeep, winner of the other, and Alexis, which won two races at Pimlico and then placed second to Hoop Jr. in his division of the Wood.

The nine survivors of the Blue Grass and the three easterners also may find three or four others willing to accept the challenge next Saturday. There is, for instance, Leon Tikulski's Icangetit which has been racing at Lincoln Fields and on his 2 and 3 year old form deserves a crack at the Derby altho he's only gone three-quarters of a mile in competition this season and the Derby distance is a mile and a quarter. Then there is Bob Mann, Joe's Choice, Bergolater, and Misweet, the only filly candidate.

Suffer from Interference

Burning Dream and Sea Swallow, Charles S. Howard's son of Seabiscuit, suffered most from interference in the running of the Blue Grass, particularly when J. K. Houssels' Bymeabond swerved out as the pack neared the eighth pole. Neither recovered. The Lookout stock farm's Foreign Agent also had poor racing luck as did the Murlogg farm's Fighting Step and Calumet's Pot o' Luck, but these two came gamely on in the stretch.

The race was the first long test for most of the contestants and the time of 1:53 2-5 was not impressive, but still it wasn't bad for a track that changed from slow to good by post time.

LIST $650,000 RACE PROGRAM FOR TWO TRACKS

The Arlington Park and Washington Park Jockey clubs yesterday announced the richest stake program in their history. Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of both tracks, outlined a schedule of 27 events carrying a total value of $650,000 in added money. These will be run during the coördinated meeting at Washington Park June 25 thru Sept. 6.

The schedule is headed by five $50,000 events—the Arlington Classic, American derby, Stars and Stripes handicap, Arlington handicap, and Washington Park handicap.

Increase Equipoise Purse.

The Equipoise mile has been scheduled for the July 4 holiday program and its value has been increased from $10,000 to $25,000. The $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap, traditional July 4 feature, has been moved back to Saturday, July 21.

In the 3 year old division, the Classic and the American derby will be supplemented by the seven furlong $15,000 Skokie handicap and the Dick Welles mile. The value of the Dick Welles has been raised to $25,000. It has been scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 11.

Arlington Park and Washington Park have consistently aimed to develop races for fillies and mares. This program includes the $30,000 Beverly handicap, the $20,000 Matron stakes and the $15,000 Modesty handicap. For 3 year old fillies exclusively there are the Princess Doreen stakes and the Cleopatra handicap, each with $15,000 purses. The Lassie stakes and the Princess Pat, each of which will gross approximately $45,000, will bring out some of the nation's best juvenile fillies.

Schedule Handicap Sept. 3

The Arlington Futurity and the Washington Park Futurity have been increased in value to $30,000 in

A'S WIN FROM BROWNS, 3-1; TIE 2D, 0-0, IN 13TH

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3 (AP)—Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew today broke up a sensational 13 inning scoreless battle between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns after Russ Christopher hurled the Athletics to a 3 to 1 victory, his eighth of the season, in the opener of a double header.

A crowd of 25,151 saw the Browns' leadoff hitter, Don Gutteridge smash a home run in the first inning of the opener for the American league champions' only score in 22 innings.

Buck Newsom and Tex Shirley battled seven innings of the second, Newsom yielding only two hits until an infected finger forced him from the game. Joe Berry and Steve Gerkin followed him to the mound and gave up four hits in the last six innings. Shirley went the route.

HOLDS BRAVES TO PAIR OF HITS IN 3-1 TRIUMPH

Henry Wyse Loses Opener, 2 to 1

BY EDWARD BURNS

Claude Passeau made three hits yesterday in the second game of the Cubs' double header with the Boston Braves which was more than he yielded to the entire Braves' team in achieving a 3 to 1 victory, his third of the season. Inasmuch as he saw Hank Wyse lose the first game, 2 to 1, tho the Braves made only five singles to a triple and 10 singles by the Cubs, Claude perhaps realized it was necessary to pitch an almost perfect game and bat 1.000 himself to be assured of victory.

Passeau wasn't so terribly far from a perfect game. Not a runner got on base until two were out in the fifth, when Phil Masi singled. Then Claude struck out Frankie Drews, Masi thus became the only Brave to be left on base. In the sixth Jim Tobin, the losing pitcher, doubled with one down, got to third on a highly technical balk, and scored on an infield out.

Becker Plays First in Shift

Passeau issued his only pass to Eddie Joost with one out in the ninth. Then Joe Mack lined into an unassisted double play by Heinz Becker, who played on defense during both games for the first time this year, in a shift which sent Capt. Phil Cavarretta to left field.

The two games were played in 1:48 and 1:41, welcome speed perhaps, for those who were among those who remained to see the Cubs and Dodgers finish up their double header a week earlier, at 8:10 p. m. The crowd yesterday was held to 9,110 paid, by temperatures that remained in the low 40s.

The first game leveled the Cubs to even .500 with 18 victories and 18 defeats, even as the White Sox were being leveled to 18 to 18. The victory in the second game for each club ended the Cubs' home stay with a 19 to 18 ratio in their league standings, the same as the Sox will bring home from their road trip. In the home stand the Cubs won 7 and lost 5, with one tie.

Errors Help Braves Win

The Cubs, continuing woefully punchless as a sort of hangover from Saturday's 5 to 4, 10 inning foldup, hit safely in every inning against Bob Logan, one time Cub lefty. In this first game the Braves made one unearned run as a result of an error by Len Merullo in the fifth inning and scored another unearned tally in the sixth, without any of their five hits, on a lead-off pass, a sacrifice, an error by Don Johnson, and a fly by Clyde Kluttz.

The Cubs' well known inability to follow thru was emphasized by their flair for hitting into double plays. They hit into four without causing any exertion by Boston infielders.

The fluttery Chicagoans did not get a runner to second base until the seventh. In that inning Cavarretta knocked a triple with one down and scored on Andy Pafko's infield hit. Pafko went to third on Bill Nicholson's third straight hit, a single to right. Mickey Livingston, who previously had grounded into two double plays, walked, loading the bases with one out. With the potential tying run on third and the potential winning run on second, Merullo lined

Chicago Area Athletes Star in London Meet

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 3—Chicagoland athletes turned in stellar performances today in service men's United Kingdom title track meet before a crowd of 12,000 in White City stadium.

The two most outstanding performers were Corp. Horace Mamala of Hammond, Ind., former Indiana university football and basketball star, and Capt. Emil Moldes of Akron, O., former Ohio State star.

With victory in the shot put at 47 feet 10 inches, a second in the discus, and a third in the hammer throw, Moldes led the 3d air division of the 8th air force to the team title. Mamala paced the G-25 Supply depot to fourth place by scoring almost all the team's points with a victory in the 220 yard dash at 22.4 seconds and second place in the 100 yard dash. Mamala previously had led the G-25 basketball team to the United Kingdom title and also played on the football team.

Other Chicagoland contestants included Sgt. Robert Little, Shawano, Wis., winner of the 120 yard high hurdles in 16.7 seconds; Staff Sgt. Walter Souder, Indianola, Ia., third in high hurdles, winner of 220 yard low hurdles in 26.4 seconds, and member of the 3d Air division's relay team which won the half mile in 1:35, and Corp. Corby Davis, former Indiana and National Football league star, who threw the javelin 173 feet to place third.

The meet was covered for the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, by Sgt. Tony Cardaro, Des Moines, Ia., newspaper man, who sent his regards to Wilfred Smith of THE TRIBUNE sports staff with whom he has covered many Tribune sponsored events.

PIRATES WIN IN 10TH

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 3 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates scored their 12th conquest in their last 14 games with a 7 to 6 triumph in 10 innings over the lowly Philadelphia Phillies in the first game but trailed, 11 to 9, in the second game of today's double header which was called at 7 p. m. because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law.

The game will be concluded when the Phils return July 12, with play resuming as of the beginning of the seventh inning.

Catcher Spud Davis' single to center, scoring Jim Russell from second, gave the Pirates the winning run in the first game.

Viking Wins 1st Columbia Yacht Race

Willis C. Ware, former commodore of the Columbia Yacht club, won the club's first race of the spring series yesterday in his 27 foot sloop Viking. Four of the club's Tumlaren class fleet, including Viking, were the only yachts to race on the lake front.

Frozen Spray Hits Crew

Seas running an estimated 12 to 14 feet high were encountered during the 12 mile triangular race held by Columbia off Chicago harbor. The wind was reported by Commodore Ware to be moderate, around 25 miles per hour, but so cold it nearly froze the spray striking the crew.

Commodore Ware misjudged the starting signals of Race Committee Chairman Tom Brown and was last to start. He caught the others and passed them on the beat to windward. His crew consisted of Don Campbell, Fred Black, a sailor stationed at Navy Pier, and Robert Galowitah.

Scheduled Races Canceled

Six Star class sloops of the Jackson Park Yacht club's large fleet ventured out of Jackson park but returned without a race after several of the 22 footers began digging into the high waves. Scheduled races at the Sheridan Shore, Chicago Corinthian, and Burnham Park Yacht clubs were all canceled.

VINSON DOUBTS JOB PLENITUDE MINUS U.S. AID

But Warns Freedom Must Be Assured

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 3—The government must assume the overall responsibility of maintaining high levels of employment and production because history shows that business, labor, and industry cannot in themselves assure this goal, Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion Vinson said today.

Fred M. Vinson.

Vinson, in a letter to Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], indorsed Wagner's bill to establish a national policy and program for assuring full employment in a free competitive economy, but warned that national economic policies must not be allowed to "develop into regimentation of business, labor or agriculture, nor of the people."

Urges Maximum Possible Freedom.

"Direction of private output by public authority in peacetime is repugnant to American ways of thought," he wrote. "Instead the maximum possible freedom must be afforded every producer to produce what he wishes, in the amounts for which he can best find a profitable market."

He said, tho, that creation of markets cannot be left to chance and that a start must be made now to find out what measures are needed to maintain markets and steady jobs. Wagner's bill is the "necessary first step from which a full dress program of economic policies to promote the well being of our free competitive economy will stem."

Vinson said that business management has a great opportunity and a great challenge to help create steady incomes and to actuate demand by expanding their businesses. Labor and agriculture thru efforts to increase production per man hour can contribute importantly to higher incomes and a higher standard of living.

Says Government Must Guide

But because management, labor and agriculture cannot assure the maintenance of high levels of employment, the nation can hope to achieve full employment only thru the help of the government, he wrote. The government must look at the economy as a whole and adopt "national economic policies which will actively promote and encourage the expansion of business and the maintenance of markets and consumer spending."

Vinson said it would be idle to pretend that it will be easy to reach and hold full employment levels, but "it would be folly to pretend that it is impossible."

"The American people will not be content to go back to protracted large scale unemployment," he asserted. "it is imperative that we find ways and means to provide jobs for those willing and able to work. Depressions are not acts of God, any more than wars are. They are the product of our man-made institutions and the way we organize our society. We can and must organize to prevent both."

STRICT CHICAGO LABOR RULES TO STAY—SPENCER

Removal of any job controls in Chicago under a new plan to remove them on local initiative is unlikely, William H. Spencer, regional director for the war man power commission, said yesterday. He said the Chicago labor supply remains "too tight" to permit ending rigid controls.

Under the plan, which will be explained in a two day conference of area and state directors beginning today in the Stevens hotel, recommendations may originate from the local labor-management committee or the area director and sent here for Spencer's approval.

The plan has been approved by Paul McNutt, national WMC director. It was formed in a Washington meeting last week of the national labor-management committee with representatives of regional committees. It is intended to produce speedier changes in man power regulations when such changes are needed to cope with local employment problems.

Warns Public Works Solve No Job Needs

The main pressure on the federal government to establish public works programs to ease unemployment problems resulting from cutbacks in war production will come, not from persons or groups in the areas most affected, but from elements within the government, the National City Bank of New York predicted yesterday. The bank indorsed a recent announcement of policy by War Production Board Chairman Krug in which he said such action in many cases would only delay necessary readjustments.

Krug said attempts to maintain employment in "war-boom towns" whose growth resulted from a plant with little or no post-war future "would merely postpone the eventual day of reckoning."

Prudent Have Big Reserves

Proposals for made work programs are wasteful and would add to the cost of government and to the inflation menace, the bank said. Their proponents also overlook the fact that millions of prudent persons have accumulated reserves of savings in unprecedented amounts to carry them thru a transition period and that the various states have accumulated more than 6 billion dollars for payment of unemployment compensation to displaced workers for periods running as high as 26 weeks.

"As between efforts to shelter people from inescapable readjustments, and policies relying upon government economy and individual enterprise to establish a sound general prosperity, the advantage is all with the latter," the bank asserted. "Special measures for the benefit of some people or communities are at the expense of others, while policies designed for the general benefit help all go forward together."

Commends Materials Policy

It also commended Krug's decision to avoid trying to decide what peace time production should have first call on available materials during the reconversion period. A scramble for materials may produce inequities, but to attempt to give all producers an even start or to decide which is entitled to priority over others inevitably would lead to greater inequities and cause intolerable delays in getting production of consumer goods on a volume basis.

"The policy of requiring manufacturers to rely upon their ingenuity and resourcefulness is the policy under which the private enterprise system has flourished," the bank asserted. "Those who would substitute government allocations should give heed to the broader implications, and ask themselves when, if at all, they will get rid of government controls if they continuously ask government help."

WLB to Hear Scranton Transit Strikers Today

Scranton, Pa., June 3 (AP)—Scranton's 400 striking AFL transit workers gave no indication today that they intend to return to work in compliance with a war labor board directive. The union local said it had instructed its officials to attend a WLB hearing in Washington tomorrow.

OTIS ELEVATOR

I should like information on Otis Elevator company, particularly its post-war outlook—F. W.

The outlook for construction of the type requiring elevators and escalators is considered better than before the war, altho not as promising as in the case of houses and small apartment buildings. Office building rental statistics indicate a high percentage of occupancy in war production centers, but this situation may ease in certain localities after V-J day as a result of reduced space requirements of the government and other factors.

Modernization of office buildings, department stores, and other structures is likely to produce a good demand for Otis products. Maintenance and replacement work is always a stabilizing factor in its operations. Also important in the outlook is the reconstruction of European cities, which should provide a large amount of business for the company, especially its English subsidiary. Deferred demands in other foreign markets, such as Latin America, are presumably a factor of importance.

Since 1941 Otis facilities have been mainly devoted to war production. Earnings have been stable, amounting to $1.10 a common share in 1944, $1.05 in 1943, and $1 in 1942 after renegotiation refund. In the four years ended with 1941 the profit averaged $1.06 a share. The annual common dividend rate from 1940 on has been $1. Outstanding are 2 million no par common shares and 65,000 $6 cumulative noncallable preferred shares. Net working capital at the close of 1944 was $26,140,262.

Belgian Stock Exchanges to Reopen Today

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 3—With a special committee of the Belgian chamber of deputies still debating Finance Minister Gaston Eyskens' drastic new financial reform measures, Belgian stock exchanges in Antwerp, Liege, and Gent will reopen tomorrow for the first time in nine months.

The exchanges were operated during the German occupation, but were closed down immediately after liberation to preclude cashing of excessive and illegal profits and gains made in collaborating with the enemy.

Expect Steady Rentes Prices

Stock trading will be resumed on a limited basis confined to Belgian securities which must have been registered in conformance with Eyskens' regulations. Interest is strong as to how prices of Belgian government "rentes," fixed interest securities, will hold up in open trading.

Four per cent government stock is expected to hold at about 95 on the Brussels market, where brokers say they have substantial buying orders.

Block Half of Proceeds

Under rigid control regulations aimed at suppressing profits made by collaborators during the occupation, 50 per cent of proceeds of sales of any securities acquired after May 10, 1940, will be blocked and held as a guarantee that the securities were legitimately acquired and not on profits made from the Germans.

Only those who had bank accounts before May 10, 1940, which were not subject to the blockade, are expected in the market to buy. Small security holders are expected to sell to obtain needed cash.

UTILITY IS GIVEN 30 DAYS TO MEET SEC'S DEMANDS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3 (AP)—The securities and exchange commission today gave American Light & Traction company 30 days in which to amend acceptably its integration plan. Unless amendments bringing the plan into conformity with the SEC's four-point program for compliance with a four-year-old integration order are made, the commission said it would propose its own plan for the liquidation and dissolution of the company and seek court enforcement.

Under a 1941 integration order, American Light and its parent, United Light and Railways company, were ordered to divest themselves of interest in Detroit Edison company, Michigan Consolidated Gas company, Madison [Wis.] Gas and Electric company and Milwaukee Gas and Light company.

Today's order followed the tentative views expressed by the SEC on March 13 when it advised the company that there should be "no further delay" occasioned by a proposal to construct a pipe line from Kansas to furnish gas to Michigan Consolidated, Milwaukee Gas, and Madison Gas.

1944 INCOME TAX REFUNDS START; RUSH PAYMENTS

Washington, D. C., June 3 (AP)—The job of mailing an estimated 20 million income tax refunds is under way and the treasury expects to finish the job sooner that it did last year, officials said today. They hope to have all the refunds on 1944 income taxes in the hands of taxpayers by the end of September. It took much longer in 1944, tho only 16 million refunds were involved.

Refunds of 1943 income taxes totalled 600 million dollars. The refunds this year on last year's taxes are expected to reach possibly 800 million.

Because of the pay-as-you-go system, nearly half of the nation's 50 million income tax payers now pay more than their correct tax thru pay roll deductions and must be reimbursed by the government after filing their March 15 returns.

People and Events

George M. Eason of Los Angeles will become president of the National Savings and Loan league today, succeeding Arthur G. Erdmann of Chicago, one of the league's founders. Eason and Erdmann will collaborate on a nation-wide program to stimulate construction of homes by private industry.

Butler Brothers has promoted Harold R. Schroeder from assistant director of merchandising to manager of its import division.

An emergency conference of the Office Management Association of Chicago will be held in the Morrison hotel Friday instead of the annual conference of the National Office Management association which had been scheduled but was postponed.

Godfrey Wetterlow has been appointed eastern sales manager of the radio-phonograph division of Meissner Manufacturing company, Chicago and Mount Carmel, Ill.

George Hedberg, formerly with Severance Tool, Inc., of Saginaw, Mich., has become associated with La Salle Engineering company as management consultant.

ASSERTS MONEY PLAN MAKES U. S. ECONOMIC SLAVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 3—Rep. Sumner [R., Ill.] charged in a radio address today that the Bretton Woods monetary plan will make American taxpayers the "economic slaves" of foreign governments and asserted that "we dare not let this cruel swindling bill pass congress."

She said the administration, in campaigning for passage of the bill, has "lined up a good many well meaning Americans and wilted down many, who at heart, are bitterly opposed" to the scheme. She said that the best qualified economists, bankers and industrialists in England and the United States have warned that its adoption will "promote and finance the inflationary and totalitarian practices of foreign nations it is supposed to prevent."

"This utterly unconstitutional proposal takes the United States into a world monetary organization in which on every important question debtor nations will have the deciding vote," she said. "In return for depreciated currencies of foreign nations, now of little or no value, the United States contributes good American dollars. Six billion dollars is our contribution but that is only the initiation fee."

Middle West Small Plants' War Role Big

The smaller manufacturers in the middle west have done an efficient job in producing war materials and have received a substantial part of the funds paid for war time procurement, George C. Payne, Chicago regional manager of the United States department of commerce, said yesterday.

The ability of smaller plants to convert to vital military requirements from civilian goods of an entirely different nature was particularly notable, Payne asserted in the June issue of the department's domestic commerce periodical.

From Lingerie to Parachutes

He recalled that a manufacturer of lingerie accepted contracts for fragmentation bomb parachutes, that a musical instrument maker converted to manufacture of gun turret controls, intercoolers for naval aircraft, and brass spyglass tubes, and that an automobile repair shop produced crane and aircraft gears.

Of the 92,872 contracts of $10,000 or more which the army quartermaster corps awarded last year, more than 65 per cent or 60,600 contracts went to companies with fewer than 500 employes, Payne said. More than 2 billion dollars were realized thru these sales.

Food Items Important

The most significant contribution of small businesses to the army, navy, and government agencies was in food items. The Chicago quartermaster dep

THOSE GI PANTS! SAILORS ACCLAIM CHANGE IN STYLE

Want 'Em with Pockets and So They Can Bend

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

The young lady in the modern chanty who loves the "bell bottom trousers, coat of navy blue" certainly sings a different tune from that of her sailor boy friend. To him it's just a monkey suit.

News that Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] has introduced a bill in congress calling for enlisted men's uniforms of the same basic design as officers' uniforms was greeted with roars of approval by the boys from the aircraft carrier Wolverine yesterday.

"Maybe we won't look like Little Lord Fauntleroys anymore," J. E. Beaumont, 33, machinist's mate 3d class, a big husky former Portsmouth, O., iron worker, asserted. "These things are too tight and too hot. Every time I bend over to put my comb in the lacing of my trousers, my underwear shows. 'Tain't dignified."

Designed for Climbing

The monkey suit, Beaumont explained, was designed away back in the days when a tight suit without coat sleeves, belts, big pockets and pants flies was necessary to climb the ship's riggings. "But h——, we don't even wear them on board anymore," the exclaimed. "We wear dungarees instead."

Queried on the chief complaint against the present dress uniform, the boys yelled in one voice. "No pockets!"

"I gotta stick my cigarets in my sock," griped Frederick Hawton, 31, machinist mate 3d class, of Peoria. "I look like I've got broken ankles."

"My darn billfold is too big to stick in my one little watch pocket and I'm always losing my identification card," explained William Boatwright, 27, machinist mate 2d class, or Ypsilanti, Mich. "You get two weeks to 10 days in the brig for that."

Collar a Big Difficulty

"I have to stick my handkerchief in my neck like a girl," complained Alfred Boquist, 22, aviation machinist mate 2d class, of Mizpah, Minn.

The long collar, which was originally designed to catch the tar sailors used on their pigtails, was the chief gripe of H. L. Small, aviation machinist mate 1st class. "The collar is always blowing up around your neck and the tie flip-flops around your face in the wind," be maintained. "It may have been used as a sweat rag in the old days but it sure makes me do just that."

Even the cocky white hat, originally designed for use as a bucket to bail out a boat, the boys would throw overboard.

"If you're working around machinery, you can't wear the hat because it gets dirty and if you're topside the sun gets in your eyes," Boatwright bellowed.

No GI Bell Bottoms

Bell bottom trousers aren't bad, the boys agreed. The only thing wrong with them is that the GI issue doesn't have them. Only tailored trousers [shhh! with pockets], which are against regulations, are designed with bell bottoms.

"These uniforms are murder for a big guy," concluded Beaumont. "You look like you're masquerading as a kid. And if you're heavy in the wrong places, there's no way to hide it. The only nice thing that can be said about them is that the gals seem to go for them. You bet your boots, we have no complaints in that department."

STORE LOOTED OF FOUR RADIOS

Jules Winkler, 503 Briar pl., told police yesterday that burglars stole four radios, valued at $186, from his store at 671 N. Clark st.

MEMORIAL MASS HONORS MARINES KILLED IN ACTION

Marines killed in this war were honored at a military memorial mass held yesterday in Old St. Mary's Catholic church, 911 S. Wabash av. Armed riflemen and a color guard participated in the ceremony. The mass was celebrated by Lt. Comdr. Joseph E. O'Brien, senior chaplain at the Great Lakes Naval Training center. Father Joseph A. Burns, formerly a chaplain with the marines in the South Pacific, preached the sermon. Col. Chester L. Fordney of the marine corps central procurement division directed military phases of the service.

CIO LEADER, WMC AID DISAGREE ON JOB ASSISTANCE

The CIO and war man power commission differed markedly last night in reports concerning the disposition of 2,500 workers who lost their jobs when the Studebaker aircraft engine plant at 5555 Archer av. was closed last Tuesday without notice to the employes.

While Michael Mann, secretary of the Chicago Industrial Union council [CIO], assailed the "dumping of Studebaker workers into the industrial ashheap," Lester Brown, WMC area director, reported "excellent success" in channeling the workers into other top priority plants where wages are comparable to those paid at the closed plant.

Failure, Mann Charges

"Those responsible for proper planning to take up the problem of cushioning our economic machine from war production to semi-peace time economy failed miserably in their task," Mann said as he left for Washington to confer with national CIO leaders about reconversion problems.

"While many governmental agencies and private industrialists have beaten their breasts and spoken of the great concern for the unemployed workers, none of them has really come to grips with unemployment," Mann said. "Some of them are even playing a game of economic checkers for the prizes of government built war plants."

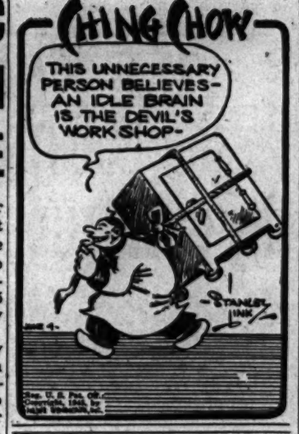
Mann said the Studebaker plant is lying idle while demand for civilian needs production is high. No coördinated program to keep these workers on the job and maintain stabilized full employment was made, he charged.

Labor Heads Meet with Mayor

Labor leaders, Mann said, will meet with Mayor Kelly early this week to request that he organize a community-wide group of business, labor, and civic leaders to deal with the problem of the laid-off workers.

Federal security agency authorities reported that some of the former Studebaker employes have applied for unemployment insurance. The report stirred Brown's ire, and he charged that because of the clause in the Illinois law requiring "comparable work" to be offered to unemployed workers, some are taking vacations at government expense.

William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, said nothing in the war effort is more important than that jobless workers with war plant experience report immediately to other plants.



Negro Observer Tells of World Peace Parley

Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, a professor at Howard university, Washington, D. C., who has been representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at the San Francisco conference, discussed the conference yesterday at a meeting in Pilgrim Baptist church, 33d st. and Indiana av.

2 MOTOR COACH DRIVERS HELD IN HIT-RUN DEATH

Joseph Zlotowski, 28, of 2459 Station st., and William Radtke, 35, of 1348 Walton st., were held by police for the inquest today into the hit and run automobile death of Russell Kowell, 20, of 5746 N. Rockwell st., early yesterday.

Russell Kowell

Kowell was struck at George st. and Western av. as he alighted from a street car with Miss Grace Froughberg, 18, of 2920 Washtenaw av. She saved herself by leaping as her escort was struck.

Zlotowski and Radtke, both drivers for the Chicago Motor Coach company, were arrested a half hour later as they were pushing a disabled automobile into an alley near Diversey and Western avs. Police reported Zlotowski, the driver, said he knew he "struck something" but did not stop to investigate. Broken glass found at the accident scene was from the headlight of the car the men were pushing, police said.

WOMAN ABOUT 65 DIES ON RACINE AVENUE TROLLEY

A well dressed woman, about 65 years old, died, presumably of a heart attack, yesterday afternoon on a northbound Racine av. street car which she boarded at 63d st. Her purse contained no identification. A fire department inhalator squad tried to revive her while she was being moved from the car to Englewood hospital, but attendants there pronounced her dead. The woman wore a blue and white flowered dress, a tan coat, and white shoes. She had gray hair and blue eyes.

ARMY WILL INSTALL RADIO SYSTEMS IN 38 OF ITS HOSPITALS

All army general hospitals in the United States are to be equipped with radio sound systems, the Radio Manufacturers' association has disclosed. The association is coöperating with the surgeon general's office in providing technical guidance to insure the most satisfactory installations. The systems will be installed in 38 of the army's general hospitals by the end of the year, the RMA said, quoting the surgeon general. L. A. King, a radio executive of St. Charles, Ill., is chairman of the RMA committee coöperating with the army.

Dinah Shore, a favorite songstress of troops, is off on a two month tour of military hospitals and concert dates. She completed her radio series last Thursday. She'll open at Bushnell hospital, Ogden, Utah, and will work eastward. Miss Shore will visit Schick General hospital at Clinton, Ia., on June 16, and will make an appearance at Chicago Stadium on June 22.

Arthur Church, Kansas City radio executive, visited President Truman the other day to discuss plans for a trans-Atlantic program to originate in part from the President's home town, Independence, Mo., on June 17. CBS and the BBC will cooperate in the program which will depict the life of the middle west for both American and British listeners. The President will not participate personally in this broadcast. Church formerly resided at Independence and knew the President and his family there.
